

FINAL ASSAULT ON NAVAL BILL

SIX HOURS OF DEBATE ON THE MEASURE FROM THE COMMITTEE.

IS TO BE UP AGAIN MONDAY

Hobson Fought for Two Battleships, and Said More Every Year Was a Guarantee of Peace.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Centering their efforts upon cutting in half the appropriation for two battleships, opponents of a big navy in the house today began their final assault upon the annual naval appropriation. When the house adjourned tonight after general debate on the measure had been in progress for six hours, the opposing forces compromised on a two-hour limit for continuation of the debate Monday. It was practically conceded that the bill, carrying $146,618,364, would go through without change except in the construction section. Leaders among the economy advocates insisted that only one battleship would be provided for, but the progressive naval policy men claimed to have enough votes to retain the provision for two.

Representative Padgett of Tennessee, chairman of the naval committee, who voted against two battleships in the committee; Representative Moss of Illinois, ranking Republican member; Representative Hobson of Alabama and Representative Lord of Michigan, also Representative Bates of Michigan, spoke for the bill. Representative Witherspoon of Mississippi and Dies of Texas made lengthy speeches against it.

Representative Hobson declared six battleships a year were needed to keep the United States in second place among naval powers and that two a year were essential to enable the country to maintain a serviceable navy. He said individual provision for the defense by each nation was only a guarantee of peace, that "there is no court to determine what is international law, and in the true sense there is no such thing as international law."

Economy Democrats in the house declared today that they were peaceably disposed toward the majority of the naval affairs committee, though insistent on a reduction in the bill. Representative Tamm of North Carolina, who introduced the economy program, opposed the bill. He said the committee had taken the cause of house Democrats. Mr. Hobson holds it was not a matter with which the conference had anything to do.

TAFT HAS BUSY DAY

LAST PUBLIC APPEARANCE OUTSIDE OF WASHINGTON IS IN NEW YORK.

Breaks Ground for Monument and Receives a Delegation of Red Men.

New York, Feb. 22.—President Taft, in making what is probably his final public appearance outside of Washington before retiring from the white house, spent one of the most eventful days he has ever passed in this city. Arriving here from Washington in time for breakfast, the president was taken here and there about the city by automobile and a tugboat, attending several functions as guest of honor, and retired late, planning to return to Washington tomorrow afternoon.

During the day he broke ground for an Indian monument, overlooking the harbor, dedicated a "light house" settlement for the blind after watching sightless children drill, attended a private reception of the Sons of the Revolution at the tavern where Washington read his farewell address, and tonight spoke at a dinner of the American Peace and Arbitration League, which presented him with a gold medal in recognition of his efforts in behalf of universal peace. A band of Indian chiefs from western reservations watched their "Great White Father" overturn a patch of earth with a spade, and at the spot where a sixty-foot statue of an Indian warrior, the national American memorial, will arise at Fort Wadsworth, the "red man" signed an oath of allegiance to the United States after President Taft in a brief speech referred to the North American Indians as "a force with great and immediate direct influence in the settlement and development of this country by the white races."

TWO DESERTERS FROM ARMY

General Jones Leads a Couple of Soldiers. Belair, Md., Feb. 22.—The "on to Washington" suffragists pilgrims reached here late this afternoon after a fourteen mile tramp from Havre de Grace. Although they found better roads today than those which they journeyed over yesterday, steady rain poured upon them for several hours.

At Churchville, where the army stopped for dinner, a council was held and "Colonel" Ida Craft was advised to turn back to her home in Brooklyn, N. Y., but despite the telling effect upon her of the hardships she has endured, the "Colonel" refused to drop out. There were two deserters, however, who are thought to have gone to Baltimore by train.

At a council before supper tonight the question was put whether the army should attempt tomorrow to cover the entire distance of twenty-two miles between here and Baltimore. By a majority of one vote it was decided to stop tomorrow night at Overlea, five miles from Baltimore.

Making Preparations For Inauguration

COLORS OF INAUGURAL SNEED CASE ARGUED KATY BILL A TEST

FLY NOW IN WASHINGTON AND PREPARATIONS ARE HURRIED.

Moving Picture Machines to Be Given a Chance at the Scene for the First Time.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Although the inauguration of President-elect Wilson is still ten days away, the city is already assuming a gay appearance. Buildings in the downtown section and along the line of march have been decorated with the national colors, as well as white and green, the official inaugural color scheme. Nearly all public buildings have received a dress of bunting and flags.

Beginning Monday the finishing touches will be put on all the reviewing stands. The president's stand, the central feature of the court of honor in front of the white house, practically is completed.

During the coming week the last meetings of the various sub-committees of the inaugural committee will be held to go over the completed plans for the various features of the inauguration. Then will follow the last meeting of the general committee at which the various committee heads will make their final report and to receive final instructions to carry out successfully the plan as prepared in every detail.

Moving Pictures to Get It. Millions of Americans will see this year for the first time moving pictures of the actual administration of the oath to the president of the United States. The strict rules which have heretofore limited occupation of the battery stand facing the inaugural platform to photographers representing leading newspapers have been suspended by the congressional inauguration committee and an addition made at each end of the platform to accommodate operators from eight moving picture concerns. The concession to the "movies" was made on recommendation of Superintendent James D. Preston of the senate press gallery after conferences with members of the committee.

More than 1500 special and regular policemen and detectives will guard the inauguration crowds during the induction of President-elect Wilson into office. Plans for this small army of protectors were completed today. Included in the total are the 400 members of the special committee having the police in charge. These, among whom are many men prominent in social and political life, will be sworn in as deputies and be given badges next Thursday.

A new feature of the parade was announced today when it became known that Baltimore and the remainder of Maryland would send a delegation of several thousand marchers, all of whom will be decorated with the Maryland colors, orange and black, which are the same as those of Princeton university. They will be given a special place. It was finally determined that Senators Crane and Bacon will ride in the carriage with President Taft and President-elect Wilson from the white house to the capitol. Vice President-elect Marshall will be looked after in a carriage followed by Senator Overman of North Carolina and Representative Rucker of Missouri.

DINNER TO R. M. JOHNSTON. Houston Press Club Honors Texas Editor.

Houston, Feb. 22.—Prominent democrats from many sections of the state attended the banquet here tonight given by the Houston Press club to Senator R. M. Johnston, editor-in-chief of the Houston Post, former national committeeman from Texas and named United States senator to succeed J. W. Bailey. Governor Colquitt wired his regret at not being able to attend. He is at Marlin for a course of baths. The attendance was about 250, who had gathered from all parts of the state to do honor to the guest of the evening. A number of brief talks were made by men identified with the affairs of the state who recounted state politics to some extent.

DEFENSE SAYS WHEN HOME IS DESPOILED THERE SHOULD BE KILLING.

Prosecution Says the Insanity Plea Is Flimsy—No Right to Imprison Wife.

Vernon, Tex., Feb. 22.—Al Boyce's love for Mrs. Lena Sned was justified by prosecutors of John Beal Sned in his trial for killing Boyce and Sned's lawyers justified his killing of Boyce no matter what the circumstances were.

Hugh H. Cooper of Amarillo, one of the private prosecutors, this afternoon said that Sned did not have a home. He said fine silks and elegant furniture do not make the home and that Sned's family lacked the confidence and trust that are essential to a real home. He said the love between Mrs. Sned and Boyce was true and that Boyce's only untoward act was his love for Mrs. Sned. He picked the insanity testimony to pieces and said that a fabricated defense on temporary insanity was all that Sned had.

"They tell you," he said, "that Sned was insane at the sight of Boyce, but that he is better now. I suppose he will be well when he kills the rest of the Boyces. They talk about protecting the home, but they do not support their sentimental appeals with evidence. You enforce the law and the homes will take care of themselves."

WILLIAMS AND THE GOVERNOR TO FIGHT IT OUT FOR VOTES.

Colquitt to Use His Personal Influence to Sustain Veto—Williams Argues Constitution.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 22.—Representative Williams of McLennan returned to Austin from his home in Waco tonight. He announces that after spending a week in careful study of the constitution he is convinced that the attorney general's opinion on which Governor Colquitt based his veto of the Katy merger bill will not stand. He says he is confident that the bill will be carried over the veto in both houses with votes to spare. The bill will come up next Tuesday as a special order of business. Immediately on his arrival in Austin he went into consultation with a number of house leaders in regard to the matter and it is understood that he has the assurance of their earnest support.

If necessary the governor will bring his personal influence to bear on administration supporters who are known to be wavering to defeat the attempt to carry the bill over his veto. That party lines and old associations are broken over this bill is shown by the fact that the strongest opponents of the bill's passage over the veto are men who fought for its passage on the floor. That Williams can influence some of these there is no doubt. He had a half hour's conference with one man tonight, who this morning loudly proclaimed that he was going to stand by the governor to the end, and after the conference seemed to support the passage of the bill.

SAYS HE ACCEPTED FAVORS.

Nagel Makes Complaint Against Immigration Official.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Secretary Nagel has made a report to President Taft on official conduct of Daniel J. Keefe, of Detroit, commissioner general of immigration, and has recommended that Keefe's resignation be demanded. The report alleges that the head of the immigration service has accepted free transportation for himself and family from railroads and steamships. These alleged acts were considered as sufficiently serious to be called to the president's attention because the commissioner general of immigration necessarily deals officially with railroads and steamships in connection with immigration cases.

It is not known whether Mr. Taft will take any action. He may leave the case for the consideration of President Wilson, in view of the few remaining days of his administration. Secretary Nagel will not discuss the case. He made his investigation and submitted the report some time ago. Keefe was appointed commissioner general of immigration in November, 1908, for an indeterminate term. He was formerly president of the International Longshoremen's union and sixth vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

Compress Practically Destroyed.

Columbus, Ga., Feb. 22.—Fire broke out in the Atlantic cotton compress here at 10 o'clock tonight. At midnight the plant, covering an entire block in the southeastern portion of Columbus, had been practically destroyed. The flames also had spread to the Columbus barrel factory and the plant of the Georgia Cotton Oil company, and indications were that these plants would be destroyed. Sixteen freight cars in the yards of the Central of Georgia railroad, west of the compress company, were consumed by the flames.

Texas Citrus Fruit Growers.

Houston, Feb. 22.—After re-electing all old officers the Texas Citrus Fruit Growers concluded labors and adjourned today. They meet again at Houston in September. Reports showed absolutely no damage during the past winter.

Shoots Wife at Quanah.

Quanah, Tex., Feb. 22.—George Wilcox, aged 23, last night shot his wife, aged 20, in the back of the head. The wound is considered dangerous. Domestic troubles are believed to have caused the shooting.

FUNDS OF STATE TO BE COUNTED

TREASURY AFFAIRS TO BE INVESTIGATED TO SEE IF MAJORITY ROBBED REPUBLIC.

HUERTA TO USE FIRM METHODS

Madero's Wife Appeals to Provisional President for Clemency for Husband; Little Satisfaction.

Mexico City, Feb. 22.—What may be regarded as executive sanction for an investigation of the national treasury, with a view to determining ex-President Madero's responsibility for any shortage, is contained in a message to congress today by the foreign minister, Francisco de B. Barra.

The message was agreed upon by the cabinet and president, and Senator de la Barra was instructed to prepare it. It was an outline of the policies the president said there should be an immediate investigation of the exact amount of money in the treasury. This is in direct line with the efforts of a group of deputies, who insist that the Maderos looted the treasury and should be punished.

"The revolutionary element," said Senator de la Barra in the message, "those who cherished ideals of democracy and liberty and for which they fought, will find in the new government a disposition to be frank and firm and anxious to aid those who have for their object the betterment of the condition of the citizens."

"The international situation," continues the message, "which may be considered delicate in some respects, though fortunately not grave, will be solved satisfactorily because of the firmness and justice with which the chancellor always proceeds with its affairs and because of the new government's disposition to be frank and firm and anxious to aid those who have for their object the betterment of the condition of the citizens."

Respect for lives and property of foreigners is guaranteed, and to Mexico is assured compliance with the promises made after the revolution of 1910 as far as they can be realized, and are just.

Carranzas Gives In. Greater reason for optimism tonight regarding the disturbance throughout the country was based on late reports, notwithstanding the activities of the Zapatistas in some parts of the south. Consular advisers from San Antonio, Carranzas, governor of Coahuila, and other states have advised the new government. He said that he found the organizing of a rebel army not to simple as he had expected, in spite of the nucleus of a thousand government troops.

The hostile movement in Yucatan is not regarded seriously on account of the distance from the capital.

Zapata May Yield.

It is still believed that Zapata may recognize the new government, but some of his men undoubtedly will continue in the field. Besides the fighting near Azumbra, another small skirmish occurred today near Contreras, 12 miles to the south of the capital. Troops were sent from here today into the state of Morelos, and it is believed that President Huerta will fill that district with soldiers. No one knows the situation better than he, since he commanded the army in Zapata's campaign when the consummation of his defeat was checked apparently only by the interference of Madero during the administration of De la Barra.

On good authority it is reported that Senator Limantour, ex-minister of finance, was offered to come to the relief of the government with money for its present needs.

Will Use Drastic Means.

President Huerta frankly threatens the people with the use of drastic means for the restoration of peace, if necessary. In a manifesto issued today the president appeals to all Mexicans to assist in the work in the name of patriotism, saying: "In order to assist me in my administrative labors, I have called to my side men of good will, without distinction of political parties. They have come without animosity for the purpose of restoring the country to the state of peace and order, and of restoring the guarantees for the rights and property of foreigners throughout the republic."

"I must that all Mexicans will aid me in this patriotic work, which aims at saving our very nationality, perhaps now in jeopardy, and of restoring tranquility to the country, which it so much needs for the development of its resources. And I also hope that the methods of conciliation which the government is initiating will suffice for that end. But if, unfortunately, bad citizens, blinded by passion, insist on prolonged strife or interpose obstacles to the government by violent means, I shall not hesitate an instant in adopting measures with the rigor that may be necessary for the rapid restoration of public peace. The welfare of our country needs it."

Pleads for Her Husband.

Francisco Madero's wife and her brother General Victoriano Huerta, the provisional president of Mexico, today pleaded for clemency for her husband. She left the national palace with no assurance for his safety, and she was forced to forego the consolation of conversation with the ex-ruler, whose guards are enforcing rigidly the order of incommunicado.

General Huerta treated the downcast frightened woman with every courtesy, but he explained to her that in view of the investigations to which ex-President Madero would be subjected, his fate would be in other hands, intimating that congress probably will render the final decision.

From the state of Coahuila and other northern points in Mexico, where rumors of dissatisfaction with the new administration are rife, more news have caused the shooting.

TAFT LEAVES 10,000 TROOPS TO TEXAS PORT

Will Leave the Cards on the Table So Wilson Can Play the War Game if Conditions Justify.

ARMY AND NAVY TO BE PREPARED

If New President or Congress Want to Take Steps in Mexico They Will Have the Forces Ready. Mobilize at Galveston.

New York, Feb. 22.—Before President Taft leaves office on March 4 he will have concentrated at Galveston close to 10,000 United States troops, ready to board transports there and depart for Mexico on a few hours' notice.

The president, here tonight to attend a banquet of the American Peace and Arbitration league, is just as much opposed to intervention as he has been for two years. He is determined, however, that he will "lay the cards on the table," so that when Mr. Wilson becomes president, if a crisis arises, his interest in the situation is regarded sufficient to warrant the concentration of a force strong enough to take possession of a seaport and open the way for an invasion of the country.

It will be for President Woodrow Wilson to determine whether such an expedition should be dispatched, although of course it is assumed that he first will seek the guidance of congress. Through trusted agents, though not directly, the president-elect is understood to have expressed his interest in the situation and has placed himself in a position to acquire specific knowledge as to all the details before he comes to Washington March 3.

Up to today the war department officials had contented themselves with the issuance of preliminary orders to two brigades of troops, the first brigade, first division, in New York state, and the fifth brigade, second division, in the middle west.

In the ordinary course it would require at least eight days and perhaps longer to gather these divisions at one of the gulf ports, ready for embarkation. It has been decided that this is a greater period of time than properly can be allowed to elapse before dispatching troops to Mexico if a great emergency should arise.

To Move to Galveston.

Therefore it was with the purpose of saving this time that orders were issued today for the entrainment of the entire fifth brigade, second division, for Galveston, the troops under command of Brigadier General Frederick A. Smith and comprising the fourth, seventh, nineteenth and twenty-eighth regiments of infantry; D company, second battalion of engineers, fifth brigade, second division; ambulance corps No. 3, and one signal corps company from Fort Leavenworth.

A subsequent order attached to this brigade three army pack trains, each of six mules, from Fort Robinson, Neb., and one from the Presidio of San Francisco.

Also to supply a sufficient force of cavalry to protect the flanks and reconnoiter, an order was dispatched to Major General Carter to dispatch to Galveston the fourth, or mountain battery, of the field artillery commanded by Col. Alexander B. Dyer, stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming.

Fourth Brigade to Prepare.

Orders were also issued to General Carter to prepare the fourth brigade, second division, for transportation to Galveston, but not to dispatch them. This comprises the Twenty-third, Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh regiments of infantry, commanded by Brigadier General Ramsey D. Potts. Meanwhile the first brigade, first division, comprising the Third, Fifth and Twenty-ninth regiments of infantry, commanded by Brigadier General Martin P. Myers, headquarters at Albany, N. Y., is also held under preparatory orders.

The three army transports, Kilpatrick, Sumner and McClellan, en route from Newport News for Galveston, where they will be joined at that port by the army transport Meade as soon as that vessel has discharged the 1200 marines she embarked at Philadelphia, early in the week at Guantanamo. This is believed to afford ample facilities at least for the first brigade.

Considerable expense is involved in today's orders mainly under the head of transportation charges, but the officials believe this is justified by existing conditions. It is believed, too, that the moral effect probably to be produced upon the extreme elements in Mexico by a demonstration of a disposition of the United States to deal firmly with any relapse into semi-barbarism in the treatment of ex-President Madero and his adherents will prove economical in the end, as to obviating the necessity for an actual invasion of the country.

Madero in Penitentiary.

Mexico City, Feb. 22.—Francisco I. Madero and Jose Pino Suarez, the deposed president and vice president, respectively, of the Mexican government, were transferred today from the national palace to the penitentiary, a member of the provisional cabinet said that probably no decision as to their fate would be reached for some days.

Water Over the Levees.

Melville, La., Feb. 22.—At a mass meeting here today a resolution was adopted asking the governor of Louisiana and Chief Engineer Kerr to come to Melville within 48 hours to confer with the levee boards of the east and west sides of the Atchafalaya river and decide relief measures. Convicts were called out today to raise the levees. Water ran over the levees on the east side below here last night.

Houston Makes Protest.

Houston, Feb. 22.—The chamber of commerce and other business organizations are aroused over the proposal to have Houston made a sub-port of Galveston and the determination has been reached to renew the fight for autonomy before Wilson, should Taft decide against the city.

Washington, Feb. 22.—About 4000 soldiers were ordered today to Galveston, Texas, and vicinity, the nearest seaport adapted to the embarkation of troops for Mexico. They are not under orders to proceed to Mexico, and the expectation and the hope of the administration is that it will not be necessary to issue orders for such a movement. The situation in that country, however, is regarded sufficient to warrant the concentration of a force strong enough to take possession of a seaport and open the way for an invasion of the country.

It will be for President Woodrow Wilson to determine whether such an expedition should be dispatched, although of course it is assumed that he first will seek the guidance of congress. Through trusted agents, though not directly, the president-elect is understood to have expressed his interest in the situation and has placed himself in a position to acquire specific knowledge as to all the details before he comes to Washington March 3.

Nervous Prostration Long Endured Before Remedy Was Found.
Miss Minerva Reminger, Upper Bern, Pa., writes: "For several years I had nervous prostration, and was utterly wretched. I lived on bread and beef tea because my stomach would not retain anything else. I took many remedies, but obtained no relief until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, when I began to gain at once. Am now cured."

STATE FUNDS TO BE COUNTED

During news reached the capital today. Governor Carranza of the state of Coahuila, who joined hands with Emilio and Raoul Madero, brothers of the deposed president, are said to have been unable to increase their following. Governor Villareal of the state of Nuevo Leon, father-in-law of Gustavo Madero, who recently was shot to death at the capital, has relieved the situation by resigning from office.

Southern Rebels Active.
The most active trouble with which the government has to cope is being caused by groups of southern rebels. One band of 400 men today entered the village of Ozuama, on the inter-oceanic railway and looted and burned the public buildings. A force of federal troops sent to suppress the losses were only slight. Further reinforcements have been sent from the capital and a second effort to dislodge the rebels will be made.

To an emissary of the provisional government, the rebels said they would recognize the government when it had adopted the plan of San Luis Potosi, as revised in Tacubaya. This revised plan is that which was sought a year ago to place Emilio Vasquez Gomez in the presidency.

VERA CRUZ IS LOYAL.

Conference is Held With All the Authorities.

Vera Cruz, Feb. 22.—The reported antagonism to the federal administration on the part of officials of the state of Vera Cruz was dispelled today at a conference here between Enrique Copeda, the governor of the federal district, and the civil and military authorities. Copeda arrived here from Mexico City this morning on a special train. He was met by General Velasco, military commander of Vera Cruz, and the civil authorities of this state, all of whom pledged their loyalty to General Victoriano Huerta, the provisional president.

Governor Copeda says that Zapata, rebel leader, probably will accept the new conditions. If he should not do so the government will immediately start a vigorous campaign against him and his followers.

of Madero and Felix Diaz was still in progress. The residence of Mr. Thompson, four hundred feet from the United States embassy, was in the direct line of fire and he believes the house was struck by not less than a thousand bullets and one shell. He found departure from the battle-swept city a difficult matter and once outside the city itself progress was difficult as the rebels controlled most of the trains and would not allow them to be operated for passenger traffic. The remainder of the trip was made with a team of oxen. When he reached Monterey he found the rebels held the railroad from the north. A wagon carried him to Rio Grande and at that point he was able to secure an automobile to take him to the American line.

TO INSIST ON LAND GRANTS.

Rebels in the North Must Have Assistance Says Lujan.

El Paso, Feb. 22.—That revolutionists of Northern Mexico will not lay down their arms until the agrarian problem is solved was reiterated today by Manuel L. Lujan, former rebel agent at Washington. A telegram received today from General Manuel Mondragon, minister of war in the Huerta provisional cabinet, authorized Senator Lujan to treat with the various rebel chiefs and form a truce with federal troops.

After accomplishing an armistice, Lujan will journey to Mexico City and lay before the party in power the demands of the rebels in the north. It will be proposed to borrow some 30,000,000 pesos on the public land of Mexico. With that loan the rebels propose to install at once a system of land grants and mountains of farming and ranching properties and may be secured on easy terms.

This is not only calculated to assist in greatly relieving the sufferers from the system of peonage, but at once to occupy in peaceful pursuits the rebels and federal volunteers, mostly men from ranches and mountains of the north. These men, now in arms, threaten a counter revolution directed against militarism. By offering attractive homesteads, it is hoped to displace quickly all revolutionary tendencies.

DIAZ IS ON THE NILE.

Former Dictator is Not Yet Ready to Speak.

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 22.—The statement published in the United States that Porfirio Diaz, the former dictator of Mexico, had returned to Cairo from his trip up the Nile, is without foundation.

General Diaz, who is still in his boat on the Nile, replied today to a telegraphic inquiry with the following dispatch:
"Luxor, Feb. 22, 6:45 p. m.—I feel I cannot express any opinion on the Mexican situation. My absolute aloofness from the politics of my country precludes me from doing it."

The proprietors of the hotel at which he stayed in Cairo, are in constant communication with General Diaz and declare they have not heard any expression of his intention of making an early return to Mexico.

WILSON IS TO CONFER.

President-elect Will Learn About Mexico and Panama.

Washington, Feb. 22.—President-elect Wilson is to familiarize himself with the status of the Mexican situation and the Panama canal negotiations with Great Britain at a conference with some of President Taft's cabinet at a meeting arranged for next week.

It was said today that the president-elect had recently kept in touch with both situations through third persons, but in view of the active situation he will be called upon to face when he takes office he has determined to inform himself directly by consultation with the cabinet members having important subjects in charge.

Taft is for Peace.

New York, Feb. 22.—President Taft, guest of honor at a peace dinner to which a medal was presented to him in token of his services to the cause of universal peace, spoke briefly of conditions in Mexico as he viewed them and declared for the exercise of every possible effort in avoidance of intervention in the affairs of that republic.

"Mexico for two years," said Mr. Taft in his address, "has presented a very sad picture to every lover of his kind, to every supporter of popular government, to every man hopeful of establishing peace under a stable government. But we must not despair. We must not in a case like Mexico—where it differs from the Central American republics—take such action as shall give them to believe that we are moved by selfish purposes to arouse them to oppose us. We must exert in every way that which is called intervention."

ANNUITY OFFERED BRIBE.

Suizer Finds Out Who Offered Money for Thaw.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22.—Governor Sulzer announced tonight that Dr. John W. Russell, superintendent of the Matteawan state hospital for the criminal insane, had told him today that "he thinks" the man who offered him $20,000 if he would aid in releasing Harry K. Thaw "is named John Anhut."

As a result of this information the governor said his committee of inquiry had issued a subpoena for "John Nicholson Anhut," whose name appears in a New York directory. If located he will be asked to appear before the committee Monday when the inquiry charges that Wm. F. Clarke, secretary of the committee, had used the governor's name without authority in an attempt to secure Thaw's release, will be resumed.

"Let me say again," said the governor, "as emphatically as I can, that no one is to be authorized to use my name directly or indirectly, in connection with the liberation of Thaw."

Negroes Lynch a Negro.

Drew, Miss., Feb. 22.—Willis Webb, negro, was lynched today by members of his own race on a plantation in a remote section of Sunflower county after he had shot and killed two negro women and two negro men. Today 400 negroes began a search for Webb, and before noon found him hiding in a cotton shed. With little ceremony a rope was produced and Webb was hanged to a tree.

Asks for Police Protection.

Beaumont, Feb. 22.—In reply to the city council's order that the Beaumont Traction company, whose street car men have been on strike since February 8, must comply strictly with its franchise in the matter of the operation of its cars, James F. Weed, vice president and general manager of the traction company, today advised the council that he had plenty of men and cars and the service was on, but if the city expected efficient car service it must give him police protection. There has been no violence thus far.

(From the Three Arts Club Journal.)
A well known dramatist, smarting under the influence of adverse criticism, met a certain very caustic critic, and proceeded to twit him with the fact that though extremely fond of finding fault he could not write a play himself to save his life.

SENATE IN SESSION TO PAY ORPHANAGE SHARE

BRIEF EXERCISES IN OBSERVANCE OF BIRTHDAY OF WASHINGTON.

Several Bills Were Engrossed and a Number of New Measures Were Offered.

Austin, Feb. 22.—All state departments closed today in observance of Washington's birthday.

The hall of the house of representatives was quiet, and only in the senate was the monotonous sound of the reading clerk's voice to be heard. There were twenty-two senators exclusive of the three who had gone to Gatesville to examine the condition of the state training school, and a quorum for a full day's work was present. After a brief Washington's birthday celebration the work began. The celebration consisted of a reminder from the lieutenant governor that it was the birthday of the father of the United States. Lattimore read a poem appearing in the Dallas Democrat, the paper of Senator McNeel. The poem, on Washington, had been written by Mr. McNeel. Resolutions were read on the occasion and work was begun.

The senate adjourned without discussion the Murray-Wehnert bill giving to Green and Weihausen the right to construct two dams across the Guadalupe river in DeWitt and Gonzales counties; also a San Patricio county road bill.

The bill of Hudspeeth and Johnson providing for the transfer of school lands in multiples of one-sixteenth of a section of land or forty acres, was engrossed, as was the Conner bill providing that where there are two or more defendants in a suit for debt, the suit shall be brought in the county where the latest defendant may live.

The bill by Johnson providing that there shall be a local option provision in the statutes as to whether a city or town or county shall have pool halls was finally engrossed after some debate. McGregor voted against the bill, saying that he believed it to be unconstitutional because there has been no express constitutional amendment.

The new Braunfels independent school district act was engrossed and the Lattimore bill providing that intoxicating liquors shall be sold only in legally licensed saloons went through without a murmur to engrossment. It is this bill which is aimed at the sale of intoxicants in social clubs. Lattimore's amendment, which provides also for the auditing of the accounts of sheriffs, district clerks and others. This bill is designed to protect the comptroller under the decision of the supreme court in the Rochelle case, which provided for proper auditing of all accounts.

Bills engrossed: By Vaughn, exempting veterinary surgeons of three years' practice in state, previous to 1913, from taking examinations for license; by Darwin and Astin, fixing terms of governing boards of all state institutions at six years; by Nugent and Gibson, preventing traffic in teachers' examination papers and making offense a misdemeanor; by Collins and Carter, prohibiting foreign corporations from removing cash from the state to federal courts; by Nugent of forfeiting permit; by Morrow and Warren, defining all killings other than manslaughter as murder and making penalty optional with jury.

Killed: Bill by Wiley and Cowell, making removal of sale of mortgaged property prima facie evidence of guilt.

The lieutenant governor signed the bill by Bailey to enlarge Harris county jurisdiction to include misdemeanor cases; the bill by Nugent and others to permit forfeited school lands occupied by settlers from 1907 to 1913 to be repurchased at price set by land commissioner.

Bills were introduced as follows: By Johnson, full county road bill.

By Carter, to permit public parks to be sold and streets and alleys closed for use by railroads on a two-thirds vote of voters of city or town.

The agreed amendment to the Robert's rules of order, permitting insurance companies to loan money to the state on the payment of permit tax applying to foreign loan companies, was set for Wednesday afternoon.

The judiciary committee reported favorably Watson's bill authorizing commissioners' courts to appropriate not to exceed $2000 for the purposes of farm demonstration work.

The committee on school affairs reported favorably the house bill providing for the election of the county superintendent by an election by the people.

Senate adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Total bills introduced in both houses to date, 112.

Total bills passed both houses, 23.

Total bills killed, 114.

RUSE WORKED ON VOLUNTEERS.

Are Persuaded to Stack Arms, and Then Overpowered.

El Paso, Feb. 22.—By a ruse, 350 federal volunteer troops were disarmed at Chihuahua City, according to passengers arriving here tonight.

Feeling runs high over the incident. Some 5000 volunteers, retaining their arms, threaten to leave the state capital, where nearly 2000 federal regulars are also stationed.

On Thursday, the passengers relate, a review of troops was held in the public plaza and the volunteers were decoyed into stacking their rifles. Suddenly regular soldiers appeared and confiscated the arms. In feeling between the volunteers and regulars over the result of the Mexico City revolt exists in other parts of the state.

As at Juarez, the regulars are in the majority and hold the artillery.

At the train's departure, it was reported that Governor Abram Gonzales and Alberto Madero were arrested while trying to escape from the city with a small group of armed men. Madero is an uncle of the deposed president and a wealthy ranch owner.

It is said they are held in the state penitentiary by order of General Rago, the division commander.

Public Subscriptions Will Raise the Money for Herring Avenue Paving.

Because the Methodist orphanage will be unable to pay its pro rata of the paving proposed for Herring avenue, and because to leave this portion of the street unpaved would mean an ugly break in a stretch of permanent roadway from Fifth to Eighteenth streets, interested property owners and friends of the orphanage will begin Monday a campaign to raise the necessary funds to defray the expense to the orphanage. The amount needed is about $1000.

The petition for the paving of this street has already been presented to the city commission and has been referred by that body to the city attorney to be investigated as to form and to Street Commissioner Gorman for his approval. It is believed that there will be little trouble in securing the necessary amount from friends of the orphanage, in view of the fact that the permanent paving is calculated to greatly enhance the value of the property and beautify the street at this point.

SNEED CASE ARGUED

When you consider the evidence and the law you will agree that the killing of Al Boyce was the most cold-blooded murder and assassination ever depicted by pen or in life."

Harry Mason, a Vernon lawyer, spoke for the defense just before Cooper's speech. He said Sneed had been harassed like a whipped hound by a very man who had despoiled his home and driven him from Amarillo, and that Sneed had to rebel or be killed himself.

The elopement of Mrs. Lena Sneed and Al Boyce to Canada in November, 1911, was justified by District Attorney Hugh Spencer in his speech to the jury asking for conviction of Sneed for first degree murder.

William P. McLean, Jr., of the defense justified Sneed's killing of Boyce without giving warning because he said, "He knew he wouldn't have had a chance in the open and he could not bear to think of his two little children after he was dead, living under the same roof with a man like Al Boyce, the despoiler of his home."

Spencer said Mrs. Sneed had a right to leave the sanitarium, had a right to go anywhere she pleased and to live with anyone she pleased under the law, for Sneed had no right under the law to place her in a "madhouse."

Punished Woman, He Claims.
"Captain Snyder, her own father; Henry Bowman, her brother-in-law, and her husband, all had forsaken Mrs. Sneed," said Spencer, "and they placed her in a madhouse to punish her for her love away from her children and all her loved ones and locked her up with insane people and pellagra patients."

"Sneed didn't want her back as a wife when he brought her back from Canada, because he is not living with her as such. He wanted her back just to punish her. Sneed determined that if he couldn't have her Al Boyce, the man she loved, she should die."

He ridiculed the insanity plea of the defense and said that Dr. Darnell's testimony that Sneed was irresponsible at the time of the killing "surprised, amused and disgusted" him.

He blamed Mrs. Sneed for the tragedy.

"Beal Sneed did not kill Captain Boyce," McLean declared. "Old Man Boyce is lying in his grave now through the acts of his namesake. Sneed is on trial for killing the man who crept into his home, debauched his wife, disgraced his children and has more than murdered him. Let's count the arrows that have been shot into the heart and brain of Beal Sneed."

Then he went over the troubles of the man on trial.

But One Thing To Do.
"Mrs. Boyce, herself," he continued, "said on the witness stand that she and Captain Boyce, Al's own parents, could keep Al away from Beal Sneed's wife. There was but one thing to do, and that was to kill him."

"Were the penitentiaries made for such men as Beal? If they were, then I want to go to the penitentiary and associate with home protectors."

"Whenever a home is despoiled, gentlemen, I say there ought to be a killing."

McLean scored the private prosecutors in the case, and commented on the little that District Attorney Spencer has had to do with the trial. He could keep Al away from Beal Sneed's wife. There was but one thing to do, and that was to kill him.

District Attorney Spencer in his opening speech to the Sneed jury this morning said that he, like everyone else, should sympathize deeply with Sneed in his domestic troubles.

Each side of the argument will have seven hours. The case will go to the jury Monday night.

Sneed went to Guy Waggoner's ranch, seventeen miles from Vernon, tonight and will return tomorrow night.

Blocks Appropriation Bill.
Washington, Feb. 22.—Because the conference report on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill contained a provision eliminating the assays office at Carson City, Nev., Senator Newlands of Nevada today prevented adoption of the report when it was brought into the senate. The provision extending the life of the commerce court until June 30 has also been eliminated by the conferees.

Christian Endeavor Entertainment.
The Christian Endeavor society of the Central Presbyterian church entertained the other societies with a social last Friday evening at the Central Presbyterian church. Being the eve of the anniversary of George Washington's birthday, many colonial costumes were in evidence. After a social hour the refreshments were served by the young ladies of the local society and were much enjoyed by all.

ARBOR DAY AT HUACO CLUB

Many Trees and Shrubs Are Planted on the Grounds of the Resort.

The Arbor Day celebration at the Huaco club was a big success from every standpoint. Between 150 and 200 members were present during the afternoon and evening. About forty trees were planted, as many rose bushes set out and innumerable vines and plants were placed in the ground.

From 4 until 6 o'clock the women entertained with a tea and received all the guests. This feature was in charge of Mrs. Charles A. Boynton, Miss Kilgore, Mrs. H. C. Richer and Miss Grace Prather.

Mrs. Edward Rotan had charge of the Arbor Day plans as general chairman of the working committee. She was assisted by Mrs. John Sleeper and Mrs. J. W. Hale.

All of the trees and plants were set out in the block directly in front of the club. Several trees and shrubbery of various species are growing there now and with the added improvements the grounds will be as attractive as any park without natural advantages can be made.

The Huaco club is located at the west end of Sanger avenue. If the street is ever extended it will pass through the grounds. In addition to the spacious park in front of the club the finest golf links in the state is located nearby and owned by the club.

SHEAR ENTERTAINS SALESMEN

Forty-five Waco Missionaries Represent One House on the Road.

The salesmen of the Rotan Grocery company were the guests of H. H. Shear, general manager of the company, at a banquet given at the Huaco club last night. Forty-five salesmen were present. Several were called upon to respond to impromptu toasts.

The real significance of the gathering, as one of the speakers mentioned, lies in the number of salesmen who are in the field. Waco concerns that is doing over a million dollar business annually has in the competitive field. He waved his hand to call attention to what it means to have two scores of salesmen working for one concern.

The banquet was given by Mr. Shear largely to get his salesmen together and talk over the problems that daily arise in connection with their business. He was given a vote of thanks and referred to often by the speakers.

MISS RUTH LENNOX.

Miss Lennox is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lennox of North Twelfth street. Her mother is a prominent club woman, being president of the City Federation. Miss Lennox has been the recipient of many social attentions, having been one of the house party at the Governor's mansion during the recent inaugural ceremonies in Austin.

Fort Worth, Feb. 22.—Miss Ruth Lennox of Waco has been selected as one of the princesses of the Fort Worth Horse Show, March 4. Friends of Miss Lennox have planned special parties in her honor, which will be given during horse show week.

Miss Lennox will make her first appearance at the coronation of the Queen of the Show at the Kirmess in the Coliseum on Saturday night. The Kirmess opens the National Feeders & Breeders' Show and the Horse Show.
Miss Mary Colquitt, daughter of Governor and Mrs. O. B. Colquitt, has been chosen Imperial Princess of Texas.

Horse Show week in Fort Worth will be the most notable and brilliant week known to Texas society. Practically every important town in the state will be represented either in the princess or duchess wing of the royal family.

Following the Kirmess Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. George Reynolds will entertain the royal family at the

THE HENRY DOWNS CHAPTER MEMORIALIZES WASHINGTON

The morning service today at the Central Presbyterian church will be attended by the Henry Downs Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, in body. This is the annual memorial to George Washington, the hero of the Revolution, and Rev. E. E. Ingram has been invited to deliver the eulogy. The choir has prepared music appropriate to this service. The members of the chapter invite all who have the patriotic impulse to be present. Especially do they urge the attendance of the children, since the inculcation of principles of patriotism is one of the fundamental rules of the Daughters of the American Revolution throughout the United States.

MISS SCARBOROUGH'S BOOK HAS WIDE RECOGNITION

In issuing her book, Fugitive Verses, Miss Dorothy Scarborough sent complimentary copies to friends in the Old World, men and women whom she met during her year at Oxford University.
She is now receiving replies and commendation from these. Among them,
Dr. H. L. Hargrove has written from Berlin, Miss Lee, lecturer on modern poetry for the women's college in Oxford, Professor Sield, professor English at Wake Forest, North Carolina, and Mrs. Boshier of Richmond. The last is author of three "best sellers" in late fiction. From among all the collection Miss Lee writes that "Spring in Cameron Park" is most appealing to her, and that she has never heard of a mesquite tree. Miss Scarborough is deservedly proud of the personal praise which has come for her book from such authoritative sources.

AUTUMN AVENUE MISSION SOCIETY IS EVER ACTIVE

The last meeting of the Austin Avenue Missionary Society resulted in some notes of general interest. The program was in charge of Mrs. D. M.
Wilson. The subject was one which came into vital touch with each member's daily life, that of the negro.
This race in native home and in local home was discussed. Mrs. W. J. Wikford gave a report from what she learned concerning what the negro churches of Waco are doing for the mission cause of their race. They are to be commended for what they are doing. Mrs. Bolivar Nettles made the report from the negro girls school which the church is supporting in Georgia. This is quite practical and along the line of making the negro woman self-respecting and self-sustaining.
They are being taught trades suitable to women, all branches of domestic science, to be trained nurses

WAR IMPRESS ON STYLES

Mr. Fromm Tells of the New Fashions for Spring and Summer.

M. Fromm, buyer for the Ladies'
Misses and Children's Ready-to-Wear Departments of the Sanger Store, who has spent the last eight weeks in the Fashion Centers, and who is now in New York City finishing up his Spring and Summer purchases, writes the following concerning the new fashions in Apparel:

"The Balkan-Turkish controversy has left its impress on the styles for Spring in many ways. Prominent among them are the Balkan Blouse, Suits and Dresses, which extend below the waist line, and then there are the modified effects of these styles. The new Silhouette, with stylish, clinging skirts, clever drapings and varied color combinations. The reunited suit is gaining in favor every day and the tendency of the new spring suits is to get away from the severe tailored effects. The coat lengths are from 24 to 30 inches, and the models are more varied and distinctly different from each other than ever before.

"The new Gowns are the most wonderful creations that have yet been fashioned. Those of Silk include Pompadour and Flowered Poulaines, Charmeuse, Crepes of all kinds, Fallaire, Broche Falles and Canton Crepe. The new Linen Dresses are beautifully fashioned with real laces, hand embroidery and nets. Then there are those of Charmeuse, Flowered Chiffons, Ratine and Batiste and Bolton Cloths.

"The new Wraps are fashioned of handsome Novelty Cloths, Matelasse, Pompadour Silks, etc., and are beautifully lined.

"The new Suit combinations are very fashionable, the coat and skirt being of different materials, but harmonious in effect.

"Silk suits are playing an important and other vocations. Mrs. Frank Allen was also a contributor to the Program.

It was decided that, since the attendance has passed beyond comfortable entertainment in the private home the next monthly session should be in the church parlors next Friday afternoon. The Mesdames J. D. Bell and Lee Nebbett have combined their circles, to be hostesses for this afternoon.

ANOTHER SOCIAL CLUB TO BE THE OUTLAWS

And yet another social club among the boys has come into existence. This is from among the college set, and is named the Outlaws. The object is strictly social, and it is intended to initiate a new member each week. The limit of twenty is reached. This will include some of the college set and some of the high school boys. In the vacation days the activity will be greatest; however, the Outlaws will have a dinner and dance at the Huaco club on March 5. The early summer fun will honor the return home of the school boys. The Outlaws pay the compliment of saying the chronicle of their gay doings will be furnished this department exclusively. The charter members are:
Clements Herbellin, Alex. Weymouth, Bertram Callahan, William Fall, Joe Tompson, Bira Adams, William Duncan, Leroy Hinton, Brice Bailey and Robert Evans.

ARBOR DAY OBSERVED AT THE HUACO CLUB TEA

In dual observance of Saturday, the members of the Huaco club celebrated an elaborate tree planting previously, and assembled in the afternoon to drink tea and talk it all over. As announced, it. P. Smith is in charge of the grounds, and Mrs. Edward R.
Trotter, Harry Hyman, Charles Sanger and Louis Davidson. In consequence, the Huaco club is improved by the addition of many trees, some for shade in the avenue between the club and adjacent buildings, and some for the purely ornamental. Mrs. J. W. Hale, assisting, has ordered the rose cuttings.
However, it is the idea that not all should be undertaken this season, but rather to test what will be satisfactory and to continue another year.
Mrs. Charles Boynton was matron of the tea assisted by the Mesdames H.
C. Risher and William McCall, with the Misses Grace Prather and Minnie Kilgus. The members, men and women, took occasion to gather in the club for the afternoon, coming and going. This gave the exchange of greeting on the birthday of the Fatherhood of our Country. It also afforded a ripple of the pleasurable in the quiet of the Lenten time.

SECTION OF JEWISH COUNCIL NOW IN THIS CITY

Immediately following the address of Miss Sadie American at Temple Rodeo Show on Friday evening, the women most enthusiastically over what she reported from the national work of the Jewish Council, met with Miss American at the Temple on Saturday and a section of the council for Jewish women in this city was organized. However, this is not complete since more are to be added to the part in the new spring fashions, also.

Falle, meteor broche, silk cretonne moire, matelasse moire, crepons, serges and novelty cloths are shown to great extent in the clever new suit models.
"I am staying in the market longer than usual to secure some of the later importations in gowns and dresses, and there are also some American designers who are to bring out later styles that I will secure for exclusive display and sale by Sanger Brothers. I am making every effort to assemble a collection of ladies', misses and children's apparel that will surpass in style and beauty anything we have ever attempted before."

In connection with the Paris fashions, upon which Mr. Fromm is waiting, the following telegram has been received at the Sanger store. It gives an idea of what was shown at the Paris opening of Callot Soeurs, one of the most noted Parisian artisans:

"New York, N. Y.

"Sanger Brothers, Waco, Texas:
"Paris Wednesday in their opening Callot Soeurs featured boleros and hiplength jackets. The majority have teen years of age, to be present and enroll. The annual dues are two dollars in advance, to be paid at the meeting on Tuesday. The women who have already responded are full of interest over what they shall accomplish and they cordially urge all to be with them and join in the promotion of the council. Quite a number were present on Saturday morning. The election of officers makes Mrs. Abe Frank president; the Mesdames Alfred Godshay and Dave Landman, vice presidents; Mrs. Isaac Simmons, recording secretary; Mrs. A. C. Toomin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Sam Freund, treasurer, and Mrs. Alfred Herz, auditor. The board of directors is: E. Fredman, Isaac Goldstein, Loney Mize, Abe Berkekan, Dan Wise, H. Schlesinger, with the Mesdames Esther Gross, Emma Beer, Nettie Haber, Charlotte Naman and Florence Hirschberg.

The above telegram shows the close connection that Sanger Brothers of Texas enjoy with the fashion centers and also gives an idea of how closely this big establishment keeps in touch with fashions in all corners of the world.

HOME FROM THE MARKETS

J. C. Daniels Buys Nice Things in Trimmings and Laces.

J. C. Daniels, buyer for the Sanger Store, Trimmings, Laces, Embroideries, Ribbons, Ladies' Hosiery, Glove and Art Goods Departments, is home after spending considerable time in

New York buying for Spring and Summer.

His purchases have reached Waco almost as quickly as he did, and in consequence the Sanger advertising today announces for tomorrow displays of New Spring Hosiery, the New Trimmings, the New Ribbons and many special sales for tomorrow of new merchandise bought underprice and offered tomorrow at prices that demonstrate the buying power of Sanger Brothers.

One of the prominent features of the new addition to the Sanger Store is to be a big daylight Silk department. This room is to be entirely covered with glass, making it possible to select silks under natural light and at the same time be on the ground floor, very near to the Dress Trimming and Notion Departments. This big daylight room is also to be equipped with new fixtures, including handsome wall cases and display tables of the most modern design.

Mrs. Copeland is Home.
Has Returned From New York and Will Talk Styles.

Mrs. Copeland, head of the Sanger Store Dressmaking Department, has returned from New York City, where she has been studying the new fashions in Ladies' Apparel. The Sanger Store Dressmaking Parlors will open tomorrow. Mrs. Copeland is ready to talk Spring Styles with the many patrons of this department. Those who visit her early will avoid all possibility of delay and disappointment in the new Easter Gowns and Dresses.

Unfortunately for the hostess, she receives her responses instantly and can proceed at once with her arrangements.
One acceptable feature in this telephone, the hostess is relieved of the embarrassment of "filling in" guests.

Here is an interesting little rhyme for the mothers. When was your baby born?

A Monday's child
Has a bonny face;
A Tuesday's child is full of grace;
A Wednesday's child
Is the child of woe,
A Thursday's child
Has far to go.

A Friday's child
Is lovin' and givin',
A Saturday's child
Works hard for a livin'.

But those who're born on Sunday
Are happy, bold and gay.
If you did not plant that tree or shrub in your home yard for arbor day, remember it is never too late to mend, and get busy.

The children can now have moving picture shows in their own home. The miniature machines are on the market.

Wonder just how many George Washington parties were in Waco on preceding Saturday.

It was decided at once that the aftermath of Miss American's Waco visit should be the organization of a local council of Jewish women.

Seats are to be placed on the riverside of the Old Spring when the weather becomes sufficiently warm for their use.

March, you know is the month which brings the winds. Remembered this and keep the strays penned.

One hears the rumor of a society wedding, but she dare not speak the names aloud just now.

If you have a copy of the Immaculate Conception, and it is so beautiful that it ought to be in every home, turn to the first chapter of the last chapter of Revelation, and see upon which the painter founded his picture. You know the olden times religion was taught through the painting.

If you are a patron of the public library learn the rules for its conduc-tion.

It is to the great regret of her old home friends that the visit of Mrs.
Thorndyke Howe from Massachusetts is postponed. It had been the intention of Mrs. Howe to be in every home within the coming week, but the complicated illness of the little son has detrained her.

Mrs. Harry Ogg is now in the former Montgomery cottage, 1115 North Fifth, where she is welcoming her friends for the first time as a bride matron.

Miss Rappaport of Chicago, who is visiting Mrs. Adelman, is one of the interesting visitors to the city. She has spent some time in Johannesburg, Africa, and talks very entertainingly of her life there.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Tupper, until recently of Twentieth and Sanger, have made their removal to San Antonio.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cortines of South Fifth are removing to Dallas within this fortnight.

A yearly salary of $7,500 is paid to the president of the Teamsters' International union.

MORROW STREET MISSION TO HAVE SOCIAL SESSION

On Monday afternoon circle No. 2, of the Morrow Street Missionary society will be hostesses in social session to the entire society. This will be in the home of Mrs. Brooks, Nineteenth and Barnard, after 3 o'clock.

FUNERAL OF MRS. SAMPLE TO TAKE PLACE IN CALVERT

This afternoon at 3 o'clock Mrs. J.
P. Sample of this city, will be interred at Calvert. It is expected that a number of friends and relatives will attend from here.

THE WOODEN ANNIVERSARY WITH MR. AND MRS. HALL

Among the gatherings of friends within the last few days, there has been much by way of pleasing comment upon the manner in which Mr.
and Mrs. Lawrence Hall of Sanger Avenue celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary, the one where wood is pavilion.

EVANGELIA SETTLEMENT HAS WASHINGTON PARTY

In recognition of the George Washington birthday, Miss McDonald, the new worker at the Evangelia Settlement, called in twelve mothers of the neighborhood for a social evening.
Games appropriate to the holiday were enjoyed to the fullest. Refreshments were also offered.

MRS. VIRGINIA RYAN TALKS ON GRAND OPERA

On Wednesday Mrs. Virginia Ryan, 1115 Washington, will give a paper talk on the grand opera which will be heard in Dallas. This is altogether complementary and Mrs. Ryan invites any who may be going over to Dallas.
It is expected that the morning will be consumed by the talks. In the afternoon the party will repair down town to hear victrola records on these operas.

DR. AND MRS. J. W. HALE RECEIVE DINNER GUESTS

In saying "Come and have dinner with us" to five from among her nearest friends, Mrs. J. W. Hale gave no intimation of what the event commemorated. Nor was it divined when the cordial welcome was given on Friday evening by Dr. and Mrs. Hale but when the seats were taken around the table it was evident that Dr. and Mrs. Hale were taking cognizance of their twentieth wedding anniversary.

The circle was formed from Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rotan, Mrs. J. E. Boynton, really not the affair of sufficient magnitude to be given publicity, except that the event is one of general interest to the hosts of friends, who are ready with sincere congratulations always for Dr. and Mrs. Hale.

THE NUMBER TWO SOCIETY HAS ENJOYABLE MEETING

The last regular meeting of the Number Two society was rendered expecially enjoyable by contributions from music students from Baylor University. The leader for this session was Mrs. A. Joseph Armstrong. Mrs.
A. J. Barton read the paper. The music, voice, piano, solo and duet, was rendered by Misses Beath, Heath, Leon Gamble and Miss Mattie Napp.

MISS MATTIE WRIGHT NOW IN SAN FRANCISCO

Among the recent notes to reach Waco from a distance is that from the former Wacoan, Miss Mattie Wright. The friends of her childhood, later her girlhood, still later in her work as deaconess, make all which follows the career of Miss Wright of abiding interest here. She is now in San Francisco, having taken charge of the city mission work there with the present work. Miss Wright is known as the pioneer deaconess of southern Methodism. She began in St. Louis and later was in Houston. Both places have homes which are a lasting memorial to what she accomplished.

MRS. ISAAC SIMMONS FOR MRS. L. H. GOLDSTEIN

As an especial pleasure for Mrs. L.
H. Goldstein upon the eve of her departure for a new home in California, Mrs. Isaac Simmons formed a bridge party of three tables for Friday afternoon. In addition, she selected a dainty little traveling manure for a friendship token for the traveler to be. The patronage of Washington and the national colors. These were prettily carried out. At the close, during the refreshment courses, the prize award was made, a silver picture frame to Mrs. Schenberg of Mart, in a cut among those who did not join the game. Those privileged this last pleasant hour with Mrs. Goldstein were the Misses Eva Davidson, Rau-

THE STATES UNITED.

States rights is one extreme; straight Federalism is the other. Between the two there lies a ground upon which the state and nation amicably join forces, and, forgetting that each is supposed to be always jealous of its own rights, promote governmental efficiency by co-operating. Such a phenomenon is evidenced by a recent statement given out at the Geological Survey in Washington. It appears that many of the states have appropriated money with which to assist the investigations of the survey under co-operative agreement. Instead of using only one state fund for independent survey work and instead of waiting for congress to appropriate funds for federal surveys in all cases, the states apparently realize that the practical thing to do is to make use of the equipment and qualified corps that the Geological Survey has accumulated and established for such work. For instance, one learns that California annually sets aside $15,000 for topographic mapping and $90,000 for the investigation of stream flow and underground water sources. This work is carried on in connection with the regular geological survey work under a co-operative arrangement. Thus the waste of duplication is avoided, and the people of California will have in available form practically complete information concerning their local resources. Thus a new and extra constitutional relation between state and federal governments is coming into being. The conferences of governors, called by President Roosevelt, was an ebullition of this movement. The coming together of the New England governors to consider sectional or semi-sectional problems was another. May it not be that before the next decade is complete, some political genius will have worked out a perfect mechanism for more perfect and less spasmodic co-operation in all public activities between state and nation?—Boston Transcript.

The editorial pages of New York, Chicago, Atlanta and other newspapers that have long been brightened daily by Mr. Franklin R. Adams's column of poetry, wit and rejoinder are now suffering from an hiatus in this, which we trust will be very brief. Under Mr. Adams's accustomed heading, "The Conning Tower," appears this dismal brevity of explanation:
"The saddest words of tongue or lip

MEXICO AND THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

Commenting on "the frequent references to the Monroe doctrine in connection with revolutionary disturbances in South American states and to existing conditions in Mexico," The Sun of Baltimore takes the position unequivocally that the doctrine, far from being a deterrent of intervention in Mexico by the United States, imposes on this nation the duty of protecting foreign interests, as well as its own, in the southern republics in which the doctrine forbids encroachment, and says:

It should be observed that the right of intervention on our own account, or in concert with others, is not dependent upon the Monroe doctrine. That is a keep-off-or-grass sign to foreign countries, and even if it did not exist we should still have a right to intervene under proper circumstances. But the right which we assume under the Monroe doctrine carries with it, even when moderately construed, some measure of obligation to others. The time may come when we shall have to define it more strictly or possibly to limit its application. It has frequently been suggested that it is an outworn doctrine, well enough in its day, but capable of becoming a source of mischief and danger now, under changed conditions, and that it may bring on us endless expense, as well as foreign complications. Public opinion, however, has not been affected, apparently, by these counsels of prudence, and the Monroe doctrine has held its own as the expression of patriotic sentiment as well as of statesmanlike policy.

The doctrine was a declaration of national policy made by President Monroe in his message to congress in 1823, and is understood to have been suggested by the British government. At the congress of Verona in 1822 the question of aiding Spain to reconquer her revolted American colonies had been discussed, and in 1823 France was preparing to invade Spain in order to overthrow the revolutionary government. The Holy Alliance, formed in 1815 by Russia, Austria and Prussia, and afterward joined by other European powers, with the exception of Great Britain, Turkey and the Pope, had come to be regarded with apprehension by the British government, and under Mr. Canning's leadership as secretary for foreign affairs it took energetic measures against the tyrannical principle of intervention in preventing revolution of the people. It was feared that France's intervention to overthrow the revolutionary government in Spain might be followed by an attempt to subjugate Spain's American colonies, the independence of some of which the United States had already recognized. The compact of the Holy Alliance, which had been originally dictated by the principle of self-preservation, had under the influence of Metternich become the potential instrument of tyranny, and the combination was regarded as a threat to free government and liberal thought. This was the situation which called forth the declaration that we know as the Monroe doctrine, which, before being submitted to congress, had received the approval of John Quincy Adams, secretary of state, and of Mr. Jefferson. That declaration was as follows:

"That we should consider any attempt on the part of the allied powers) to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety, and that we could not view with indifference the purpose of oppressing (Spanish-American colonies whose independence we had recognized) or controlling in any manner their destiny by any European power in any other light than as a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States.

This declaration is not part of our organic or statute law, but has become a settled part of our policy and has been observed by foreign countries. It may be a question whether it has not at times been stretched beyond its original meaning and intention. We have regarded with great jealousy even attempts of foreign countries to enforce contractual rights or to protect by force their citizens and their capital in Central and South American countries. This attitude involves, necessarily, a large measure of responsibility. "If we will not allow armed intervention by foreign countries on the American continent, we must play the part of an international policeman. If we will not let them protect themselves, we must protect them when they are clearly threatened."

HOME MOVING PICTURE ROOMS.

The Popular Mechanics Magazine feels safe in making the prediction that in the very near future provision will be made for moving pictures in the home. When a man decides to build a house to cost, say, $25,000 or more, the architect will plan the picture room in which the family and their guests can enjoy a select program of latest productions. It may be in connection with a dancing room or it can be accommodated in much less space. A projecting machine suitable for the home will not be very costly, and the films will doubtless be delivered each week by companies organized for that special purpose. Travelers returning from abroad will find pictures of cities and scenes they have visited a wonderful help in reciting to friends and relatives incidents of the places they have visited. Another new industry which will soon come into existence in all the larger cities will be film photography. Children's birthdays, garden parties, weddings and other functions which in later days or years recall pleasant memories will be thus perpetuated by the film photographer. He will eventually be considered as much a necessity as the orchestra. Undoubtedly one of the most acceptable wedding presents in days to come, from parents to bride and groom, will be a set of progressive films showing the children as they advanced from infancy to high school days. As a feature of the wedding festivities these pictures would afford both amusement and entertainment.

Our idea of nothing to worry about is the fact that there are no motion picture shows in Brookline, Mass.

"DO NOT PUBLISH."

It is not inappropriate to note an "inside" fact of the newspaper situation in Waco in connection with an unusually thorough and instructive editorial that The Fourth Estate, the journal devoted to the interests of newspapers and their makers, clips from the Louisville Herald and offers to its following with sundry comment on the familiar request, "Please Don't Publish." That fact is that requests of this sort to the editors of the Waco Morning News are becoming more and more infrequent, and those now made are reserved for unusual and somewhat personal occasions.

That is as it should be. Waco has emerged from the country town stage as much in the character of its newspapers as in any other feature of its progress and public activity. This newspaper—for, of course, The News can speak only for itself—decided at the outset that there was no reason why any and every item of legitimate news should not be printed here just as it is printed in cities of Waco's population many times multiplied. By legitimate news is meant an account of any matter of general interest in local social, political, governmental, religious, club, business, police and court circles that is not restrictedly personal and that is permitted under the State's very rigid statute governing the matters newspapers are "privileged" to print, as well as matter that comes over the wires and by special correspondence, the former, of course, being "censored" by the association that sends it with such primary restrictions in mind. We have hitherto printed a deal of comment on the impossibility of publishing a daily newspaper on the personal "friendship" basis as regards the giving or withholding of genuine news, and while, as we have said, requests of the "don't publish" sort have become less frequent as our position has come to be understood, there are still such requests and a word of reiteration will have its uses. The people of this and other communities served by the Waco Morning News are entitled to all reports we are legally, and ethically, at liberty to permit—that is our only criterion. And it is because every newspaper has the right to obtain and to publish reports of the doings of public bodies as well as for the fact that public bodies have no right to close their doors against the public and the press, that this newspaper has insistently demanded the school board abolish its star chamber sessions.

"A newspaper," as the Louisville Herald puts it, "with a sense of responsibility, will exercise a certain discrimination. There may be times and circumstances that justify suppression. Some happenings may in the reporting of them serve no proper end." The editors of this newspaper have that sense of responsibility and when suppression is justified, which is equivalent to saying that the matter in question will "serve no proper end" and may do harm while offering the public no benefit as a legitimate news report, they will use that "discrimination." But that is as far as this newspaper, and any newspaper worthy the name, can promise or afford to go. And that is why the claim that the school board meetings should be secret because there is "discussion of persons and personal affairs" is unworthy serious consideration. A newspaper with a sense of responsibility does not desire to print personal comment on the character of school teachers, and would not do so even if the libel law of this State were less rigid, or nonexistent. But political plans and happenings are of a very different order, and that is why this newspaper takes no pledges to suppress reports of developments in local politics any more than it would State matters that transpire. A daily "news" paper cannot be published on "confidences"—and no honest paper will violate the confidences it accepts with the full understanding that publicity is barred.

Says The Fourth Estate:

Every newspaper is familiar with the request "Please do not publish anything about it." Sometimes it is made in the form of a demand and accompanied by threats of dire results if acquiescence does not follow.

There are a few things, the Louisville Herald says, the public ought to keep in mind in the matter of a newspaper's relation to the printing of news.

In the first place, a newspaper owes an obligation to its whole circle of readers to print a fair, comprehensive report of the day's happenings. It is not its obligation to publish merely to please individuals. That policy involves an injustice to the many and favoritism to the few. Who shall be favored?

Much of the news that is printed unfortunately occasions annoyance and often heartache to somebody. That is an unavoidable incident of the newspaper business. Is there justification for shielding from such consequences the man or woman who has influence, socially or in business, while the many who lack it must be treated without such consideration?

Persons who wish to escape publicity should be careful not to make news, or should count the cost of advertisement to the world as part of the price they must pay for what they have determined upon doing.

There are certain easily-defined zones of publicity. The individual who steps into any of these may count upon getting his name in the newspapers. One is the courts, civil and criminal. The man who goes to law invites advertisement. Yet many men—and sometimes women—appeal to a newspaper to suppress reports of legal proceedings in order that they may be saved annoyance. The time to consider immunity is before resort to law.

Departure from the conventionalities of life is another means of entering the publicity zone. Conduct that is off the beaten trail affords news. Those who defy social observances or tread upon established institutions must not expect to escape print, and should not ask to be saved from such notoriety.

Further, much injustice may be done by the suppression of news. The tongue of gossip, uninformed of the real facts, may be jealously than publication of the truth will do to those actually involved. Often a newspaper is shielding the reputation of a score from the scandal of suspicion when it is telling the truth about one who has incurred the liability to censure.

A newspaper, with a sense of responsibility, will exercise a certain discrimination. There may be times and circumstances that justify suppression. Some happenings may in reporting of them serve no proper end. Of two things the responsible newspaper will be jealously careful—the good name of a woman and the reputation of a financial institution.

Both are of that delicacy to be easily hurt. The good name of a woman is a treasure beyond price, and a cloud cast upon the reputation of a bank or trust company may cause loss to thousands who are dependent upon its solvency.

But this lesson the public should learn—the way to avoid publicity is to avoid departure from the beaten track; and let this be added to it—if you have diverged into the danger zone the way to obtain a moderate treatment is to assume that you are a subject for news, and to take the newspapers into your confidence frankly and fully.

Such confidence is rarely abused, and assuredly never by any newspaper that has a profession of decency or has regard for ethics.

Fight Against Loan Sharks.

A year ago the Chicago Tribune conducted a determined crusade against the loan sharks of the city. A special legal bureau was established, and a paper and an efficient corps of attorneys placed at the disposal of the public. For a period of months thereafter, the Tribune in every issue disclosed the cruel rapacity of the usurer. The underground workings of the loan shark were minutely explained. As article succeeded article it was shown that certain big companies had spread their spider webs over the entire city. There are a few newspapers which are closely studied by all editors, and in this small group the Tribune occupies a prominent place. It is certainly that publishers in all parts of the country have learned of the insidious and fraudulent tactics which continued to appear in practically every big newspaper from coast to coast. What a stain upon journalistic honor is the operation of the loan shark, the operations of the loan shark would be instantly curtailed and the majority of them driven out of business. The money gained from the publication of such advertising is as foul a profit as could be imagined. No editor can demand the confidence of the community and the belief of his readers while he betrays his subscribers to the sharks.

Exchange New Award.

To the conclusion of the Hughes Commission that the Stock Exchange be given a chance to reform itself before the state trustees of the exchange paid no attention to the attitude of indifference, if not contempt, and the admitted abuses went on without effect at correction. But Governor Sulzer's message has stirred the exchange into action and notice of reform demands. The body of the twenty-four hours of the Sulzer message is needed to wake it up.

A Curb Was Needed.

Mr. Roosevelt may not be very happy over it, but he has unquestionably set on foot a movement for one of the most important changes ever proposed in our national constitution. The amendment approved by the senate limiting the tenure of the presidency to one term of six years would in all likelihood never have gone beyond the stage of abstract discussion had not the career of Mr. Roosevelt convinced a larger number of his countrymen that a curb was needed on the ambition of possible occupants of the White House.

Texas Viewpoints

Two Views.

Railroad Commissioner Williams appears to think that the duties of his position require him to eat railroads alive. In his published interviews he shows he has an entirely erroneous idea of what the people of Texas expect. He must get it out of his head that the people want the railroads crucified. What the masses want is more railroads and better service. The commissioner seems to be violently against the railroads on all propositions. The railroads of Texas are entitled to justice. Let them have it.—State Topics (Houston).

A somewhat close acquaintance with the work and with the character of William D. Williams has caused us to form quite a different opinion. We think he neither desires to "eat the railroads alive" nor to permit any such mastication of the interests of traveling public and shippers. We do not agree with the commissioner's views on the stock and bond law amendments proposal nor on the justice and merits of the consolidation propositions, but we are as thoroughly convinced that his views on these are the expression of an honest opinion, after careful thought, as are our own. Of course, we hope the legislature will give effect to these plans of the railroads, believing conscientiously that this will result in benefit to the State because the roads will be substantially benefited, and the interests are interdependent. We are, we think, keeping to the facts in saying that Mr. Williams's record of service on the commission is the best evidence that he is an intelligent, capable and useful public servant who knows his work thoroughly and is thoroughly just; he is an educated gentleman, which is the best proof that he is not a bigot on any subject—certainly not on the great subject of the relation of public service corporations to the development of state and community.

We have not found him "violently against the railroads on all propositions," nor, in our judgment, have the railroads, as the orders and activity of the commission, since his incumbency began, plainly indicate. He is respected by public and by railroad officials. That counts. And if "what the masses want is more railroads and better service," the masses are very much in accord with the accustomed attitude of Commissioner Williams, as his published interviews, generally solicited, also show. He has been earnest, above all else, in his attention to complaints of inadequate service; and if his opinion of the righteousness of certain projects is not our opinion of how the State may obtain more roads, we are not, his work and character considered, disposed to cavil at the right of Commissioner Williams to his opinion any more than we are disposed to abandon our own—though we will admit that his holding an opposite view frequently impels us to give more thought to the consistency of our own. That's what we think of William D. Williams.

When William Howard Taft and Thomas Woodrow Wilson exchange places on March 4, 1913, the ex-president as well as the president who will succeed him, will set a precedent. There have been other school teachers to become presidents of the nation and there have been other presidents to become school teachers. But no president has retired at once to a seat of learning to instruct the youth of the land. Grover Cleveland became a lecturer at Princeton in the late years of his life, filling the Stanford Little Lectureship, but he was not a full-fledged professor. Jefferson and Madison were rectors of the University of Virginia and Monroe was a lecturer at the University of Virginia. President Taft will fill the Kent chair of law. He is a member of Yale corporation and is personally acquainted with the directors of the college. The university is delighted with the idea of having an ex-president as professor in the academic department—for the Kent chair of law is in that department—and as lecturer in the Yale law school, and the president is well content to return to his first love, the law.

No Pension Needed.

(Richmond Virginian.)
When William Howard Taft and Thomas Woodrow Wilson exchange places on March 4, 1913, the ex-president as well as the president who will succeed him, will set a precedent.

There have been other school teachers to become presidents of the nation and there have been other presidents to become school teachers. But no president has retired at once to a seat of learning to instruct the youth of the land. Grover Cleveland became a lecturer at Princeton in the late years of his life, filling the Stanford Little Lectureship, but he was not a full-fledged professor. Jefferson and Madison were rectors of the University of Virginia and Monroe was a lecturer at the University of Virginia. President Taft will fill the Kent chair of law. He is a member of Yale corporation and is personally acquainted with the directors of the college. The university is delighted with the idea of having an ex-president as professor in the academic department—for the Kent chair of law is in that department—and as lecturer in the Yale law school, and the president is well content to return to his first love, the law.

Incidentally, Mr. Taft has settled for himself what is to be done with our ex-presidents. Neither he nor Theodore Roosevelt need a Carnegie pension.

Grover Cleveland, when president, vigorously opposed the "literacy test" for immigrants and had irrefutable argument politically, economically and sociologically to offer against such provisions for restriction of immigration as are embodied in the Lodge bill Mr. Taft vetoed and the house of representatives decided to reject because of that veto. Cleveland took the position, and subsequent events have offered no disproof of it, that this nation will never reach the stage when it can afford to dispense with immigrant labor in its development through public works, railroad building, the maintenance of city necessities. The Express's parallel of the conduct of a high school and the conduct of immigration is not, in our judgment, appropriate. It is not the first generation of immigrants that this nation seeks so sedulously to educate to American ideas and ideals of personal life, liberty and citizenship and government, and the results its educational system has achieved with the second generation have caused the world to marvel. The personnel of the professions, business and commerce everywhere in the nation refutes the "assimilation" warnings and arguments advanced by advocates of a bill that would admit a man if he can read and write regardless of fitness to do the only work poor and unfriendly immigrants can do. The children of immigrants have assimilated wonderfully; the immigrants themselves have found work on roads, in mines, in factories, mills and with the labor gangs of cities; they have shops and businesses. Not a single strong fact has been advanced to prove that "brown" and the labor of law-abiding men, regardless of citizenship, is not as much needed in this day as ever it was needed, "to develop the country." The literacy test is not a fair test; it is not a test of character or ability, the service of immigrants considered.

The Statesman Serious.

"Austin," chortles the second oldest paper in Texas, "is going to have traffic policemen. Waco, please take notice." Why should we? When Austin abandons its age-old habit of putting the cart before the horse and gives evidence of sufficient steady traffic to justify the attention of even an Austin policeman, Waco will pass it a mile of patronizing encouragement.—Waco News.
And Waco tries to become patronizing—Waco the city of long hoped-for and never gained Brazos navigation. Some day we expect Waco to call for volunteers from Austin to fill that 22-story building. Waco citizens can do it. If Waco wants to know what a traffic policeman looks like we will furnish Colonel Harris with a picture. We can not spare the real thing at this time. Our streets are too crowded because of the heavy business our merchants are doing. We have no business down here, Colonel H.—Austin Tribune.

We're glad of it, Col. Ole, "deed we are. We always have considered Austin quite the pleasantest hamlet between San Antonio and Waco, and it is gratifying the place has attained to the dignity of traffic cops and its progress to "heavy" merchandising. But if you're really going to inject a dash of seriousness into these "two cities" exchanges by The News and The Statesman, thereby tangential widely from the habitat of the sometime "paragraphers union" and the "independent paragraphers," it will do no harm to track the facts closely, will it? So, do you first inquire of the status of the Amicable population, advise yourself of the actual progress on the Brazos lock and dam construction and the provision made for this at Washington, and investigate personally the fact that there is more life and business activity on one of Waco's streets in a single hour than there is on Austin's one business street in a day; then look into the comparative values of reality, the progress here of building and home additions and leave your boast with a few statistics of comparative growth of the two communities. The offer to let Waco gaze on an Austin traffic policeman will evoke no enthusiasm, Ole, for we're troubles of our own. After all, Colonel, why get serious?

Where Horses Died.

(Ashland Daily News.)
"Had we lived I should have had a tale to tell of the hardihood, the endurance and the courage of my companions that would have stirred the heart of every Englishman. These rough notes and dead bodies must tell the tale. But surely, surely great and rich country like ours will see that those who are dependent upon us are properly provided for."

Such was the last message of Capt. Robert F. Scott, the intrepid British officer who, with his heroic fellow countrymen, perished on the eternal snows of the Antarctic region after his conquest of the south pole. Those words, which doubtless will be carried high in the annals of English name and fame, will make fitting addition to the famous utterances of other British heroes who have gone before, and they will uphold the best traditions of the world's greatest empire.

For centuries the shadow of the Turk hung black over Europe. But recent developments in the Balkan war game make this shadow appear as no better than a joke in the eyes of Europe and of the world. To overthrow a ministry because it had agreed to terms of peace; to utter many mock heroics about "death rather than surrender"; and then, after renewing the war for a week, to send the new "war to the death" ministry to the powers whining for intervention—all this is a thoroughly grotesque performance. The Turk has never been a success in peace. His war and his success in war have constituted his only excuse for existence. Now that he is a ridiculous failure as a warrior, as well as in the role of ruler of peaceful countries and peoples, the Turk has no reasonable claim to a foot of ground in Europe. The quicker he is pushed back into Asia the better.

Incidentally, Mr. Taft has settled for himself what is to be done with our ex-presidents. Neither he nor Theodore Roosevelt need a Carnegie pension.

Wireless Women.

(Boston Globe.)
If the unwritten rule of the sea had been "men first" when the Titanic struck the iceberg that April night (at 410 14 minutes, N. long 50 degrees 14 minutes W.) it would have been inapplicable to the wireless operator as well as to Captain Smith and First Officer Murdoch.

Mr. Bride could not have escaped into one of the small boats at the earliest opportunity. He would have been bound to stay by his apparatus so long as it was possible to send through it a cry for help.
Consequently there seems to be no adequate reason why the radio inspector at San Francisco should declare that none of the 36 odd women who have passed the examination for radio operators in that city will be acceptable in the marine service until the rule of "women and children first" gives way to a free-for-all in time of stress.

The female of the species is famous for fulfilling obligations. If her duty ever lies in the wireless room of an ocean liner overtaken by disaster, it is unquestionable that she will stick to her key, if necessary, until the ship sinks and the quick returning waters drown out the last note of "Nearer, My God, to Thee."
Rule or no rule.
Remember that it was a woman—Mrs. Strauss—who turned back to her husband in the gangway of the Titanic and calmly: "I will not go with you."

News Remarks and Replies

Moran Still Grouchy.
"Big Fire in Windy City," says a news headline. Probably a Waco office boy burned his money.—New Ulim Enterprise.

This Is Crool.
"People coming to Waco," in Waco, is the information given by a headline in the Waco News. A train must have reached town on schedule time.—New Ulim Enterprise.

Spare Our Jackstraw!
You can't have a club to spin tops. That is not included in the category of "Bicycle clubs and other innocent amusements." This is going to be awfully hard on Editor Harris of the Waco News.—Austin Statesman.

"Houston Proper."
The Waco Morning News inquires who coined the phrase "Houston proper." Don't know, but all proper nouns are spelled with capitals, and no doubt it means Houston Properly Propagates Progress—all proper nouns.—Houston Chronicle.

The Immunes.
Our old friend Mike Harris, tells us through the Waco News that the income tax will never affect him. We are inoculated also. So far as we know, Col. George Bailey and Tom Flinty, Jr., are the only newspaper men in Texas who are not—Austin Statesman.

"Normal Weather."
Normal Weather Predicted for This Week.—Headline in Waco Morning News.

Please tell us what kind "normal" weather is. If it is the usual or average, we haven't lost anything, as we've had our same weather.—Chilton Homelander.

Waco's Bond Issue.
Waco has passed favorably on bond issue of $245,000, the vote on the subject being very light, yet with big majority for the issuance of the bonds. Waco has been spending money on public school betterment, to extent of $120,000, while sewer extension will get $25,000, and street improvements $100,000.—Temple Telegram.

Barely Possible.
From what state papers are saying, we wouldn't be at all surprised to hear of a polar bear being killed in the outskirts of Waco. Port Worth, Dallas or Denison.—Corpus Christi Caller.
We don't have heard of anyone in Denison being bothered by mosquitoes, as they are sometimes in Corpus.—Denison Herald.

Hope the Pup Connects!

Recently we appealed to the legislature that do something with a vicious dog that sometimes hastens our flight from our home to the street car and visa versa. The concealed individual who edits the Waco Morning News promptly responded with the statement that the legislature is wholly incompetent and proceeds to give us a piece of his own advice. He suggests that we either buy an automatic revolver or hire an aeroplane. Huh! We don't have a dog, much less a barn with a blunderbuss and we can outrun an aeroplane when a brindle cur is at our heels. The editor of the Waco News will please mind his own business. We renew our appeal to the legislature.—Dallas Times Herald.

That Account for It.

Referring to a recent editorial in the News concerning the man who heard a good report of Port Arthur while at the S. P. station in Beaumont, the Waco Morning News says: "If it wasn't Stump of the News who met the epistle of Port Arthur at the Beaumont station we'll wager that it was some stranger to both Beaumont and Port Arthur (much as an Austin specimen) who thought the inquisitive one referred to the locus of the same name made famous as the dumping ground of the Russian fleet." It is certain that if there was a stranger at Beaumont at the time he was at the railway station, making ready to leave—Port Arthur News.

Here's a Southern Cultivator That Has Strength—Utility—Service

ROCK ISLAND

Use This Cultivator and Have Larger Crops

MADE BY THE ROCK ISLAND PLOW CO.

The Lone Star is stronger and more easily operated than any other cultivator. It meets all Southern conditions, for it is built specially for Texas and the South.

With a compact, rigid frame, this cultivator is so strong that the hardest service can't twist it or spring it out of shape. It is always on the job and doing good work. No repairs. No trouble.

Frame, pole, gangs, hitch and balancing and raising levers are all quickly and easily adjustable.

Balancing lever in easy reach from seat. Perfect balance maintained. Horses relieved of all neck weight regardless of driver's weight.

Adjustable pole makes the Lone Star work as well with a team of small mules as with a big pair of Percheron horses.

This combined walking and riding cultivator, with its marvelous endurance and ease of operation, offers Southern Farmers a real opportunity—a Real cultivator that can't fail to interest YOU when you once LOOK INTO IT. Don't put off coming in. Now's the time to look it over.

The Women of Texas

What They Are Doing in Various Phases of Their Work

Reported Weekly in The Waco Morning News by Miss Kate Friend, Editor, 525 Terrace Row, Waco, Texas.

HOME COMING AT DENTON FOR INDUSTRIAL COLLEGE

Indications point to a great event for the home-coming at the Girls' Industrial college in April. No less a celebrated man than Henry Van Dyke is to be present, also David Starr Jordan, another man of the hour. The college and Denton is preparing for fifteen hundred guests. Among the prominent club women who have already signified their intention of being present are Mrs. Lee Joseph of Cuero, past president of the fifth district, and Mrs. S. J. Wright of Paris, past state president.

The demonstration car from the college, already mentioned in this department, is the first of its kind in the south. It has been examined and reported more complete than a similar one sent out from the University of Chicago. Thus it is not amiss that the Texas club women have fostered the Girls' Industrial college and that it still does all possible to promote the efficacy of this institution.

THE HAWTHORNE CLUB, CUERO, IS QUITE ACTIVE

Among the recent good things to report in club activity is from the Hawthornes of Cuero. As one member writes, the club is now "fairly booming." A large down-town room has been rented and furnished in a most comfortable and attractive manner. The Hawthornes report many ups and downs but now triumphantly pressing on to greater things.

MISS BRACKENRIDGE WRITES OF WOMAN'S ACTIVITY

The following was not intended for publication except as a digest for the club women, but it is so interesting and so full of Miss Brackenridge's earnest desire for the betterment of mankind, it will be read by many club women. She says, in referring to the editor of this department:

I am pleased you are getting busy with your pen again, for there is so much to be done for the good of the world and so much now being done, or being planned, that I feel you are needed to help in molding public sentiment along these lines. Do you realize the number of bills there are now before the legislature of this state? All designed to remedy some evil, compulsory education, an educational test prerequisite for the ballot, a married woman's law, designed to remove the most atrocious of her disabilities, to wit: The power which the husband has of collecting her salary and the salary of her children to spend in folly if he likes; the power the husband now has of removing either the personal property or household furniture, by gift or sale without the consent of the wife; the bill to compel the man who deserts his wife and family to return and support them; the bill requiring civil examinations of persons before marriage; a bill to prevent idiots, lunatics, epileptics, insane, criminals and drunkards from procreation. This last bill on eugenics is greatly needed.

This day, one year ago, eight of the leading women of San Antonio met and divided the offices of a Franchise Society, which they proceeded to organize and today that society numbers some thirty members. They celebrated their birthday with a tea today.

Galveston organized on the same day and their growth has also been notable. Houston organized a Franchise Society two weeks ago and have gone wild over the subject. Dallas was to have organized last Friday, one week ago. I assume that they did, but I am sorry to say I have not heard any particulars. However, every member of the legislature and every member of the judiciary has received his own private and personal communications with regard to the desire of the women of San Antonio, of Galveston, of Houston and I now assume of Dallas, also Austin. We have members in Tyler, in Bryan, in Beeville, and in fact many other towns where societies have not yet been organized.

I will, I think, ask some of our organization to do so if my brother takes me, as I hope he will, off for a trip on our household.

We expect Mrs. Phillips Snowden to be here about the third of April. She is a beautiful English woman and one of their best speakers. At that time also, we expect to hold a state convention, at which the state welfare will be elected and plans further perfected for arousing the state.

The Woman's Club of San Antonio some weeks ago, the largest club in the state, endorsed suffrage without a single dissenting voice.

But I am so glad, so happy, that prison reform and asylum examinations and various other much needed matters are being taken up, not the least of which is giving to women police protection, by placing women on the police force in sufficient numbers to guard every danger place, particularly parks, dance halls and picture shows.

I am glad I have lived to see these things coming about and happy that God gave me the power to feel and to see that these reforms were needed and some part in bringing them about.

M. ELEANOR BRACKENRIDGE

THE EDUCATION COMMITTEE SENDS OUT STATISTICS

The club women of Texas are pleased to support the compulsory education bill for Texas. Not only has this pledge been made, but active steps taken toward this support. Mrs. Maggie Barry, the federation member for this special work on the state education committee, has some statistics which are convincing to say the least of it. These have been printed upon post cards and mailed to prominent men and women in Texas. Should any club woman feel interested, a Sherman card from Mrs. Barry, at this card are appalling, for instance, out of the forty-nine states, Texas is thirty-fourth in average daily attendance. Are we to allow the youths of this grand state to grow up in illiteracy? Just half the children in Texas are attending school. More than one hundred thousand Texas children have never been enrolled in school. Is not this little short of criminal? Think what a mighty force towards crime, the jail and the penitentiary.

The states who do require compulsory education all report the moral phase vital. The superintendent of public instruction in New York says "Regularly of attendance at schools is more important than the buildings, grounds, or almost any other material part of the school equipment."

Is it any wonder? And Mrs. Barry has much more to convince, that the appeal to the good women of the state. Each and every one should raise her voice in behalf of this law for the Texas youth.

A NEW CLUB FOR MEMPHIS IS JUST FORMED

Mrs. Lily Houston writes of a new club for her wide-awake town, Memphis. There is yet no name, neither is there a course of study, but these will come right away. In the meantime, there is federation material for the first district.

MRS. J. C. TERRELL SUGGESTS AS TO STATE ENDOWMENT

Perhaps it is known to the few, but not to the many, who formed the convention in Fort Worth, that Mrs. J. C. Terrell has retired from the chairmanship of the state endowment fund. However, Mrs. Terrell is vitally interested in the work and makes this suggestion, that as the districts are always limited in funds, would it not be more satisfactory for each district in raising its pro rata for the state fund, to understand that there revert to each district a proportion of what comes from the endowment revenue. Mrs. Terrell further suggests that Texas raise her mark from $10,000 to $20,000. This thought has gone no further than Mrs. Terrell's always conservative brain. It is wise, and it is something to be considered, now while this endowment is in a formative condition. Mrs. Hertzberg has not named a successor for Mrs. Terrell.

THE CLUB WOMEN IN WACO HAVE APPEAL FROM GIRLS

The working girls of Waco have an organization known as the United Garment Workers. They have, through their secretary, appealed to the club women of the city for co-operation in securing some of the measures which they are promoting. This organization stands for the passage of the Child Labor bill, the compulsory education law, equal rights between male and female employees, all of which are measures the club women strongly advocate.

The first appeal comes for a better wage scale for the working girl, the average amount for Waco being $15 to $16 a week. The next pleads for relief from the long hours and avows for the ballot for women where laws affecting women and children are concerned.

Then follows an appeal for more sanitary workrooms. The girls urge that the women make the rounds of shops where women and girls work and there make note of conditions.

The Editor's Word.

Perhaps the women of Waco have not been in personal touch with the members of the Garment Workers Union, but if these same women will read carefully the proceedings in our state legislature now in session, they will see that the state club women have a bill upon each subject which they desire to become a law. The women of Texas have their committees there on the spot, and letters are pouring in upon the law-makers urging their support of these laws. If compulsory education comes to Texas, Waco is included. If the married woman gains control of wages which she herself earns, the women of Waco are protected. If the child labor law passes, the children of Waco will not work. If compulsory education passes the children of Waco will, by law, receive an education.

Locally, the club women will endorse any petition which comes to them for more sanitary and healthful conditions. This health precaution affects all, the women are alive to the menace when such conditions are not observed.

Thus it seems that the club women are actively engaged along the very lines which the Garment Workers advocate.

MRS. PERCY PENNYBACKER NOW IN CHICAGO

A letter from Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker has just come from St. Louis where she was for a few days the guest of Mrs. Philip N. Moore, retiring president of the General Federation. Mrs. Pennybacker refers to a most interesting time with Mrs. Moore, and much by way of conference for the welfare of the federation. Among other things, Mrs. Pennybacker writes that she has added the Morning News to her list for receiving her regular bulletins along General Federation matters. The next engagement is in Minneapolis, and then comes a stop in Chicago. It goes without saying that Mrs. Pennybacker is making good the confidence which the women of the United States have imposed upon her. And, incidentally, she is advancing the standing of the Texas women throughout our nation.

Out in Ballinger, also in Haskell, they are debating whether or not Anthony would have been a better man had he never met Cleopatra. What say the women who have studied the play of Anthony and Cleopatra?

Following her trips around the world and through Europe, Mrs. L. H. Burney of Fort Worth is now on a trip to Panama.

We must never again refer to woman's suffrage or, worse than that, woman's rights. It is rather the dignified term, equal franchise.

Miss Alice Emmert of Jefferson, is county superintendent and in perfect accord with the club movement. She says that the smallest literary club is in a sense a school and should be so fostered.

The Texas women are contemplating that the council in Washington City will be something more than worth attending.

Owing to the alarming illness of her mother, Mrs. Hertzberg has not been able to further her club duties. However, she reports her patient much improved. She is able now to resume her work.

Mrs. Lipscomb Norvell of Beaumont, who is furthering the plan of the state mothers of the Revolution for marking the old trail across Texas, known as the San Antonio Road, or the King's Highway, has issued her second leaf, let which reads like a romance, and breathes a patriotic purpose which, it is to be hoped, will lead to the marking of this historic road.

Mrs. Hughes writes from Wharton that the Fourth District is already

Will Stake This Medicine Against Your Time

A Few Days Will Be Sufficient to Prove That You Are Curable.

DR. FRANK LYNOTT
Who Will Send Medicine to Anyone
Free of Charge.

A few minutes of your time for a few days and I will demonstrate to you, without expense to yourself, that I have a medicine that drives Uric acid poison from the system, and by doing cures kidney trouble, bladder trouble and rheumatism. I don't ask you to take my word for it, but simply want you to let me send you some of this medicine so that you can use it personally.

I am trying to convince sufferers from these diseases that I have something far better than the usual run of remedies, treatments and such things, and the only way I can demonstrate that fact is to go to the expense of compounding the medicine and sending it out free of charge. This I am glad to do for any sufferer who will take the time to write me. Understand, I will not send you a so-called "sample, proof or test treatment," nor will I send you a package of medicine and say that you can use some of it and pay for the rest, but I will send you a supply free of charge and you will not be asked to pay for this gift nor will you be under any obligations.

All I want to know is that you have a disease for which my medicine is intended, as it is not a "cure-all," and I give herewith some of the leading symptoms of kidney, bladder and rheumatic troubles. If you notice one or more of these symptoms you need this medicine, and I will be glad to send you some of it if you will write me the numbers of the symptoms you have, give your age and your name and address. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 917 Deagan Building, Chicago, Ill. You promise me nothing; you pay me nothing for it. All I ask, so send me the numbers of your symptoms or a description in your own words, and that you take the medicine according to the directions I send you. It is my way of getting publicity for my medicine so that it will become widely known.

You will agree when you have used it that it dissolves and drives out uric acid poison. It tones the kidneys so that they work in harmony with the bladder. It strengthens the bladder so that frequent desire to urinate and other urinary disorders are banished. It stops rheumatic aches and pains immediately. It dissolves uric acid crystals so that back and muscles no longer ache, and crooked joints quickly straighten out. It reconstructs the blood and nerves so that you soon feel healthier and more vigorous, sleep better and eat better and have energy throughout the day. It does all this, and yet contains nothing injurious and is absolutely vouched for according to law.

Sufferers from these dreadful and dangerous diseases can surely afford to spend a few minutes each day for a few days to demonstrate to their own satisfaction if they are curable, especially when you consider no expense is involved, and I willingly give you my time and my medicine. All any fair-minded, afflicted person wants to know is if a certain thing will cure HIM or HER, and here is an opportunity to find out without cost, obligation or important loss of time. THESE FEW DAYS may be the turning point in your life.

All who are interested enough to write me for the free medicine will also receive a copy of my large illustrated medical book which describes these diseases thoroughly. It is the largest book of the kind ever written for free distribution, and a new edition is just being printed. I will also write you a letter of diagnosis and medical advice that should be of great help to you; but in order to do this I must know that you need my medicine. Write me the numbers of the symptoms that trouble you, and your age, and I will promptly carry out my promise. Show an inclination to be cured and you will be.

These Are the Symptoms:

- 1—Pain in the back.
- 2—Too frequent desire to urinate.
- 3—Burning or obstruction of urine.
- 4—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
- 5—Prestatic trouble.
- 6—Gas or pain in the stomach.
- 7—General debility, weakness, dizziness.
- 8—Pain or soreness under right rib.
- 9—Swelling in any part of the body.
- 10—Constipation or liver trouble.
- 11—Pain or pain under the heart.
- 12—Pain in the hip joint.
- 13—Pain in the neck or head.
- 14—Pain or soreness in the kidneys.
- 15—Pain or swelling of the joints.
- 16—Pain or swelling of the muscles.
- 17—Pain and soreness in nerves.
- 18—Acute or chronic rheumatism.

discussing available material for its next presiding officer.

After the visit of the General Federation to Jaquin Miller last summer, it is the matter of personal note to many in Texas that this erratic, yet gifted, man is gone.

The Equity March must come to the Texas suffragists. It has been composed and will be played for the first time in the suffragist parade at Washington.

The enthusiastic little Shakespere club out at Gateville has increased eight members.

Bertha Kunz Baker will fill her Texas dates in Easter week, which means the last week in March.

The club women all over the state should keep an eye upon Waco. The women in this progressive city have announced two of their sex for election as school trustees. The idea came as the something new decidedly in the minds of many male voters. On this Mother's Club ticket are also two men who are in sympathy with women on school boards. The election comes in May. In the meantime some warm local situations are expected. If Waco wins, it will be incentive to other Texas cities to follow the idea.

Every Texas club woman knows the prominence of Gainesville in the cleanest town contest. The last issue of Holland's contains the photographs of four officers in the Forty-One club who brought this distinction to their town. Where is it that club women are not in the lead of civic work?

"Legislators, as a rule, have manifested a willingness to grant women whatever rights, or privileges the women's clubs have seen fit to ask."—Holland's for March.

tion of her old historic riverside spring. This was done by the Daughters of the Revolution. Is there not some local spot for another chapter to reclaim? Do all possible for the conservation of the beauty and the patriotism for this grand state.

Judging from the press notices the mother's clubs in Dallas are more than active.

It seems that the argument is still on as to which was the first woman's club in the United States.

Now that Texas Independence is arriving, do have the club women take some steps to honor the Texas flag. This is sadly neglected. Just for the experience, see if you can purchase a Lone Star flag in your town. And take note if one flies from a building in your town. What a splendid program among your own little club band, if the spirit of such does not pervade your community and take the Texas flag to the hearts of your children?

THE CLUB WOMEN'S COUNCIL AT WASHINGTON CITY

Club women from all over the United States will gather at Washington, D. C., on April 21 to attend the council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, to be held there during that week. The purpose of the meeting is apparent in the name, and it is truly a means by which the club women all over the country can meet and counsel together as to the best methods of advancing the interests of the General Federation. The membership includes the board of directors, the presidents of all state federations and of individual clubs and other organizations directly federated, and all General Federation state sec-

TO FIGHT GASOLINE PRICES

Movement Starts in New York to Try
Figures.

What may be the beginning of a country-wide movement has been launched by the New York Garage Association. The fuel situation has aroused the indignation of a number of scattered organizations and it is the purpose of the garage men to combine these efforts into a concerted movement which will be productive at least of a thorough understanding of the subject.

At the annual dinner of the association held recently, 200 garage owners were in attendance. Capt. Louis J. Josephin presided. The enthusiasm of this body of men and their determination to make use of every means at their disposal to force the fuel situation to an issue was evidenced by the speakers, who insisted that a combined effort is necessary. Alfred E. Gorman, formerly a city magistrate, was the first speaker. He dwelt at length on the grip that the Standard Oil company has on the industry of this country and how futile the efforts of 100 or 200 garage men are against the mighty influence exerted by this immense institution whose profits are such that its stock sells for over $500 a share.

Edward W. Mitchell of the Hydrocarbon Products company, announced that his concern has perfected a new process of refining which reduces the cost of production to an enormous extent. He stated that if he were assured of the patronage of the garage dealers of New York City, who represent the sale of 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline annually, his firm could put up a refinery which would produce gasoline to be sold at a price much lower than that now charged the consumer.

SOLVES MYSTERY OF TRAGEDY.

Gas Generates in the Chimney and Proves Deadly.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 22.—The mystery of the death of Charles Twigg and Grace Ellosser in a room of the Ellosser home on the last day of December, 1910, which was the eve of the proposed marriage of the couple is believed to have been solved. Mrs. Marshall Willison and her sister, Mrs. Pearl Manford, the present occupants of the house in which the Twigg-Ellosser tragedy occurred, were over come yesterday by carbon monoxide gas. The two women were rescued by a neighbor, who rushed in and dragged them to the open air where they were resuscitated.

The theory of "poisoned kisses" was one of several theories advanced at the time of the mysterious double tragedy, but Mrs. Lewis F. Ellosser, mother of the dead girl, believed that it was carbon monoxide gas that had killed the two. The case of the two women yesterday is regarded as substantiating her belief. In the old Ellosser home pieces of brick had been placed in the chimney to lessen the draft. An accumulation of soot had later completely closed the aperture and the gas that overcame the two women was thus generated.

retailer and department chairman. But all club women may attend these meetings and are urged to do so. Credentials are unnecessary, and ideas and discussions from all are most welcome. The committee in charge of the meeting in Washington this year expect it to surpass in enthusiasm and practical results any former meeting of the kind. No more beautiful city than Washington at this period of the year could have been chosen for our gathering, and its many educational and social features will add much to an already delightful program which has been under preparation since October by a committee composed of Mrs. William E. Andrews, general chairman, Washington; Mrs. Eugene Reiley, chairman of program, Charlotte, North Carolina; and Mrs. Agnes L. Christie, Butte, Montana. The committee has been augmented by a local committee on entertainment, appointed by Mrs. Andrews, who is chairman of that committee and also president of the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs, the other members of the committee being: Chairman of hospitality, Mrs. A. F. Hassan, 3138 Q street, N.W.; chairman art reception, Mrs. Grace Boynton Logan, 1253 Irving street. The following presidents of literary clubs will have charge of the literary evening: Mrs. J. A. Moyer, 610 Eighth street, N.E.; Mrs. E. Ide Muller, 1367 B street, N.E.; Mrs. John H. Stokes, the Portner; Mrs. Margaret C. Buell, 1439 Newton street.

The local committee will be at the station to meet club women, and will endeavor to locate comfortably all who come. Mrs. Andrews will be glad to furnish information to all who desire it.

Although the details of the entire program cannot be completed until our president, Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, meets with the local committee in charge of arrangements on March 5 and 6, the general outline will give interested club members an idea of the good things in store for us.

The first meeting of the council will be in the National Museum auditorium on the night of April 21. Addresses of welcome will be made by representative club women, with response by Mrs. Pennybacker. Some prominent public speakers will also address the women.

Tuesday morning, April 22, in the assembly room of the Raleigh hotel, the council headquarters, the first business session will be held. In the afternoon two of the departments will be heard from and an early adjournment will be taken for conferences, those between chairmen, state presidents and secretaries promising to be of special importance. A reception at the White House for that afternoon is also being arranged for, and an address on "Art" by Hopkinson Smith in the evening at the Corcoran Gallery, followed by a reception and music by the Marine band.

Wednesday the program will be devoted to departments for the presentation and discussion of various subjects. A visit to the Congressional Library, under the direction of the literary clubs, will also be made Wednesday evening.

On Thursday the club women will be guests of the Maryland Federation and the plans include a visit to Baltimore, a luncheon, a visit to the Walter's Art Gallery, and other entertainment. Arrangements have also been made for a trip down the Potomac

LAVENDER TINTED JEWELRY FOR LENT

STEEL ALSO CONSPICUOUS IN THE NOVEL ORNAMENTS OF THE SEASON.

JET, ONYX AND PEARLS

Discreet Color Schemes in Pins, Bracelets, Necklaces and Other Pieces.

The array of jewelry designed especially for wearing in Lent is unusually varied this year. The pieces are of a more or less useful character, although there are necklaces, earrings, bracelets and rings among them that can in no way be classed as anything but ornamental; but even these are unobtrusive in effect and they are comparatively few among the many watches, pins, brooches, chains, watch bracelets, belt clasps and buckles, barrettes and combs.

In color these jewels are most discreet. Purple in various shades from mauve to deep violet and gray in enamel work are fashionable this year, but as usual in Lent white and black predominate.

The newest shade is a delicate lavender tint, and it is used with exquisite effect as a groundwork in platinum tracery. Pearls are set off wonderfully by this color, and as the shade is so popular now, doubtless when Lent is over and diamonds come once more into their own they, too, will be mounted with it in resplendent harmony.

A delicate bracelet is enamelled in this lavender tint. It is a flexible little affair formed of links half an inch in length but only an eighth of an inch wide.

A dainty brooch in the new bow knot form has enamelled flowers of lavender mingled with amethysts on a lace frame of fine platinum wire.

One of the most charming of the numerous crosses is formed of silver enamelled in lavender and edged with a row of pearls.

Pale amethyst or lavender quartz is also used to carry out the present mode, for purple tones and deep violet amethysts, always popular, are used in abundance in the jewels for Lent.

Steel is the latest material used to decorate fine jewels, and combined with jet or black enamel it is seen in to historical points, including Mount Vernon.

Thursday evening there will be a general meeting at which addresses and reports of various kinds will be heard, and plans for the biennial meeting at Chicago will be presented by Mrs. Everett of Illinois, and the program for that meeting outlined by Mrs. Smith of Ohio.

AGNES LEYS CHRISTIE, Chairman of Publicity.

some of the most fetching innovations of the season.

Steel points are placed, like gems, at intervals in the designs, cut jet and steel points, alternating in rows, or groups of jet beads, are intercepted by geometric lines and figures carried out in the steel.

A sautoir of jet beads that has the steel decoration is very striking. The wide bands of finely cut jet is divided once on either side and ornaments of the steel points are placed at the intersections, and again, above the large pear shaped jet drop terminating the sautoir, there is another ornament of steel.

There are brooches and chains with steel and black enamel in many hands, some designs, and coiffure ornaments in lattice work patterns with bright-polished, steel point finials at the crossings of the black enameled strips, other hair ornaments in jet and steel which are increasingly popular include the two-pronged combs and those of greater width having five or six strong and heavy teeth.

Irregularly shaped black pearls set in beautifully wrought platinum bracelets, rings, necklaces and earrings with no other gem to enhance the effect are a caprice of the moment. The platinum finish is dull and gray, and with the dense tones of the pearls it makes a jewel of austere severity. Pearls of deep gray tints, too, give this idea of dignity, and necklaces of matched gray pearls, though extremely difficult to obtain, are sought on account of the air of reserve and stately quiet they impart to the appearance of the wearer.

For the Lenten season the white and cream tinted pearls are combined with jet in many jewels. Charming necklaces, from fifteen to twenty-two inches long, the fashionable length, are formed of alternate pearls and beads of faceted jet. Sometimes onyx takes the place of the jet in jewels with pearls, and of course pearls alone are worn at all times.

Speaking of onyx, there is shown this year a jewel of great simplicity and beauty that is made of onyx and milligrain, that beaded platinum of superfineness. It is in the shape of a cross and is formed of five pieces of onyx, each piece bevelled and bordered with the milligrain. The stem of the cross is in three sections, a small rectangle at the top, a square piece between the arms and an elongated rectangle from the arms down, and the two arms are formed of rectangular pieces. The onyx sections are separately edged with the milligrain and joined by invisible rivets, and at the back is a link by which this jewel may be worn as a pendant.

Suit skirts are the jewels suited to a brighter period these quiet ornaments are just the thing and they do much to overcome that uncomfortable formlessness some women feel when the jewelry has been accustomed to wear all the winter suddenly become inappropriate and are consequently left in the jewel case.

Nordica's Daughter Weds.

New York, Feb. 22.—J. Leroy Atwell, comic opera comedian, known as Roy Atwell, and Dorothy Young, 19 years old, step-daughter of Mme. Lillian Nordica, grand opera singer, confirmed today the reports of their marriage at Greenwich Conn. Their intentions had been kept a secret from the bride's father, George W. Young, a New York banker, who married Mme. Nordica in 1909, but the wedding later received the banker's approval.

FADS AND FASHIONS

COMING SEASON WILL BE BRIGHT COLORS AND STRONG CONTRASTS.

Cutaway Coat Is Seen in Many Varieties—Those Mannish Shirts Are Popular.

(Florence Fairbanks.)

New York, Feb. 22.—There may be some uncertainty concerning the silhouette and the cut of gowns which fashion may decree for the coming spring and summer seasons, but that much seems to be quite certain that the coming season will be one of bright colors and strong contrasts. A fairly good idea may be obtained by an inspection of the materials shown by the importers. In the yellows there are mandarins, nasturtium, amber, chardon and sulphur. Tobacco brown and pinks are almost the only mild shades among the yellows. Labradors in silk and wool in the most successful of all the new shades. It deserves to be well received, for it combines beauty with distinction. The name comes from the mineral Labradorite and the color greatly resembles that of lapis lazuli. One of the new pinks is called cherry, but has only a faint kinship to what is called cerise. It is almost a red, just like the new color "Neil rose," which is also called Neil pink.

The new materials are so rich in themselves that little attempt is made to introduce any trimming on spring suits, and when it is employed it is used very sparingly. Lingerie collars and cuffs are particularly attractive on these rich fabrics. The new embroideries in silk and wool in the Bulgarians are seen occasionally on the collars, cuffs and revers, but as the colors are so very bright, they are used sparingly. A few velvet effects are seen, and they add much to the effectiveness of many of the spring suits. The square collar reaching only to the shoulder line is a favored style. Some suit coats have draped or narrow revers.

While the sleeves in suits in many instances are made full length, quite a number are cut with a slight flare at the wrist, giving something of a bell shape. A few extremely dressy suits have a three-quarter length sleeve, which is frequently cut in modified kimono shape. The long shoulder line is still used.

The cutaway coat is seen in many varieties, some starting several inches below the waist, other having a very sharp cutaway effect, giving the appearance of an Eton in front. The Russian kimono coat with elongated waist line is among the late ideas, but it is not becoming to the average woman. The Chinese coat on straight lines from shoulder to hem is particularly adapted to the small, slim woman.

Suit skirts are equally as important as the coats. The new oriental draperies that are caught up in the front and the sling and cross-over draperies are seen in some of the dressier types. Simple draperies with only a slight fullness gathered into the front, sides or back are the most popular. Clusters of pleats, introduced at one or both run in and taken out at will and the sides, in the back or front, are frequently seen. The narrow effect around the ankles is as pronounced as ever. Some skirts are made so scant that they have to be slashed.

The combination of fabrics and colors is among the novelties. Plain fabrics combined with brocades are especially smart. White skirts with bright-colored coats will be worn when warm weather arrives. In the three-piece suits the coat may match the dress or may be of another fabric. A few boleros are seen as an accompaniment to the three-piece suits.

Those Mannish Shirts. Among strictly tailored waists those mannish shirts with the sort turned over collar and cuffs are popular. Usually they are made of washable crepe de Chine, heavy China silk and madras in white, and white with a colored stripe. Buttons of colored glass are very effective when they match the stripe of the shirt.

In addition to the mannish silk waists that are worn with the strictly tailored suit the business woman will welcome those in challis, flannel and albatross. Many of these are made in the usual mannish style, with the front opening, and soft collar and cuffs, but there are very attractive models, slightly more elaborate and more feminine, with bits of hand embroidery, and fancy collars and cuffs of satin. As a rule, flannel is used for the tailored, waists, and pretty challis and colored albatross for the more elaborate models, but since all of them launder beautifully, the light tones need not be a bar to the usefulness of the blouse.

On dark-hued waists there is always a touch of white at the neck, a frill or a yoke. The ground of the Scotch plaids used by some of these blouses is usually a blue, brown, green or black with the plaid picked out in vivid stripes of red, blue, green or yellow. Taupe, purple, old gold and king's blue stripes appear in the newest plaids shown by the importers.

One of these changes usually described as radical has taken place in the cut of skirts and frocks that have been shown during the past weeks to attract women bound for southern resorts. Immediately after Christmas the show windows were full of white embroidered linens and elaborate models in Irish lace. Of course, these were simply the stock left over from last summer, when Irish lace has already begun to sing its swan song.

Now these dresses have quite vanished and their places have been taken by embroidered cotton crepes and volles, new ratines, linen crashes with borders, and in the more elaborate costumes, by washable tulle combined with embroidered batiste, crepe, or voile. Some of these tulle dresses are most elaborately made.

One clever designer has made use of a French idea in devising blouses of this tulle and other extremely sheer fabrics. By themselves, as every woman knows, net waists are so delicate that the wearing of them is a somewhat trying and uncertain proceeding. It is practically impossible to anchor them securely in any one position. And there can be no necessity of having them large in order to keep them from breaking out.

combination corset cover and blouse easily laundered in one piece. These blouses are a distinct novelty and quite an inexpensive one. Another model by the same designer is in white cotton crepe with a regular Montenegrin jacket, also of the crepe, but with a Persian border. The coloring is repeated in the buttons and the bow at the neck.

Girdles and sashes are becoming more stunning as the season advances. Many of the sashes are fringed and embroidered. They may be almost any width, but perhaps the most popular is from four to six inches.

There is a new soft taffeta called fleur de soie. It is so soft that a full-width thirty inches can be drawn through a finger ring.

Among the new materials is Callot crepe chiffon, which is to be had in plain tints and changeable effects.

TRIES TO STEAL LOCOMOTIVE.

Engine Did Not Have Enough Steam, or It Would Have Gone.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 22.—Only lack of steam in the boilers of a locomotive being made ready for a run prevented the engine from being stolen from the Louisville and Nashville railroad here yesterday and possibly a serious wreck for some unexplained reason. Arch Cooper mounted to the cab of the locomotive and opened the throttle when no one was near. When Cooper was trying to run the locomotive onto the main line track a passenger train coming into the city whisked past. He continued his efforts to operate the half steamed engine until employees noticed him, and on his refusal to leave the cab they had him arrested.

Early this week the authorities had to deal with a man who went to a street car horn, appropriated a car and was running it toward his home when he was arrested. He protested that a conductor refused to honor a transfer he possessed and that the company was bound to give him some kind of passage.

CATO SELLS HAS FAITH IN PLAN

BELIEVES THE OUSLEY SUGGESTION FOR COTTON WAREHOUSES PRACTICAL.

HE FAVORS AN ORGANIZATION

Of Bankers and Farmers to Confer With Fort Worth Man and Work it Out.

Cleburne, Tex., Feb. 22.—Cato Sells, who takes great interest in the agricultural development of Texas, says Clarence Ousley has presented a cotton warehouse plan so seemingly workable as to command serious consideration. Judge Sells says the prevention of waste as involved in economy of production, transportation and distribution is our urgent present day problem. The waste in prevailing methods of marketing cotton is appalling in its magnitude. In contrast with the manner of handling other principle crops of the United States it evidences failure to entirely grasp economic opportunity. It is noticeably out of harmony with our general agricultural progress and calls for intelligent, concerted and prompt action. He suggests that it would be wise for state farmers' organizations and banking associations to appoint committees to confer with Mr. Ousley to the end that after full investigation either his plan be approved or with it as a basis one more satisfactory be worked out.

In brief, the Ousley plan contemplates two kinds of warehouses. One is to be built by private corporations under a method whereby the state is the depository of the capital stock, which is to be loaned as the school fund is loaned, for redeeming bonds in twice the amount of the capital stock, so that the warehouse corporations will have to provide only the interest upon the bonds. This method is devised to promote warehouses in communities where for one reason or another the people would not be willing to vote a tax for warehouse purposes.

The other plan is by local taxation upon a vote of property owners for interest and sinking fund upon bonds, with which the warehouse will be erected, but the contemplation is that the warehouse itself will earn the interest and sinking fund, and thereby will return to the taxpayers the amount they have paid for financing the enterprise.

All warehouses are to be under the regulation and supervision of a state warehouse commission with powers similar to those exercised by the railroad commission.

The importance of this reform in marketing may be better understood when the great waste of the present system is presented. The cotton consisting of samples is reliably said to be 100,000 bales. The country damage is estimated at $2.00 a bale. The excess of tare of the present ragged bale is reckoned at ten pounds on the bale. The expense of patching and the waste incident to the present system of sampling is estimated at 50c a bale. These and other items of waste, calculated upon the present crop of approximately 14,000,000 bales amount to the enormous sum of $42,000,000, and the warehouse system proposed it is claimed can handle the crop for at least $1.00 a bale or $14,000,000 in the aggregate. It would mean a total net saving of $28,000,000 or $9,000,000 annually to Texas.

This is to be accomplished by a plan under the control of the warehouse commission, which will require that the sample of each bale of cotton be taken in the gin by a bonded officer and that the grading and weighing shall likewise be done at the warehouse so that the state itself through these warehouses may procure a sample and certify to the grade and weight. This method is intended to avoid entirely the waste that now accompanies the handling of cotton.

Manifestly something ought to be done to save this enormous waste of wealth. It comes directly out of the pockets of the producers, but regardless of who suffers, it is an actual loss of substance. Waste of any kind should be abhorred and prevented if possible.

A system of warehouses is greatly to be desired for the saving of waste, for the better financing of the cotton crop and for securing cheaper money to farmers in handling their products. Under such a system it would be easy to establish warehouses for all farm products, including cold storage establishments for fruits and vegetables. Assuredly an undertaking that aims at such important results is worthy of the careful study of all business men and all good citizens.

SAYS ADVERTISING MUST HAVE PUNCH

IN PROSPECT MUST BE AWAKENED DESIRE TO KNOW MORE ABOUT PRODUCT.

SELECT THE BEST NEWSPAPER

Keep Vigilant Watch for Sound Argument and Style That Will Arouse Interest.

Dallas, Feb. 22.—C. E. Wells, head of the motor car department of the John Deere Plow company, is one of the largest and most progressive advertisers in the Southwest, as is reflected in the larger city dailies. He is considered an authority on the subject, having studied advertising for many years and is so situated as to have means at his disposal for giving advertising a thorough and scientific dissection. In addressing his dealers in the company's general office last week upon this topic, he said, in part:

Advertising, according to Noah Webster, is turning the attention of others to a given subject, announcing or publishing. While this is all true, the definition is inadequate. Advertising has a much greater mission than mere publicity. Its primary object as applied to commerce, is to create a desire on the part of the reader to buy or to investigate the merits of an advertised article. The aim is to produce interest that will produce action.

"Through advertising you are seeking to bring attention to yourself and to your goods; it is your medium for reaching the unknown prospect and to arouse his interest. It must possess a 'punch' that goes farther than merely attracting the eye and simply informing the public that you are handling Abbott-Detroit cars. If your money spent in this manner is to bring you a profit, if your advertising is to be more than mere space filling, you must awaken in the unknown prospect a desire to know more about the cars you are selling. He must be brought 'all the way' to you.

"Advertising and selling are closely affiliated but there is a distinction. With small commodities sales may result directly from the advertising, but in marketing automobiles you cannot expect to do more than create a desire to see the car. The actual selling is invariably accomplished through the personal efforts of your self and your salesmen. Your prospect must be located. It is a matter of progression. A man is thinking of buying; you must arouse in him a desire to investigate your goods; he must be brought into personal touch with you. From there on it is a question of selling.

An Indispensable Adjunct.
"You, of course, have other sources of discovering the prospective buyers in your territory, but the question in consideration is whether you are giving the matter of local newspaper advertising sufficient attention. Do you look upon it as an indispensable adjunct to your selling organization? People expect to be kept informed in this way, and when no advertising is being done in local papers, they are attracted and influenced by the advertising of a competitor. It is customary with many people to judge the integrity of a company by the extent and quality of its advertising.

Select the Best Papers.
"Good advertising is invaluable as a business getter—that has been so conclusively proven that it does not permit of argument—but it must be good advertising. Only, too often, no thought is given to this important phase until the call comes for copy, when something is hurriedly dashed off, which as far as results are concerned, might better have remained unpublished. If you are writing or supervising the preparation of copy, keep a vigilant watch for sound argument and style that will arouse interest. Carefully study local conditions, and if occasion calls, incorporate such features as will accomplish the most good. Select the best papers. A higher rate may bring returns tenfold in advance of that of a paper with small and inferior circulation.

Persistent Efforts Necessary.
"Question your prospects to see whether your advertising is bringing them. While it is a difficult matter to trace and measure direct returns from advertising, you by close study get a pretty good insight into the situation. If no local advertising had previously been done, it is possible that some little time may elapse before visible results are forthcoming, but you must not slacken your efforts. To do so would mean to lose much of the effect and value of the investment already made.

In Dull Times Push Little Harder.
"Remember you are talking to an unknown prospect, so hammer at him in an earnest and intelligent manner until he comes to see you. Spontaneous advertising will not do. It should be persistent and continuous. Of course, there are seasons more opportune than at other times, and your judgment should dictate when to deliver the hardest blows. We do not mean by this that you should let things lag when business seems a little dull, for off-times conditions can be restored to normal basis by pushing your advertising campaign a little harder. When prospects do not come, and conditions warrant, you should redouble your diligence in bringing in business."

Pianos

How to Select Them

Buying a piano is either easy or difficult, according to the way you set about it. Don't court disappointment by selecting an instrument in a haphazard way. Remember there is a standard of value in pianos, as in everything else.

Here at the Leyhe Store you have the opportunity of learning definitely just how good any piano should be for its price. We don't say "Come here and buy your piano"—but we do say "Don't buy before coming here."

Perfectly logical, for here is a great store devoted exclusively to pianos—in a range of prices that excludes neither the pinched purse nor the one that can buy the most expensive of all. Here is not merely one kind of piano—but many, so that every taste in tonal quality, construction and style can be pleased.

For This Week We Offer

In Slightly Used Pianos, Which Are Guaranteed

One $350 Kimball piano, walnut case, a fine instrument, used only a month or so, for only .....$275
One $250 Emerson, mahogany case, good piano, for only .....$190
One $400 Chickering, good shape, ebony case, well worth the money, for only .....$375
One $700 Stuyvesant Pianola player piano, mahogany case, a fine instrument, for only .....$575
One $300 Hall & Sons ebony case, a nice practice piano, for only .....$ 85
One $450 Hardman, a fine walnut case, rich tone, a bargain at .....$250

If you buy one of these instruments, we will allow you what you paid for it within one year on a new piano.

GOLD IS FOUND IN TOYAH VALLEY

TWO MEXICANS WERE DIGGING
A WELL AND PICKED UP THE ORE.

STUMP ROBBINS HAS ASSAYS

Belief is That the Find in the Well Will Develop a Big Producing Section.

(Written for The Waco Morning
News by Harold B. Link, former editor
Pecos Times.)

Pecos, Tex., Feb. 22.—"Stump Robbins says he's found a gold mine," was the report that reached Pecos people a few weeks ago, and the announcement was received generally with a smile, for all knew Stump Robbins knew nothing about gold mines, his especial forte being cow-punching in a large way. The man who told about it first said that a sample had been sent to an assayer in El Paso, and that they would know more about it soon.

Then, a few days later, it got in the wind that the sample of ore sent to El Paso had "run" better than $200 to the ton, with some silver and copper to help pay smelting expenses. Some interest was manifested then, but still there was little talk, until Stump Robbins himself announced that, of six assays made, from samples taken at depths varying from the surface to eighty feet, the presence of gold had been shown in quantities varying from a trace to more than eleven ounces. That meant that there was more than a piece of stray rock that showed the precious metal, and that it really was a find. Excitement began then to take form. And this is the way the story started.

Ten or twelve miles southeast of Saragosa, in Reeves county, Texas, is a low range of lime rock hills that juts out of the tabosa flats, to divide so form the extreme east border of that great basin that has come to be so widely known as Toyah valley. South and westward upstuds the back wall of the Davis mountains, the big blue range that snugles Toyah valley so comfortably in a sixty-mile, semi-circular sweep. Aside from being good grazing land, these little lime rock hills had never been regarded as being of any especial value, and those who owned them, for the most part wished that they could change them for the rich soil of the flats. The gray outline of their rough surface, broken only by ragged growths of cat-claw, ocatilla, and "black-brush," with occasional clumps of prickly pear sprinkled around.

It so happened that one T. N. Wilson, a tall, spare, gray-haired man, bought a section of land a comparatively short time ago, and he was the way it was numbered on the map, and, besides including some of the rich tabosa flat land, it took in a portion of the lime rock hills. Mr. Wilson, "dry-farmed" for a season or two, irrigating in a small way for a family garden from a windmill, but, though he managed to raise some good feed, he felt that dry farming was too uncertain, and determined to do better.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN AN OPINION AND A GUARANTY

The attorney in rendering an opinion on a title virtually says: To the best of my knowledge and belief such and such is the case. If I am wrong I am very sorry and hope you will overlook my error. However, regrets won't pay for the loss of your land. When we render an opinion on a title and say such and such is the case, there is $500,000 supporting that opinion—backing it up, so to speak—in other words if we are wrong, we are responsible and are compelled by law to reimburse you to the amount of your policy. There are a number of things which could and do often occur, which would render your title bad, and which do not appear of record. We also guarantee against these. Are you positive your title is a good one? "Better be safe than sorry."

STATISTICS OF CITIES.

Census Report on Financial Statistics of Cities Having a Population of Over 30,000 in 1910.

Washington, Feb. 21.—A preliminary statement of a special report on financial statistics of cities of over 30,000 inhabitants in the United States in 1910 was issued today by Director Durand, of the bureau of census, department of commerce and labor. The statistics were prepared under the direction of Le Grand Powers, chief statistician for finance and municipal statistics.

The report presents with considerable detail the most important facts relating to municipal indebtedness, assets, and public properties of 184 cities. The facts thus presented show that the gross receipts from the issue and sale of city debt obligations during the year 1910 amounted to $558,982,798, and the gross payments during that period for the redemption and purchase of city debt obligations amounted to $461,182,245, the excess of receipts, $97,799,553, being the resultant of the debt transactions of 124 cities which increased, and those of 44 cities which decreased, their indebtedness. Of the 18 cities of over 300,000 inhabitants, 17 increased, and 1, or 5 per cent, decreased their debt during the year. The percentages for the cities from 100,000 to 300,000, 50,000 to 100,000, and 30,000 to 50,000 that decreased their indebtedness were 22.6, 20.4 and 37.3, respectively.

The gross debt of the 184 cities at the close of the fiscal year 1910 was $2,458,508,747, of which $2,392,577,335 represents the debt of the city corporations; $57,422,245, that of the independent.

IF YOU ARE A DRINKING MAN BE CURED

This great movement for redemption of humanity from the frightful effects of liquor habit has swept the country from end to end. MILLIONS of dollars have been invested in NEAL INSTITUTES—millions of people are vitally interested—thousands of cured patients—thousands of homes made happy. The American people are readily coming into the knowledge that here at last is a positively safe and absolutely efficient and permanent treatment for ALCOHOL and DRUG ADDICTIONS. They know that there is no excuse for the dangerous and painful HYPODERMIC needle used four to five times daily from four to seven weeks—no further excuse for the employment of powerful opiates and injurious drugs with their bad after effects.

dent school districts; and $78,909,169, that of other divisions of the government of the city. City funds with investments held debt obligations of their own cities to the amount of $433,866,097, or 17.8 per cent of the total indebtedness. The sinking fund assets held at the close of 1910 for the amortization of debt amounted to $461,321,650, having been increased during the year by $22,882,132. The funded debt and special assessment loans amounted to $2,373,245,528. The report classifies this amount by purpose of issue and by year of maturity. The funded debt, special assessment loans, and revenue loans amounted to $2,399,532,026, which amount is classified by rate of interest.

Municipal Assets and Public Properties.
The assets and public properties of the 184 cities had a reported value of $2,919,232,043. These values were reported under the following heads: General city cash, $190,567,893; assets of sinking funds, $461,591,650; assets of public trust funds for municipal use, $72,731,134; assets of investment funds, and miscellaneous investments, $70,873,283; assets of public trust funds for non-municipal uses and of private trust funds, $12,061,042; and value of public property, $1,111,497,040. Of the last named amount, $1,144,967,040, or 36.8 per cent, represents the value of the land, buildings, and equipment of public service enterprises, and the remainder includes the value of the property of departments of municipal service enterprises, and of real and other property held as investments.

seasons, with "yellow" summers and cattle to feed during the winter, and some plan had to be evolved for the development of the property.

"I had two ways of going about it," said Stump, in talking it over. "I could have taken three or four of these fellows in with me, and could have got through all right, that way, but if the thing hadn't panned out to suit 'em, they'd have always given me down the country about it, and if it had been as big as it seems to be, they'd always have wanted to run it and run me thrown in. So I decided I'd organize a company, with five million shares, and put the price of the shares down to ten cents, where every man in Reeves county that's got as much as a five or a ten-dollar bill, can get some of the stock. That way I believe that we can raise enough money to test it out, without hurting anybody, and at the same time it'll help every one of 'em, if it's as good as I think it is."

And with this plan he went to his Pecos lawyers.

How Stump Robbins Organized.
They urged him to capitalize for the same amount, if he wished, but to make it 500,000 shares, and to start selling them at a dollar the share, for the proposition seemed to justify that price, but Stump was obstinate. That price would shut out the small man, he said, and he would not do that. Reeves county citizen to be able to invest something in the stock without fear of going broke if the deposit "petered out."

So it was that the Saragosa Gold Mining company was organized, and the first shares were put on the market February 13 of this year. The results have more than justified Mr. Robbins' statements, and the people of Reeves county have shown their faith in his sincerity by purchasing upwards of a hundred and seventy-five thousand shares up to this writing. This has furnished sufficient money to start the development as it should be started, and has guaranteed that the proposition will not suffer for sufficient backing. But so much for the company.

With the realization that there had really been gold found in Reeves county, folk began to catch the contagion that has caused so many rushes that have become historic. Six automobiles loaded with people left Pecos one morning, after the second lot of assays was received, and there has hardly been a day since then when there has not been some sort of an outfit setting out from Pecos for the thirty-five mile drive to the round hole in the lime rock hill.

During the first week in February, when the word was beginning to spread to all parts of West Texas, men came from points within 500 and 400 miles. The land around section 321 was not open to location in the ordinary manner, because of the fact that the alternate sections are "railroad lands"—part of the great birthright of the state that was given by the legislature to the railroads of half a century ago (the railroads that were built through East Texas, by the way), while the rest of the land was "public school," and had been previously sold to four-sectioners. In this sale, the settler waived his rights to what-ever mineral there might be on the land, in accordance with a bill that was passed in 1905; but this bill was defective, in that it did not provide a mode for the state to convey these mineral rights on lands so sold.

In spite of their knowledge of these facts, the prospectors who hurried to the scene staked off claims right and left for three or four miles, and the little lime rock hills were covered with their monuments.

"A fellow has to do something when he gets there," said one man, "and the only thing to do was what you'd always heard of everyone else doing—locate a claim. We thought that there might be some way of making the locations stick."

One man, J. F. Hartsborn of Carlsbad, N. M., who has seen several gold rushes in his experience in the south, went upon hearing of the find, packed his automobile and started post haste for the spot. He reached Pecos about 6 o'clock one evening, about the time that the second lot of assays had been heard from, and decided that he must pull out. He had had no supper, and in negotiating a "high center" in the road down the Pecos river, he had snapped off the crank of his car. He would not wait for repairs, however, but threw a few feet of meat into the car, found a monkey wrench that he could use to turn over his engine, and set out at break-neck speed.

That night it snowed. For the next week, too, the weather was as sloppy as West Texas ever sees, with two good falls of snow, but despite the fact there were men roaming all over the foothills and for several miles into the mountains. This interest seems foolish to those who know that there was no possibility of staking claims that would "stick," but "Gold!" had been shouted, its presence had been proven, and these men were but answering the call that has pulled civilization around half the globe. They "had to do something," as the Pecos business man remarked, so they staked claims.

And now work will go ahead immediately, with the original find on the section of land bought by Stump Robbins. A "whim" hoist will be put in, and the round hole will be converted into a forty-eight shaft that will be large enough for men to work in it with some degree of comfort. Then drifting can be started on the two main leads that have been encountered.

Confidence Is Growing.
Confidence in the proposition is growing daily, for several men of some experience have believed in it enough to invest their funds in the stock of the company, and at least two mining engineers have returned favorable reports to interested parties. Requests for the sale of stock have been received from all over the southwest, and the matter of financing the proposition is now no longer a problem.

As for "Stump" Robbins, he is no longer a "cow puncher," but a "mining man." The how-legged old pioneer whose dumpy form has been known and loved by people in the Pecos country for so many long, pioneer years, has it now seems certain, "struck it rich."

And there is not a man across the Rio Pecos who does not wish the proposition well, simply for "Stump's" sake.

The Pecos country, last year achieved some considerable fame for its production of cantaloupes, and its "pea green" alfalfa hay has long been sought by buyers, while since the memory of the stock man, Reeves country steers have been bringing top market prices (yearlings are worth "thirty dollars a round" this spring).

Now, because Fate sent a "Nester" to live on a section of land that lay half on a lime-rock hill; because the finger of Destiny guided a couple of Mexican revolutionists to the spot to dig the nester a well; and because a cowman was enterprising enough to run the gauntlet of the "hurrhahing" of his fellows, Reeves county, it seems, is to enter the list of the gold-producing sections of the world. So moveth Kismet.

CASTRO LEAVES FOR CUBA.
Takes Pleasure Trip and Says He Will Soon Return.

New York, Feb. 22.—General Cipriano Castro, ex-president of Venezuela, left New York suddenly today for Cuba on the Ward liner Saragosa. He said there was nothing secret about his trip, that it was merely for pleasure and that he would return to New York some time in March.

The general said he felt confident he would defeat the government in its appeal to the supreme court from the federal district court decision allowing him to enter this country.

Sophomore Publishes Lariat.
The sophomore edition of the Lariat appeared yesterday as the third installment of the class series of the Baylor weekly, and it was well received by the readers of the paper. The most conspicuous features of the issue are a large cut of the sophomore class pin on the front page in class colors, and a strong editorial in favor of the establishment of the honor system in the university. On the staff for this special edition were John Quincy Adams, editor; T. M. Arnold, business manager; and J. P. Peck, E. L. Smith, P. C. McConnell Jr., W. Roy Christian and Misses Josephine Gambrell and Lynn White, associate editors.

Cotton Manufacturing In Texas

By C. S. Tatum, B. S., Associate Professor of Textile Engineering, A. & M. College of Texas.

Up to the present time this subject has not received the attention its magnitude justifies. The average Texan does not realize the immense amount of money this state is losing every year by selling her cotton in the raw state instead of manufacturing it into cloth. If our 1912 crop had been manufactured into the very simplest and plainest of goods we would have received two hundred millions of dollars more for it than we will as it is. Isn't it worth a few moments' serious thought and deliberation?

We have at the present time some 15 cotton mills running in the state consuming less than one per cent of our cotton crop. Of these 15 mills 10 of them are within a radius of 100 miles of Dallas. This is not especially due to any natural advantages of this particular section of the state, but to human nature, or rather that part of our nature that so much resembles the sheep, that is the disposition of the masses to follow the lead of the few. However, it is not more marked in Texas than elsewhere. In the town of Westfield, Mass., there are 15 factories and 14 of them manufacture whips. Now this town has no more advantages for making whips than it has for making ten thousand other articles, but some one started a mill on this line and the rest followed suit.

Profitable in Texas.

There is scarcely a section of Texas in which cotton manufacturing cannot be carried on just as profitably as it is in the parts now engaged in it, but the industry simply has not been considered in some of the other portions of the state. All the great things have to have a beginning, and very often these beginnings are small, but it is time more of the towns of Texas were realizing how much they need cotton mills, and were making these beginnings. There has been very little of this work done in West or Northwest Texas, but there is a mill just about ready for operation at Post City, just south of the Panhandle. This mill has been built and equipped according to the latest and most up-to-date methods in every respect, the fact taken in connection with the splendid climate, good water and general healthful surroundings leads us to believe they will have no trouble in keeping plenty of help. This section of the state is not handicapped in regard to fuel for there are splendid coal mines, just a short distance from this town, in fact we predict a prosperous future for this enterprise and see no good reason why many more should not be built in this same section of the state. This Post City company owns a large tract of farming land on which they will raise a large per cent of the cotton used by their mill, thus combining agriculture and manufacturing. If cotton is usually high their agricultural department will furnish the bulk of the profits, if cotton is unusually low the factory will furnish the big end of the profits, so on the whole we think it a good example for others to follow when possible. There are likely to be some parties desiring to build a mill, who are not in a position to own the land on which to raise the cotton to supply the mill, and to those we will say that this is not necessary at all, but is a good plan when it can be so arranged.

Another good feature of this plant is the fact that they are going to make wide sheets, bleach them and send them out in bundles ready for the retail trade. In this way they can sell direct in Texas, and not have to ship their products across the Mississippi river to have them finished for the market and pay an extra freight rate.

Advantages of a Cotton Mill.
Let's see what are some of the advantages of a cotton mill to a town or community. In the first place we consider a 10,000 spindle mill making on an average of 3-ounce duck, employment would be provided for some 200 operatives, who would receive about $5,000 every month. The most of this sum would be spent with the merchants of the town, and this would continue through all twelve months of the year, instead of coming in for two or three months during the fall and winter as is the case of the money received from the raw cotton. This mill would consume approximately 5,000 bales per year, which would net the farmers about $6,250 clear profit above what they would have received from this amount of cotton if it had been shipped, for the mill can well afford to pay 1/4 cent more per pound to insure its delivery to the mill warehouse. This is not a charitable donation for if they allowed it to be shipped away and had to pay the freight on it when it was returned they would be the loser. The mill also furnishes employment for the farmers during the busy time in the native produce market, for these 200 operatives mean some 60 or 75 families that have to buy all of their produce. Others to profit by the mill's presence are the doctors, school teachers and last, but certainly not least, the real estate men. For when you start an enterprise of this kind in a town real estate is sure to advance in value—it never falls. When you have one started it is not nearly so hard to get others. When northern capitalists are looking around for a suitable location for a manufacturing plant of any kind they almost invariably select some town where the people are public spirited enough to have already started one or more of such plants themselves. They naturally fight shy of the town that has never done anything for itself. It has been said "God helps those who help themselves," and the capitalist is somewhat Godlike in this respect, even though he may have selfish motives in being so.

Costs More in Texas.

It is true that it costs some little more to manufacture cotton into cloth in Texas than it does in some of the eastern states, but this difference is not nearly so great as many people might imagine. The writer has taken the trouble to collect a number of cost sheets from the Texas mills and from some of the Georgia mills, and we find a very slight difference. In fact we find that when the plant is properly managed the Texas mills can make a very creditable showing indeed. A cotton mill is a good investment for any town, not only for the dividends it pays the stockholders, but also because it helps every other legitimate business in the town. The merchants could well afford to buy a few shares of stock even if they never received any dividends on the investment, for they would get their money back in increased trade. The same thing applies to the real estate men. They could very well afford to donate the necessary land in order to secure the location of the plant in their town. The farmers in the surrounding country could very well afford to take a few shares of stock in order to gain the better market for their cotton and produce, even if they never did get back one dollar of dividends, or principal, either, for that matter, but they could reasonably expect to get both. There are several towns in the state that would like to have cotton mills numbered among their industries, but they think they are unable to finance the proposition and are waiting for capitalists to come down from the north and build them for them. For the benefit of these towns we will give an outline of a plan that has been very successfully in quite a number of mills in the Carolinas and Georgia, which is about as follows: The stock is sold at $100 per share, and is paid for at the rate of $1 per week per share, and in this way the full capital is paid in in a little less than two years. In organizing a company each subscriber for stock makes the payments as above indicated, either by the week or the month. Taking the same example we used above, that is a 10,000 spindle mill and say 350 bales, we would need about $300,000 capital. With this basis there would be some $150,000 paid into the treasury the first year, with which all the buildings could be erected and part of the equipment bought. During the early part of the second year the balance of the machinery and equipment could be bought as the machinery people usually sell on time, requiring one-half down and the rest in six and twelve months with 6 per cent interest on the deferred payments. As a matter of course these figures given are approximations as there are any number of conditions that might vary any of the figures mentioned.

When all of the capital can be had as needed of course this installment feature is unnecessary, but it has been used in several cases as mentioned above, and the mills in every case proved to be a highly successful enterprise. Sometimes the payments have been as low as 50 cents per week per share, in fact, this has been the most popular method.

The completion of a mill may always be hastened beyond what could be done with the ordinary income, by borrowing money to complete the mill at once, and then paying this money back as it is paid into the treasury in installments by the stockholders. Wherever this has been done the mill company has commonly made notes which have been made secure by the endorsement of the directors. For this reason it is desirable to have a board of directors whose responsibility is well known. Some mills have been built, however, simply by investing the money as it came from the members, and while this is somewhat slow when the mill is finished and in operation it is usually so much property ahead for the stockholders, for it frequently represents money that would not have been accumulated at all, except for the obligation of the stockholders to get together and save so much money each week or month.

A provision should be made in the by-laws of the company for the non-payment of installments something like this: If any stockholder shall fail for five consecutive periods to pay his weekly or monthly installments then the stock of such delinquent may be forfeited by the treasurer, and after advertising in the manner required by law for the sale of personal property, under execution, the same shall be sold at public auction for the account of such delinquent, and on the basis of its par value. There shall be deducted from the bid an amount sufficient to pay the balance due on stock, which may be paid in installments in the regular way; then there shall be deducted all dues to the company and expenses of the sale incurred by the company, which must be paid by the purchaser in cash. Then any remaining money shall be paid by the purchaser to the delinquent. Provided, however, that the forfeiture and sale of stock of any delinquent shall not release him or her from the original subscription.

We are ready at any and all times to co-operate with any towns or individuals in organizing mills anywhere in Texas, and are anxious to stimulate the movement that seems to be growing just at this time in favor of building more mills.

Commercial clubs or individuals can have the benefits of talks by men from our textile engineering department, and it will only cost them the expenses of such trips.

FACTS OF A FACTORY

Statistics Showing the Extent of One of the Big Concerns, February 1, 1913.

It's Influence on a Big Waco House That Is Making Gradual and Permanent Growth.

Floor area, 187,750 square feet.
Forty-three departments.
Number of employees, 1239.
Monthly payroll, $85,000.
Output for 1912 season, 17,000 motorcycles.
Value of output, $4,505,000.00.
Largest single order, twenty-three cars.
A complete motorcycle turned out every 7 1/2 minutes of each working day.

284,000 feet—or nearly 150 miles—of tubing are required annually in the manufacture of Harley-Davidson motorcycle frames.
The twelve presses in the pressed steel department have a combined blow of 725 tons of force. 360 tons is concentrated in one press weighing 33,000 pounds, and the heaviest piece of machinery used in motorcycle manufacture anywhere in the world.

To feed these presses, 1,000 tons of flat steel stock are required annually. Unloaded at the factory in cars of 40,000 pounds capacity each.
That a car is required merely to haul material for these presses.
Twenty-nine automatic machines are operated day and night at the Harley-Davidson factory.
To feed these automatics, 700 tons of round and hexagonal stock are required annually.

Of that amount, $4,670 feet is brass stock and $60,055 feet is steel stock.
The total length of round and hexagonal stock required by the automatics annually is 1,054,725 feet, or about 200 miles.

Number of steel balls going into Harley-Davidson bearings this year, 3,211,000.
Number of carloads of tires required, thirty-four.
Value of machine tool equipment, $250,000.00.

Cost of jigs, dies and patterns, $160,000.00.

Number of enameling ovens, nine.

Number of hardening, annealing and tempering furnaces, twenty-two.

Weight of the largest size annealing ovens, 18,000 pounds each.

The only electric furnace in Milwaukee is at the Harley-Davidson factory.

This furnace can be run up to 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit in seventy-five minutes and is used for tempering high speed machine tools and for other special work.

The factory fuel bill is $112,85 a day.
The Harley-Davidson Motor company is the largest user of gas in Milwaukee—$850 worth monthly.

The Harley-Davidson Motor company is the largest user of electricity in Milwaukee—$2,000 worth monthly.
More than 800 electrical transformers are now required and additional transformers are on the way to make possible the daily use of 1,000 horsepower.

Forced ventilation gives the employees a constant supply of fresh air. 42 per cent of the exterior walls being windows.

As the factory is operated nights as well as days during much of the year, thousands of incandescent lamps are used.

The 150,000 candle-power required for these lamps would light nearly 200 blocks of a city, using the customary arc lamp of 800 candle-power at each street intersection.

Capacity of oil tanks, 22,900 gallons.
15 steel racks and bins are used in storing stock.

The tire racks hold five carloads of tires.

All Harley-Davidson factory buildings are of reinforced concrete construction and are absolutely fireproof.
1913 advertising appropriation, $75,000.00.

The most completely equipped photograph studio west of New York is on the fifth floor of the Harley-Davidson factory.

Harley-Davidsons are used in nine departments of the United States government.

There are 3,900 Harley-Davidsons used in the rural mail service alone.
The People's Gas Light & Coke Co. of Chicago uses 77 Harley-Davidsons.

The Bell Telephone Co. uses more than 700 Harley-Davidsons.
The Harley-Davidson will carry 250 pounds of luggage in addition to a rider weighing 275 pounds.

Number of miles a Harley-Davidson has run without a mechanical breakdown, repair or replacement, 13,000.

The first Harley-Davidson, built eleven years ago, are still in service. One of them having run more than 100,000 miles without a single replacement of any motor parts. The Harley-Davidson and Excelsior Motorcycles sold exclusively in Central Texas by

MISS ROWE WINNER

GETS THE PRIZE OFFERED BY HOLLAND'S MAGAZINE—$50 PRIZE.

Waco Young Lady Gives the Business Woman's View of the Suffrage Question.

Miss Bert Rowe of Waco won the $50 prize in the competition of Holland's Magazine, upon the argument, "Why I Want to Vote and Why I Do Not Want to Vote." Her article is here given in order that Miss Rowe's home friends may see what a clever little woman she is with her pen, as well as the line of argument against suffrage which was considered by the Holland judges as the strongest:

A Business Woman's View.
I am alone in the world. For ten years I have been alone, and during that time I have brushed against many classes and nationalities of men in my struggle for a livelihood. The word "men" I use in a restricted sense, for there has been little opportunity during this time for the companionship of women. Year by year I have come to judge things from a man's standpoint. I think more like a man and to acquire masculine ways.

I was born a gentleman as were my mother and my grandmother before me. My grandmother raised twelve children and I lived in her household with a score of slaves before the war. She then continued to raise her children and care for her household without any aid—she remained a gentleman, and was happy. My mother raised just half as many children as did my grandmother, and likewise cared for her household without hired service. She also remained a gentleman and was happy. Neither knew any more about politics or business than does the average schoolboy of the present day. They had no time to invade man's domain because they were too busy perfecting and glorifying the one which was theirs by right of a woman's heritage.

From them as from generations such as they, I inherited the instincts and qualifications that made me a fit successor to their kingdom, but I foolishly relinquished my birthright and invaded a new and unknown territory—that of men. Year by year, the gentle qualities that were an inherent part of me have sloughed off like burnt flesh, leaving a surface callous to hostile worldly thrusts; but unpleasant to think upon. I am no longer a gentleman. I am simply a woman who works.

Her Practical Viewpoint.

When one enters Greece, he must at least allow the Greeks the privilege of remaining Greek. If he can't become one himself. When I, like thousands such as I, invaded man's sphere and found the man of business an entirely different species from the man at home, I received an unpleasant shock. I have long since ceased to be subject to shocks. When I enter an office I don't expect its occupant to rise to receive me. If he drags his feet out of the way so I may pass, I give him the benefit of the doubt and take it as a courtesy. If he does not drag them out of the way and I stumble over them at the pain of his favorite bunion, my calloused ears are the recipient of words that my mother never heard outside of the pulpit. An apology does not follow as a salve to my wounded feelings. I may swear back if I like, or I may take my doll rags and go home.

Woman's usurpation of man's province and rights began less than half a century ago, yet so continuous and persistent has been the invasion that man has become hopelessly bewildered, unable either to cope with it or check it.

First the schoolmaster was replaced by the schoolmistress because she was cheaper, and the word "schoolmaster" became a term of derision. Next clerks were replaced by shop girls, also because they were cheaper, and a man clerk became contemptuously referred to as a counter-jumper. Then man took up stenography and bookkeeping as a means of earning his bread and butter, but relentless woman pushed on in his wake, successfully crowding him out of his rightful possession—always by the power of her insignia, "Cheaper Labor."

Neglect of Home.
Not content with her success at demolishing man's stronghold along business lines, she is now clamoring at his very citadel, striving to wrest the reins of government from his hands and to thrust him from his final fort. The crying of the children who need her in her own domain fall on deaf ears. While she is failing to form a government, her home is falling in neglected ruins, and she stubbornly refuses to realize that the home is the foundation of the government—the only rock on which it is built—the raison d'être of a government.

While she is eagerly striving to make laws for the government of man, man-in-the-making is loosely roaming the streets in ignorance of those laws. It is that she is ambitious to establish a perfect government, let her become a successful homemaker and the perfect government will be its natural outgrowth. If she would be a factor in its citizenship, let her remain at home, instilling into her son those traits that are necessary to the forming of an honorable man, and into her daughter the qualifications needed to make her a helpmeet to such a man. These are the greatest gifts she can offer to the service of her country.

Not long since a friend of my girlhood, who had spent the year since her marriage in hotels and select boarding houses, began a discussion of the suffrage question.

"What?" she exclaimed in surprise.

HILL TOPS LEAVE FOR TRAINING CAMP

FRANK CHANCE GOES TO BER-MUDA WITH THIRTEEN HIGH-LANDER CANDIDATES.

VETERAN TO REPORT LATER

Peerless Leader Farsighted — Plenty of Pitchers and Catchers—His Prospects Promising.

(By W. J. Macbeth.) New York, Feb. 22.—Frank Chance's thirteen battery men sailed this morning, aboard the steamship Arcadian, for Bermuda. The superstitious need have no fear about the "hoodoo" number for a party of newspaper men, including the writer, went along to swell the crowd far beyond the spell of any jinx.

Aboard the tossing boat is the main hope of the Peerless Leader for the things in the local American league situation. Chance has always believed that a championship team must be built up around good pitchers and catchers. His policy has always been to hold the score of the opposing teams to a minimum. One of the oldest maxims of baseball says that it takes runs to win a ball game.

Chance will have ten pitchers and three catchers under his watchful eye on the little British island. Save by records none of these are known to him. He has not seen any of them in uniform except Ed Sweeney, who practiced a bit with the Cubs last spring when he was holding out for more money from Wolverton.

"I did not see much of Sweeney," said Chance before he sailed a week ago, "but what I did see impressed me. He is a big, strong fellow and from what everyone says he is a finished catcher. Of the pitchers I know little save what has been tipped to me since I signed with Mr. Farrell. Russell Ford told me while he was visiting in California that the flinging corps, if properly handled, should equal anything in the major league. If this procrastination is correct I will have no cause to work. I will guarantee that I will get all out of the tossers that is in them."

Veterans to Rely on Always.

Chance has many veterans to begin with. All of them are right hands. Russell Ford is recognized the class of the lot, despite his disappointing form in 1912. He was the sensation of the league in 1910, his first season, winning 26 games and losing only six. He slumped a little the following season, winning two-thirds of his games. His record last year was much better than that of his club. Ford was handicapped from the start of last year. He rounded into condition very slowly and had to go along nearly two months without Sweeney, his only reliable battery mate. Toward the end of the season Ford seemed to have regained all his old time effectiveness. He pitched a game against the Giants toward the end of the season and called much praise from McGraw. Ford is the only pitcher before the public who can, at will, break his spitball to either right or left.

Old Players Are Reliable.

The other veteran pitchers are Ray Fisher, Ray Caldwell, Jan Warhop and George McConnell. Warhop is the gamest little fellow you can possibly imagine. He has an underhand delivery that is the most puzzling since the days of Joe McGinnity. Warhop never was a bad pitcher but should be a crackerjack in 1913. Formerly he weighed only 145 pounds in fighting trim. He has taken on nearly twenty-five pounds since the start of the season. Yet he is not fat. His extra flesh is good muscle and Jack is sure that he will give the best of his comrades a run for pitching honors. Fisher, Caldwell and McConnell are all big fellows. McConnell stands 6 feet 3 inches in height and, though slim, is a very good pitcher. Both he and Fisher are spitball pitchers. McConnell is possessed of terrific speed, which he mixes with a puzzling change of pace. He starts his pitching away up over his head, thus putting the batter at a distinct disadvantage. Ray Caldwell, a lanky six-footer, is one of the best curve pitchers in the circuit. His team-mates declare that his fast ball is as wicked as that of "Smoky" Joe Wood. Caldwell would have been a great pitcher the past two seasons had he taken proper care of himself.

The five recruit pitchers are Chester Hoff, Al Schultz, Padd Green, Ray Keating and George Davis. Al but Green have had a trial on the Hilltop. Hoff pitched his first professional ball last season. He did not have much of a fast ball and was turned over to Hartford, where he developed into a wonder. He came back in the fall a very much improved performer. Hoff is a southpaw and if he has the necessary speed will give a good account of himself in any class. He has a beautiful curve and as fine a drop as could be desired. He seemed a little tight a year ago, but now he is very young and since then has filled out to man's size.

Plenty of Southpaws.

Schultz is a left-hander, too. He hails from the South Atlantic league. He pitched several games at the tail end of the past season and acquitted himself as one of the greatest prospects since the first arrival of the disappointing Jim Vaughn. Schultz is about as high as Vaughan, has as much speed and apparently better control. Green is a giant recruit from the New England league and so is Keating. Green has never been seen in a big league uniform. Keating was all worn out winning a pennant for Lawrence before he reported to the Hilltops. He had no opportunity to prove his worth. Davis is a college product, a Williams College offering. He was awfully green and will probably be assigned to bench duty for a while if he is retained.

Chance never has had much experience with spitball pitchers but he will find enough to satisfy his curiosity when the Arcadian lands his human freight at Hamilton, Bermuda. Fisher, McConnell, Green and Keating all dally with the wet delivery.

That Chance is pretty well satisfied with his catching corps was shown when he refused to trade Green to Connie Mack for Schang, the sensational catcher, secured by draft from Buffalo. Sweeney, of course, will do the bulk of the receiving if he is not injured. Sterrett may beat out Williams for second choice because of his hitting ability.

New Manager Cincinnati Nationals

Joe Tinker.

Frank Chance and John H. McGraw are not the only ones who are engendering the interest of the baseball world at this time. A goodly portion of the spot light is occupied by the redoubtable Joe Tinker, the former shortstop of the Cubs, and now manager of the Cincinnati Nationals. Since taking up his managerial duties Tinker has acted as one who knows just what he wants and he has a fairly clear idea of how to go after it. While he has never before been tried out as a manager, he has, as a player, made the reputation of a man who is always on the job and likewise wise to the game, not a bad quality for a manager to start out with.

Tinker recently has added some valuable players to his team and there will be nothing surprising if he makes his club a contender for the pennant during the coming season.

Waco Gliding Smoothly; Friction in Houston Club

Doak Roberts Will Make Race With Same Team Virtually — Recruits Signed Not Taken Seriously—Policy Questioned.

While the Waco club is gliding along as smoothly as a returning bowling sphere there is some dissension down Houston way, a little dissatisfaction around the Packing House village where the Panthers are still screaming over losing cellar position to Beaumont. The Dallas fandom is not at all pleased because the season opens away from the home village, San Antonio is acquainting a new manager with his innumerable duties and the other clubs expect several things to happen. The rock firm. Roberts has signed fewer recruits than any other Texas league team and sold less old players. The young material is not anything promising and it is not believed that the manager will take much pain to develop a single recruit. Scribe Ruzgis in the Houston Post has this to say:

"When the official umpire tears the tinfoil from an official ball and howls 'play ball' at the Houston and San Antonio clubs in the Alamo City on the afternoon of April 10, will the lineup of John Henry Fillman's followers be practically the same as that which heard taps blown over a dead year in 1912? That is a question which has caused Mr. Fan to ruminate considerably during the winter now almost over."

Well, will it? And, one can only say with the portly Major Roberts: Maybe so. Maybe so, but we'll wait and see. Maybe so—yes, but it isn't likely. For it is seldom indeed that any given championship club can line up its strength in an ensuing year just as in the months of its triumph and repeat. They don't do it. And Houston is no exception.

Roster Is Untouched. The Buffs swing into the 1913 season with a roster practically untouched save in the loss of two brilliant pitchers whose work went so far toward bringing that coveted rag to West End—Foster and the collegian, Edmondson. Two things went to bunting for the Buffs: The supreme strength of the majority of its hurlers and the offensive brain of the club as a whole and of three or four stars in particular.

Brain is a thing you can count on year after year even when the muscles are a bit twisted and the feet slower than of yore on the bases.

Leaves Out Dissension. The Houston scribes fail to attach any notice to the little bee of dissension with the Buffs, but it is there alright. As long as the club consists of the two men who now compose it there will always be friction. In view of what the great managers have done to bring home the plums there is some question about holding the rock firm. Roberts has signed fewer recruits than any other Texas league team and sold less old players. The young material is not anything promising and it is not believed that the manager will take much pain to develop a single recruit. Scribe Ruzgis in the Houston Post has this to say:

Houston had a wealth of speedy men on the paths in 1912, but there were men there, too, who ran bases and ran them well, because they possessed the requisite head. Houston returns two catchers who formed the best pair of maskmen in the league last season. Waco had a veteran and Dallas a youngster who were individually better, but no team has been so well protected behind the plate in this league since Waco had Carson and McCorn in 1911. In the infield—it is the old combination back—Newnam, Fillman, Britton and Knaupp, the right side of the diamond, crafty age, the left, brilliant youth. In the gardens, two spectacular veterans return—Davis and Whitman. And Criss, he of the burly willow, may come back, though it is hardly probable.

What does Doak Roberts say of the possibility of the Buffs standing pat? Here is his opinion: "How can you tell? The team that won the flag in 1912 was selected on paper that winter. By a miracle every part fitted in and delivered. With a couple of twirlers to replace Foster and Edmondson (and we have bought Miller and hope to buy Stewart) we would be in first rate condition to stand pat. But you can never tell. And one of our youngsters may develop into an effulgent star. Brilliant though Britton and Knaupp may be, they may fade, besides some of the new timber, the Indian Alberty, for instance, of whom we have heard wonderful things."

There is another phase of standing pat to be considered. There is a recognized axiom of baseball algebra that a change of scene is often needed by a player. A man who went good in 1912 may have grown sadder-tired here in 1913 and may not go good until sent elsewhere, as was the case with Heinie Deiters some years back.

A minor league club that wins a championship isn't often given a chance to stand pat. But few major league clubs that have tried it have proved successful, at any rate, for more than two years.

No better apostle of the fallacy of that theory could be advanced than Colonel Hedges, whose 1908 experience is responsible for his present woes. That year McAleer had the Browns in the heat of the American league race. They looked like a winner for the ensuing year. But they stood pat, and the Browns dropped with a dull thud to where the bottom sifted out of nothing. Hedges has been an earnest progressive ever since.

New Stadium for Lehigh.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 22.—A new gymnasium, stadium and swimming pool is to be erected for the use of Lehigh university students through the generosity of Charles L. Taylor of Pittsburgh, an alumnus and a member of the board of trustees of the university. The new building will be erected on the grounds of the university at an estimated cost of $200,000. The gymnasium will have a 200 foot front and a depth of about 240 feet. The stadium will have a seating capacity of 11,000.

Arizona has established the eight-hour day for miners and smelters.

Asbell Meets Montour

JIM ASBELL.

The man who was with Frank Gotch on his famous vaudeville tour of the United States with Jim Jeffries, the deposed heavyweight champion, in 1908-09, can meet Chief Montour, the champion Indian grappler of the world in a finished wrestling bout here Tuesday night at the Majestic theatre. Promoter M. Charleson has matched Montour and Jim Asbell, who hails from Dallas, and he says the men will be in the pink of condition for the big event.

The wrestling game in Waco is young, but the fans know a good match when they see it. The bout Tuesday night will be for $300 purse, winner take all. It will go to a finish if it takes all night.

Massingill to Coach Poly.

M. L. Massingill, Baylor '07, familiarly known all over the state as "Happy Massingill," has been chosen coach of the Polytechnic baseball team for the current season. He has an arrangement with the college by which he will have to give only his hours after school for this work, as he is practicing law in Fort Worth and cannot afford to neglect his profession in order to coach a team.

He is a good all-round athlete, having demonstrated this by his work as a student in Baylor and later at the University of Texas. He is a star official in basketball, baseball and football, being very much in demand all over the state, and his many Waco friends are glad to see him honored with the position as coach, where they feel confident he will deliver the goods.

Tigers Leave for Camp.

Detroit, Feb. 22.—Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit American league baseball club, he here today with the first squad of players for the southern training camp at Gulfport, Miss. Pitchers Mullin and Lake and Shortstop Bush were the veterans accompanying the squad today. Jennings predicted that Outfielders Cobb and Crawford and Pitcher Dubuc would be in the fold by March 1.

CONTRARY TO OUR COMPETITORS' ARGUMENT

That where Pianos are sold so much cheaper you can't find value, Our Pianos Are Better and Best.

"QUALITY"

Largely determines value, but our long experience in this business, places us in a position to buy value, cheaper. Our customers get the benefit of this in reduced prices.

CONSIDER

We have been in business 20 years in Texas. Never failed, never burned. We are responsible and have a reputation to maintain, you can't make a mistake by dealing with us, we are of, and for Waco, our home, its mutual, so come, let us reason.

"I'm never at a loss to entertain my guests."

An evening's pleasure is often marred when at the last moment it is found that the piano will be silent. The expected artist sends regrets—no one else is willing to volunteer because they "are out of practice." The lady with a Farrand Cecilian Player-Piano is never at a loss to entertain her friends at any time.

The surprise of the first player-piano was not that the music was well executed but that it could be done at all.

The manufacturers of the Farrand Cecilian Player-Piano were not content to rest with a mechanism that would merely produce sound, harmonious to the untrained ear, but lacking in feeling to those of keener perceptions. Metal mechanism, tempo lever, thematic buttons and complete, instantaneous, perfect control is what gives the Farrand Cecilian its manifest superiority.

Any family that can afford a piano can afford the Farrand Cecilian, and no one should deny themselves this wonderful source of home entertainment. Many people feel regret after purchasing an ordinary piano, for after the first flush of enthusiasm there is the question, "who will play it?" With a Farrand Cecilian Player-Piano this is settled satisfactorily at once. They can take turns and without jealousy over different degrees of proficiency. Call at our store and see the Farrand Cecilian. Play it yourself, and then imagine it in your home.

AMATEUR CHAMP SEEKS PROFESSION

SAN FRANCISCO OLYMPIC CLUB BELIEVES BOB McALLISTER ELIGIBLE.

JIM CORBETT LIKES YOUTH

Pacific Coast Excited Over What Cub Heavyweight Can Accomplish in Pugilistic Circles.

(By W. W. Naughton.)

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—The Olympic Athletic club of San Francisco, which was the alma mater of such world famous boxers as Jim Corbett and Jimmy Britt now is somewhat excited over the fact that it has produced another ring man, likely to make as big a splash in the professional pool as his illustrious predecessors.

Bob McAllister is the youth's name and he has already distinguished himself to the extent of winning the Pacific Coast championship in the middle and lightweight divisions. He is fairly tall, with sloping shoulders, and has not yet reached the twenty year mark. Some of the club men think he has considerable resemblance to the Jim Corbett of twenty years ago, but to the writer he brings thoughts of Joe Cheynski when the latter was a cub-heavyweight.

McAllister's last engagement was with Tad Darbyshire, amateur heavyweight champion of the northwest, who was brought here from Portland, Ore., by Tom Tracey to compete in a tourney at the Olympic club. The things McAllister did to Darbyshire were outrageous. The northern, although he had accounted for everything of heavyweight dimensions in his own balliwick, was as putty in the hands of the Olympic crack. The affair was so woefully one-sided that Tracey scrambled up the platform stairs after a few rounds and acknowledged defeat for his man.

Caught Professional Epidemic. Now McAllister has the professional bee buzzing in his bonnet. The fellows who want to make a journeyman fighter of him have pointed out to him that there are no new worlds to conquer in the amateur line. They have impressed upon him that various experts have pronounced him a better man than any of the middles or lightheavies boxing for a living today and they have urged upon him that he is neglecting his own interests by hesitating about embarking in a business which promises such good rewards. While poor Bob was in the throes of indecision Jim Corbett came to town. The Olympians promptly arranged an exhibition spar between McAllister and one Joe Herrick and invited Corbett to attend. Of course the idea was to have Corbett pass upon McAllister's merits. The test took place and Corbett was genuinely enthusiastic over McAllister's work. At the same time Jim checked the ardor of the Olympians to some extent, pointed out the weak points of their latest idol. He instanced that McAllister keeps his head too erect while leading to his adversary.

"If he becomes a professional and fails to correct this habit it will get him into trouble," said Jim. "No matter how he may be able to beat an opponent to the punch, there are any number of hard faced fellows who would catch on to the way he kept his head aloft like flies on a parade. Then they would be willing to take his lead and send over a counter that would spell disaster."

Corbett Finds a Lacking. Corbett also finds fault with McAllister for not feinting enough, but admitted that any defects in Bob's methods might be traced to the fact that he had so outclassed all his opponents so far that there had been no occasion for him to school himself in many of the tricks of the trade.

Corbett acknowledged that there was good reason for the Olympic club being hopeful in regard to McAllister's future and was not doubted whether any of the present crop of middleweights could defeat the amateur champion. Bob's method of keeping himself well balanced while in action, his fine, free use of both hands, his quickness in sending home a blow when his opponent mislaid and his particularly effective way of warning his man's ribs when fighting close, all appealed to the veteran who, even with the defects spoken of, pronounced McAllister the most likely suppling he had looked at in years.

Will He Turn Professional? The question of turning professional is still agitating McAllister, but quite a number have advised him that the time is not yet.

Said one club man of very many years standing: "Granted that he is a boxing marvel, how do we know that he can stand rough treatment as well as administer it? In the use of the gloves—so far as the amateur end of it is concerned—he is in a class by himself, but for all we know he may be cured with a glass jaw. Personally I'd like to see Bob thoroughly tried out from an endurance standpoint before I subscribed to the argument that he ought to turn professional."

In a way the Olympic club is as a house divided against itself over the McAllister matter, many of the members urging him to take the plunge, while others are warning him to go slow. Of this particular point Jim Corbett has been non-committal so far, contenting himself with remarking sagely: "If you make your mark as a professional you're all right, but if you don't you're all wrong." Meanwhile Bob McAllister is tugging at the leash and the club directors are thinking up schemes to restrain his impetuosity. One way is to bring out here the champion amateur heavyweight of all the east and determine, first of all, whether McAllister is beyond argument the best gentleman boxer in the country.

Jack Egan, former member of Ban Johnson's staff of umpires, is now a jewelry manufacturer at Providence, R. I. Jack claims that he is making more money selling jewelry than he did in baseball.

BROWNS' QUARTERS IN SHAPE

Henry Fabian Has Conditioned Cotton Palace Park and Gone On Visit to Houston.

The Cotton Palace park ball diamonds must be in most excellent condition, Henry Fabian, code for diamond doctor, left here two weeks ago, presumably for St. Louis, but instead he tiptoed it to Houston with his sack of magic grass seed and is culturing that Houston lot for the home club. Save for a few holes and other slight defects, Doctor Fabian had an easy task planning off the bumps at the Cotton Palace field. He left a man in charge and the lot will be in as good or better condition when the Browns begin practice Monday morning as it was any time during the period the Chicago White Sox were here in 1912.

SCHEDULE FOR BAYLOR.

Included in the party were Manager Birmingham, LeRoy Turner, Gray, Strand, Blanding and Betts, an outfielder recruit. The first stage of the training season will be spent at Pensacola, Fla. Later the club will sojourn at New Orleans.

Catcher O'Neal, who was expected to go south today, is a holdout.

To Welcome Connie Mack.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 22.—Arrangements were completed today by the fans here to greet the arrival of the Philadelphia Americans and Connie Mack February 27 with a brass band, an automobile parade and speeches by leading business men and fans. The training squad of the Texas league club will take a prominent part in the reception and the team will be entertained its first day here with motor trip around the Spanish mission loop.

"If I could take you through the Selz 'Royal Blue' Factory in Chicago," said the Shoe Salesman, "I would prove to you positively why the name Selz on a shoe means 'good shoe.'"

Forty years ago Selz started making good footwear, they have been doing it ever since. Their business has grown until today they are the largest makers of GOOD SHOES in the world.

They started with the same materials, the same mechanical facilities, the same sort of workers that all manufacturers of shoes had then; they have now practically the same as all others have; they buy the best leather; they have the best machinery; they employ the most skillful labor possible; they improve in these matters wherever and whenever they can.

One thing they started with forty years ago hasn't changed any; a determination never to put their name on a shoe that wasn't good enough all through for you to pay your money for.

10% CASH
$10.00
A MONTH BUYS A LOT
$200 UP

$20,000 Y.M.C.A.

It is now practically assured that a magnificent Y. M. C. A. Building will be erected at a cost of approximately $20,000.00, and handsomely and modernly equipped, in connection with the terminals of the Katy in East Waco. This building, with its environments and purpose, alone will prove an inducement to locate the best of families near its site. Many other features of East Waco, together with the great demand for homes, points the FINGER OF PROFITS to investments today made in Tom Murphy's Addition.

The Y. M. C. A. has already added value to this property.

For White People Only. No Liquor Will Ever Be Sold on Property. Deeds Will Prohibit.

Situated on the South Side of the Katy railroad tracks, directly opposite, just across the road from the shops, round house and artesian well. High elevation—perfect drainage—NO DUST, NO SMOKE—NO CINDERS—the most desirable homesites in the entire Katy shop district. This addition is named for Tom Murphy, the venerable "KATY" conductor who is held in great love and esteem by all who know him. The demand for homes in the shop district is enormous. There are hundreds of employees and their families ready to move to Waco as soon as they can find a house to live in. EVERY AVAILABLE HOUSE IS TAKEN in East Waco and rental agents report to us that they could rent a hundred houses if they had them. DON'T YOU KNOW that they are building here as large shops and terminals as they have in Parsons, Kansas? HERE IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY—A SMALL CASH PAYMENT down secures a lot—salesmen on the property Sunday. The Independent Telephone Co. management said in Tuesday's paper that they were arranging for 500 telephones at Bell Meade yards. Go see the houses being built over there.

UNDER SUSPICION ARE HIS REPORTS

NEWSPAPERS ATTACK STORIES WRITTEN BY LIEUT. WAGNER FROM FRONT.

NOT ON THE SCENE THEY SAY

Officer of the Austria-Hungary Army Has Scored Beats on War Correspondents.

London, Feb. 22.—The reputation of Lieutenant Hans Wagner, of the Austro-Hungarian army, as a war correspondent, is to be determined by an Austrian court of justice, according to information received here from the Austrian capital.

Lieutenant Wagner represented the Reichspost of Vienna with the Bulgarian army. He scored a series of seeming beats over his rivals which attracted worldwide attention. Afterward accusations of faking were leveled against him, one in particular by other correspondents, who asserted that a description of the battle of Lule Burg, when he reported that he had been at the front three days in the saddle "until my poor horse could not walk another step," really was written many miles from the scene of action.

Another Vienna newspaper, the Zeit, attacked the authenticity of Wagner's reports somewhat bitterly, and it is to be the defendant in the litigation. Lieutenant Wagner did not bring suit himself, but reported the attacks made upon him by the Zeit to the colonel of his regiment, that the military authorities might take action to clear his reputation if they thought fit. Doctor Funder, the chief editor of the Reichspost, has brought the libel suit, the Zeit having called him a "scoundrel" for publishing Wagner's messages. The Zeit charged that these messages were largely concocted in the editorial office of the Reichspost by Austrian staff officers. The Reichspost insists that they were genuine, although it is understood the editor is prepared to admit that they came in such condensed form that the aid of military experts was required to decipher them intelligently.

Some delay before the trial of the case is likely, as the editor of the Zeit has asked for a month in which to collect evidence and prepare for his defense. The hearings will be deeply interesting to newspapers and military men alike.

The British scholastic world is stirred to its depths by an agitation over the affairs of the University of Bristol, which arises from the enterprising action of the members of the University council in complimenting themselves by the bestowal of honorary scholastic degrees upon themselves.

The council thought it befitting to celebrate a recent anniversary by the distribution of honors to numerous eminent men. This proposal met with the approval of the university, Lord Roberts, sundry bishops and other celebrities were invited to the university to receive their diplomas, and the occasion was made a red letter day in the annals of the quiet provincial city. Some sixty degrees altogether were conferred, and there was great enthusiasm over the appearance of England's foremost soldier, but the enthusiasm failed to maintain itself at fever heat when it was developed that about half of the honors were being distributed to members of the body which was bestowing them in the name of the University.

Most of these gentlemen were prosperous merchants and manufacturers, but the majority were tainted with the suspicion of lacking such scholastic attainments as would qualify them to write Master of Arts, or Doctor of Laws after their names. Hitherto all British universities have been very conservative in granting honorary degrees. The possession of such a distinction was a reward for real work: scholarly, professional or scientific.

There are only seven universities in England, Oxford and Cambridge, of course, stand alone. The other five are comparatively new creations, in Manchester, Birmingham, Sheffield, Liverpool and Bristol. Graduates of the two ancient schools have looked upon the new comers with suspicion, lest they lower the value and dignity of being a "varsity man," which, in a country of strong caste lines like England means vastly more than it does in America. Hence the storm. The university caste have been pouring reproach and ridicule upon Bristol. Even the professors of the university sign bitter protests in the newspapers.

The Bishop of Bristol has published a gallant defense. It is in effect that the university is a local institution and should associate itself closely with the life of the city, and that the honors were given to men who had worked for the welfare of the community.

The matter has not been allowed to rest, however, and there is talk of an appeal to the privy council, in which ultimate control of the university is vested, to cancel the degrees.

Worse things are whispered in the general agitation, the short and ugly word of American muckrakers—graft. The British call it "jobbery." Contracts for supplies to the university are voted without competition, to members of the council, say some of the critics, and on terms that make them more profitable than ordinary business.

Dick Nelson, the Swedish-American fighter, is teaching the royalty and nobility of Denmark the many art of self defense, according to despatches received here from Copenhagen. His favorite pupils are Prince Aage, cousin of the king, and Lieutenant in the Royal Life Guards, and his friend, Count Siegfried Raben-Levetzau, a son of the late minister of foreign affairs. The count is married to a beautiful American girl, who was Miss Moulton, of Boston.

Nelson says that the prince and count are the best pupils he ever had. They are making splendid headway and at the present rate they will become champions in their class. It is probable that they will soon don the gloves at public charity entertainments.

M. Wahl, an editor of Silkeborg, Jutland, who died recently at the age of 87, had a brother who died 123 years ago. Wahl was the youngest of eighteen children and between the birth of his father and his own death there was a period of 153 years. His father, who was born in 1759, married twice, the editor being the youngest child of the second marriage. The aged editor was younger than any of his nephews and nieces.

Rev. Knud Gjorup, a Danish-American clergyman residing at Copenhagen, has secured the cooperation of the king and the government in his efforts to have June 15, the anniversary of the appearance of the Danish flag at the battle of Revall, celebrated as a national holiday.

Denmark has had no national holidays since the custom of observing June 5, the anniversary of the granting of the constitution, declined. Thanks to the suggestion of Rev. Gjorup, the fifteenth of June, "Dannebrog" Day, will be celebrated this year all over the country as a national holiday.

DANGER IN MILK SHOWN ON FILM

HEALTH OFFICIALS OF GERMANY MAKING CAMPAIGN FOR PURE FOOD.

USING PICTURES AS EDUCATOR

Carelessness of the Dairyman and the Effect on Human Beings is Exhibited.

Berlin, Feb. 22.—A moving picture film showing the dangers of an impure milk supply has been exhibited with such good effect in Germany that health officials at once became much more rigorous in their enforcement of the pure food regulations. Their campaign against negligent dairymen was conducted with such energy that the milkmen finally presented a petition to the authorities asking for the prohibition of this particular film. In reply to this action Professor Schlossmann, of the Dusseldorf Municipal Hospital for Children, who is responsible for the film, proved that it had led to the trial and conviction of many dairymen for violation of the pure food regulations. Its exhibition was not discontinued.

Much is being said nowadays in Germany about the possible evil effects of moving pictures, but the other side of the question, the moving picture as a public educator, is well illustrated by the experiment of Professor Schlossmann. His film showed particularly how impure milk is responsible for many diseases of children, and it was exhibited extensively throughout the Rhine Province in promoting a propaganda for reducing the rate of infant mortality. The net results so far have been excellent. The health authorities are enforcing existing rules and regulations much more effectively, the dairymen are producing a better article, and the children are drinking cleaner and purer milk.

Moving pictures have become an important part of the entertainment business in Germany. There are now no less than 220 moving picture "theatres" in the capital with as many more in the suburbs. The tendency now is to erect special houses, architecturally suited for picture-shows. Three such establishments are now building in Berlin, one of which will seat 1,500 persons.

On the other hand, there are already signs of overproduction in the business. With so many competitors in the field, prices of admission must necessarily be kept very low. Moreover, the rapidly producing companies, which are on a strong financial basis, are making harder terms for the show managers than hitherto, particularly for the best class of films. As competition grows, the tendency to put on trashy, sensational and melodramatic films increases. Many of the managers hew as closely as possible to the line of police prohibition; hence the cry is raised with growing frequency in press for a more rigid censorship of pictures for a more rigid censorship of pictures, scientists and literary men and artists have been appointed to find ways and means for making the moving picture do better service in disseminating general knowledge and in educating a scientific and educational value.

The weather in the Alps last summer was inclement, and as a result the number of fatal accidents to mountain climbers was reduced from 132 to 95. Had the weather been warm and sunny, the number of tourists would have been normal; there would have been the usual number of attempts to scale dangerous peaks, and instead of 95 fatal accidents there would have been something like the 132 recorded in 1911, or the average of 128 for the past ten years.

These statistics have just been made public by the German Alpine society. By far the larger number of the fatalities of 1912 were due to falls; these amounted to 53 out of the total of 95, and the greater part of these occurred during high-mountain climbs. Thirteen persons were caught by avalanches and killed; eight froze to death; three were carried over precipices by snow-slides and three died of heart failure due to overexertion. Sudden changes in the weather, particularly unexpected snowstorms, were the direct cause of many of the deaths.

Meat prices, with the exception of beef, have advanced sharply again, after having remained nearly stationary since October. October prices were much higher than those for October of 1911, and any advance over them means that a considerable portion of the poorer classes will eat less meat and eat it less often.

The number of animals available for slaughter in Germany is today much lower than it was a year ago, and lower also than it was in 1907. There are reductions in hog and meat cattle compared to a year ago ranging from 5 to 15 per cent, according to the locality, and in some places the reductions in the numbers of sheep amount to 35 per cent.

Buyers paid the farmers about 34 cents a pound for live hogs in January, 1911. This month they are paying about 15½ cents.

The insurance of the German working classes is not to be left wholly in the hands of the government and its organs. An association for insuring the working classes on the largest possible scale has just been founded at Berlin under the presidency of Count Posadowsky, former secretary of the interior.

The capital for this company, amounting to $274,000, has been subscribed by thirty German life insurance companies. They agree to accept a maximum dividend of 4 per cent on their investment, and to put into the by-laws a provision that this feature cannot be changed without the consent of the chancellor of the empire. In addition, these companies supply a fund of $238,000, free of interest, for the purpose of defraying the expenses incident to organizing the general company. The new concern intends to operate largely in conjunction with existing labor unions, sick funds and other organizations of the working classes. It will confine itself to writing small insurance policies of various form and for various purposes. It will also assist workmen in owning their own homes.

INTERCOLLEGIATE PRESS MEET.

Baylor Will Have Three Representatives in the Contests.

Baylor University will be represented in the various contests of the Texas Inter-collegiate Press association this year by Miss Perla Wyatt, Charles A. Benson and Mrs. Willie Reamy Benson. There were several entries for the honor, but when all the manuscripts were graded these three were declared the winners.

Gold medals are given each year to the author of the best poem, the best short story and the best essay submitted by representatives of the colleges of the state holding membership in the association, and last year Baylor students took gold medals for the best poem and short story and received second honors on the essay contest.

The association was organized in response to the call of J. C. McKimmon, then a Baylor student, and now professor of English in the Corsicana high school, and representatives of the institution have been prominent in its affairs ever since.

TO THE Citizens of Waco

I entered the campaign of city commissioner to succeed John F. Wright rather late. I have earnestly endeavored to personally call on every voter in Waco. Naturally I have missed some. Those whom I have seen are loyal to me, a citizen of Waco for thirty years and a taxpayer since I came to Waco. To those whom I have met personally, I solicit your support and assure you my friends are giving their best support to my candidacy.

For the information of those whom I have not met I will say that I am a resident of 116 Dallas street, East Waco, and general chairman of the Order of Railway Conductors for many years. I am making this campaign on my record as a good citizen and taxpayer, with the upbuilding of Waco at heart and stand for a city government that will throw down the bars to progress. I take this method of thanking each and every voter who has loaned his support, and will appreciate your vote.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Feb. 22.—The prosperity of Porto Rico and the gratifying growth experienced by her manufactures and export trade the past few years are reflected in the wealth of exhibits displayed at the third insular fair, which was opened in San Juan today and will be continued through the coming week. In addition to the exhibits the fair management has provided a long list of free attractions, including baseball games, trotting races and automobile races.

Statistics show that the average production for each man employed in coal mining in 1911 was 524 tons in the anthracite mines—an exceptionally large tonnage—and 738 tons in the bituminous mines. The daily production for each man employed was 213 tons for each man in the hard coal mines and 350 tons in the soft coal mines.

APPLICATION FOR COMMISSIONER

Mess. Voter, Taxpayer &amp; Co.,

Gentlemen—There is soon to be a vacancy in your city "Board of Directors," designated under your charter as "City Commission." To decide upon who are to be given the authority to manage the welfare and business interests of your large corporation for the next two years, you are to determine practically the question on next Tuesday, the 25th inst., at a primary election.

I respectfully make application for the position of City Commissioner, place No. 2, in charge of Waco streets and alleys, being the same position now held by Mr. P. A. Gorman, not an applicant for this position again. In applying for this responsible position to help look after the business welfare of all the people, it is but right that I should give you proper proof that I am qualified to fill such place satisfactorily, and furnish reference as to my general ability and character to justify your confidence.

I have been a business man for many years, embarking in business on my own account at the age of seventeen years. I came to Texas in the summer of 1887, locating in Waco. With the exception of nine years of business in Fort Worth, Waco has been my home ever since.

I have been in nearly every important city in the United States, in the course of travel, and have been a close observer of city affairs, and particularly the manner of building streets and their upkeep. Such experience, I can assure you, is valuable for originating and initiating work in this department, should I be chosen as your street commissioner.

In my twenty-six years residence in Texas I have never before run for a public office, either elective or appointive, hence cannot be regarded as a "politician." I have been nearly all the time in business for myself. My only employer was the Cotton Belt Railroad company, for whom I served as ticket agent (the second this company had in Waco) from 1887 to 1889.

As to my business standing and credit responsibility I can refer to commercial agencies and the business community of Waco. As to my general character, I refer to those who know me best. And in this connection I will attach some non-resident references for your consideration, among which are from two former employers with whom I came in close and daily contact for years; each being well qualified to judge me.

Should you see fit to give me this position by your votes, I promise the best service that I can, and to be faithful to the interests of those who confide in me—the citizens of Waco.

As before stated in these columns, I stand for the most progressive policies consistent with safe financing. Progressiveness does not imply extravagance. But I favor substantial improvement of the permanent sort, the cheapest in the end.

I believe in good streets. Rather than add additional territory to our city, I would favor improvement of what we have already within the city limits.

I believe in the most liberal policy toward our city parks, and favor increasing their attractiveness so that the employe class might find relaxation and amusement to the fullest extent when not at their regular daily labor. To increase the "fun bucket brigade" and hold labor among us, every comfort and attraction should be provided at the minimum of cost to such of our citizens. We already have a great agricultural foundation, but to build a great city, factories and labor are essential, and we must make the burden light on these twin brothers of commerce.

I favor justice to all, whether it is the individual, or the corporation enjoying vested rights. I would not impose an unjust burden on any natural, or law made being.

Should you honor me with your confidence, and create in me a city commissioner, it will be my sincere purpose to harmonize with my colleagues, and in cases of difference of the mind, they would be matters of policy rather than personal, so far as I could control the situation. Very respectfully,

D. E. HIRSHFIELD.

To the Waco People:

I understand that Mr. D. E. Hirschfield, my former employer at Fort Worth, is now a candidate for city commissioner (in charge of streets) of the city of Waco.

Now, I want to tell the people of Waco something about the man I have just mentioned, so that they will know something about him whom they may possibly not know now.

I worked for the gentleman named seven years. I began in his employ on a small salary and left to go to another city. When I left him my salary was over double what it was when I began, and I never asked for a raise; in all instances my salary was raised voluntarily because my employer thought it due me.

I never was employed by a man who was more considerate and just to an employee, and every one of his employees during my service thought the same as I do now.

EIGHT HOUR DAY LAW BUSINESS IS PICKING UP

CARPENTERS' UNION PRESENTS A DEMAND TO COUNTY ATTORNEY.

Organized Labor Protests Against Longer Than Legal Hours on the City Paving Work.

Whether the Texas Bitulthite company will openly fight the operation of the eight-hour day law as it affects laborers who voluntarily work for more than eight hours depends upon what the general attorney for the company in Dallas has to say about the matter. Eight-hour work is being done by this company pending word from the home office.

Following the presentation by the Carpenters' union of a demand to the county attorney yesterday that he take steps to stop the Roach-Manigan company, having the contract for paving Franklin street west of Eighth, from working its men over time, Assistant City Attorney D. C. Woods sent notice to the superintendent in charge of the work that steps could be taken against him if the men continued to work overtime. At dinner it was announced to the men that they need not work more than eight hours unless they desired to.

Following a conference and examination of officers of the Bitulthite company, that concern was not to continue to work its men for more than eight hours a day until word had been received from their Dallas office. T. M. Locke, superintendent; Ed Wood and C. H. Beattie, foremen, appeared with Allan D. Sanford, in the county attorney's office and the statements of the first three were taken.

Whether the law can be shown to mean that no concern is permitted to work men for more than eight hours, or whether work additional hours, or whether the employee if he so desires, is the point to be considered in the present tangle. The men are paid by the hour by the paving companies, hence the fewer hours they work the less money they will receive for it.

The agitation of this matter has originated with the carpenters' union. Delegates from this union took the matter up at the Central Labor Council last week and at the meeting of the carpenters' union Thursday night strong resolutions were passed calling on the county attorney to invoke the law.

A similar resolution was presented to Mayor Mackey by the carpenters requesting that the city take some action in regard to the law. Mayor Mackey stated that he would investigate it.

COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN

Miss Sadie American Makes Address On the Organization at the Temple.

Miss Sadie American, who was received by a large congregation at the Jewish Temple on Friday night when she lectured on "The Jewish Women," is one of the most prominent figures of the church on this continent. Ample assurance was given her that the local council would begin its work with a strong membership, the details to be completed at another meeting to be held on Tuesday.

Miss American was born in Chicago and was educated in the public schools of that city. She was secretary of the National Council of Jewish Women, World's Congress of Jewish Women, and was one of the founders of the Council of Jewish Women in 1893. She is a member of the advisory committee of the National Educational Association, and of practically all the national organizations of the country. Jewish women are interested or which affect the home life.

The purposes of the Council of Jewish Women are to further united efforts on behalf of Judaism by supplying means of study; by uniting, to bring about closer relations among Jewish women; to furnish a medium for interchange of thought, and a means of communicating and of prosecuting work of common interest; to further united effort in the work of social betterment through religion, philanthropy and education.

The council is a union of representative Jewish women of America for conference and for work. Through the council, the Jewish women as a whole are represented in every movement, national and international, looking toward the progress of humanity. Every Jewish woman is invited to membership.

Biscuits. It was their first day at housekeeping. The pictures were all up and carpets were all down.

She knew how to make biscuits. But that was all, for she had only spent two years at cooking school.

"Oh, goody!" she cried. "I'll give Harold a surprise. We'll have a biscuit supper."

Harold came home. He kissed her in the vestibule, the hall, the ante-room and so on into the dining room.

"First course, biscuits!" she twittered as they sat down to dinner.

Harold, devouring her with his eyes, devoured the biscuits with his teeth and avidity.

"Second course, biscuits!" she carried.

"How novel!" exclaimed Harold, and devoured seven more.

The third course was biscuits, and as for the fourth, biscuits. It was a four-course dinner, and Harold did justice to each course. For desert there were biscuits.

It was a double funeral and all the papers mentioned the handsome floral tributes.—Detroit Free Press.

Postmaster Hoffman Reports Great Increase in Money Order Sales Over Year Ago.

A comparative statement on the money order business done by the Waco postoffice during the month of January, with the corresponding month last year, shows a remarkable increase and is convincing evidence that Waco is growing rapidly. The statement shows 776 more money orders were issued for a total of $7,751.24, and 1291 money orders were paid, amounting to $6488.76.

The increase in the number and the amount of money orders issued is 38 per cent and in the number and the amount paid is 15 per cent. The following is a comparative statement issued yesterday by Postmaster W. H. Hoffmann:

Views of a Business Men.

I have been over the city looking impartially into the street commissioner's race, as I am deeply interested in good streets, and it seems to be the prevailing opinion among the people of all walks of life that Bob Payne is the only man in the race that has had the necessary practical experience to make a valuable man as street commissioner. He has had eight years experience in building roads in commissioner's precinct No. 2, and the people of that precinct realized his usefulness, and he had no opposition during his entire eight years. He is a man that will be of untold value to the people of Waco, and I am glad to see that so many of the voters are of the same opinion that I am.

MISS ROHRER GIVES A DINNER.

Entertains the East Waco Members of the High School Senior Class.

Friday evening last Miss Maude Rohrer was the hostess at a very delightful dinner given to the young men of East Waco graduating from high school this year. The dinner was an informal, five course affair. The color scheme, pink, was carried out in the smallest detail, carnations and ribbon being used in a very beautiful and harmonious effect.

Those present were: Miss Virile Fair, "Miss" and "Mrs. M. M. Wallace and Messrs. Leslie Paulk, Ben Kelley, Clark Roberts, Oscar Rohrer, Sterling McMurray and J. Bates McKinney.

PIMPLES GO IN A HURRY

Blotches, Blackheads and All Skin Eruptions Disappear When Stuart's Calcium Wafers Are Used.

You won't be always worrying about what your friends and strangers think of your "broken-out" face, if you give these wonderful little wafers a chance.

Everyone Will Want to Know What You Did to Obtain Such a Beautiful, Clear Skin.

That's because they go right to the seat of the trouble, the blood, driving out all impurities, strengthening it, toning it up. And when the blood is clear the skin is free from blemish.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers are perfectly harmless and may be taken freely by any one. They contain absolutely no poisonous drugs of any nature.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers contain Calcium Sulphide, and a mild active—every doctor prescribes them a hundred times a year. They are the most effective blood-cleansers known to man.

It doesn't matter whether you have blackheads and pimples, "something awful," or boils, tetter, rash, carbuncles, eczema, liver spots or a muddy complexion, try Stuart's Calcium Wafers and get a "curse" in a short time.

You will find them on sale at any drug store at 50 cents a box. Begin taking them now and see what a vast improvement takes place in just a few days.

Food for Reflection

It is a well established fact that stock fire insurance companies, properly supported at home, control the major portion of the business in their own state and draw large sums of money from other states whose people are tyros in the school of political economy.

The money paid to home fire insurance companies for premiums is used largely in building up home industries, home enterprises and also in placing new land under the plow, thus adding to the material wealth and resources of a state.

The long-headed people of rock-ribbed New England with its limited natural possibilities are well grounded in the fundamental principles of economics. They know the full value of the circulating medium locally, and are smart enough to keep money paid for fire and life insurance at home and get all they can from the people of other states. They have been doing that very thing for generations.

The policy of fostering home institutions, religiously followed up to this good day, has enabled four little New England states, with an area one-tenth that of Texas, and as poor as "Job's turkey" in natural resources, to amass and control a fabulous amount of insurance assets. That fact fully explains why the people of the great state of Texas are borrowers and the people of New England are lenders.

It is estimated that Dallas county alone, including school districts and the city of Dallas, pays over $50,000 interest per month on bonded indebtedness held almost exclusively in the East.

But it is never too late to mend. If you believe in Texas, do your part toward building up meritorious Texas institutions. You can not buy better fire insurance indemnity anywhere on earth than right here in Texas from your own home companies.

FREE TICKETS TO "MOVIES"

Moving Picture Show Tickets Given Away With Every Classified Ad Placed in The Morning News Is Proving a Big Drawing Card.

Many people took advantage of the offer of the Morning News to give away free, tickets to either the Alamo or Dixie moving picture shows, and consequently yesterday these popular playhouses showed to many delighted patrons of the News. Then, today, these same delighted customers of the News are getting the big results from the classified advertising and are for the second time thanking the News for its generous offer.

The proposition is a very simple one, having no red tape, or anything about it to cause confusion in any manner. The News decided that it would be a good plan to give away some picture-show tickets with each classified ad brought to the office with the cash for same, and hence the following offer was made: To any person bringing to the News office a classified ad with the money for same, a ticket to either the Alamo or Dixie, two of the most popular picture show houses in the city, would be given free of charge. That offer still holds good and will continue to be made during the coming week or possibly longer.

The News wants every one of its friends and patrons to attend these shows as its guests and all those who will may do so at any time. Simply bring or send your classified ad to the News office, with the money to pay for its insertion and say to the classified man, "picture show ticket," and it is yours. Your tickets are good any time and you can use them at once or wait until you have accumulated several of them and then invite your friends to go with you. Any old way suits the News, just so you use the classified page. That's all we ask. Call 1132 and ask for particulars, rates, etc.

With only five days before the taxes on city property become delinquent the city tax assessor and collector's office will be a very busy place if all of the unpaid taxes are settled before becoming delinquent.

At closing time last night Tax Assessor and Collector R. L. Stribling stated that $182,405.23 had been paid. On the same date last year $133,315.43 had been paid, showing that $49,089.80 more has been paid this year than last.

The ad valorem taxes due on the 1912 tax rolls are $461,829.84, showing that $279,424.61 is due before March 1. On the same date last year there was $227,707.70 due.

The Emerson Piano

Worth what you pay for it

Before you pay more than you really can afford for a piano, and certainly before you buy a cheap, unsatisfactory piano, you owe it to yourself to investigate the Emerson.

The Emerson is the piano thousands are unconsciously looking for—the piano thousands ought to have. It is a standard, high-grade piano sold at an honest price. This price is made possible, not by niggardly economy—not by slighting many of the unseen parts—but by making every dollar that goes into its construction yield one hundred cents' worth of value, not to the maker alone, but to the purchaser.

In design, construction and finish—in tone, touch, and wearing qualities—the Emerson is superior in every detail. Its staying-in-tune properties, for example, are remarkable.

"Only the best of everything is used in the Emerson." We repeat that it is a high-grade piano—made by only experienced men. The first Emerson was made in 1849—over sixty years ago—and to date over 100,000 Emerson Pianos have won their way into American homes. Here is positive evidence of its excellence—here is evidence that should satisfy ANY ONE as to the quality.

FIRST DIOCESE TO CELEBRATE

FOUR HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY OF ITS ESTABLISHMENT IN PORTO RICO.

ERECTED BY POPE JULIUS II

Princes of the Church, Bishops and Archbishops at San Juan for the Ceremony.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Feb. 22.—Princes of the church, archbishops, bishops, monsignori, dignitaries by the score and hundreds of priests are in San Juan ready to take part in the week's celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of the creation of the Roman Catholic diocese of Porto Rico. The diocese is the oldest in the Americas and was erected by Pope Julius II, in 1511.

Bishop Alonso Manso, the first bishop to reach the new world, arrived in Porto Rico in 1513. He died in 1529 and his body was buried in the cathedral in San Juan, where the

SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY IS TODAY

WORKERS ARE TO MEET AT THE FIFTH STREET METHODIST TO PLAN CONVENTION.

BIG CROWD IS EXPECTED

Dr. Knickerbocker Promises to Name the Worst Preacher in Town at Service This Morning.

The eyes of all churchmen in this city are directed today to the meeting to be held in the Fifth Street Methodist church at 3 o'clock p. m. when Sunday school workers from every church in the city, in mass meeting assembled, will tell State Secretary Wiggins just how they are going to make their preparation for the state convention scheduled to meet in Waco four weeks from Tuesday.

This is expected to be a ratification meeting on the heels of the discussion between Mr. Wiggins and a few of the Sunday school leaders, held in the Central Presbyterian church Friday evening. It was decided by the leaders that Waco could scarcely refuse to entertain the convention, but the decision reached at that meeting is to be presented to the general meeting to be held today for ratification. Several hundred workers are expected to be in attendance.

The Rev. Hubert D. Knickerbocker on Sunday morning will preach on "The Worst Preacher in Waco" and will give both his name and his record, he says. It is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance to learn who is the worst of them.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR LESSON.

February 23.

Medical Missions, Matt. 10:7-11.

Daily Readings: Preaching and Healing—Matt. 4:23-25.

Christ's Commission—Mark 16:14-20.

Apostles' Practice—Acts 13:10.

Paul, the Healer—Acts 14:8-18.

Gift to the Church—1 Cor. 12:4-11.

Gospel Healing—Rev. 22:1-5.

The needs of medical aid in foreign lands:

Sanitary conditions are very bad.

You cannot get them to be Christians, when they have to go to the witch doctor for treatment.

Heal the body and they are ready for you to talk religion to them.

Heal the body and they know you have something better than they have.

Heal the body; then they have strength to follow Christ.

When one of the heathens is converted he works for Christ with all his might.

A medical missionary can get a hearing and win twice as many people to Christ as a missionary that is not.

Regarding Medical Missions.

Missionaries were driven out of Kashmir until a medical mission was started and at once opened the way for the gospel.

There is about one medical missionary to every two million persons in heathen lands; to the same number of persons in the United States there are four thousand doctors.

Once seven American missionaries in China wrote to the Edinburgh Medical Missionary Society begging for a medical missionary, saying that their work was greatly hindered because no medical work was connected with it.

Missions obtained an entrance to Korea, the hermit kingdom, largely through the work of a medical missionary, Dr. H. N. Allen, who saved the life of the king's nephew—Endeavorers' Daily Companion.

California Social Service.

In preparing to receive the vast number of foreign-speaking people who will flock to the Pacific coast and especially to San Francisco with the opening of the Panama canal, the Christian Endeavor Societies, the Baptist Young People's Unions, and the Epworth Leagues of San Francisco recently organized a world's congress of young people. The question of immigration and evangelization were discussed in above addresses.

This organization will arrange for special missionary work at the Panama Pacific International Exposition in 1915. San Francisco's largest auditorium will be reserved for a three days' meeting during the fair.

In all the bay countries, foreign-language study-classes will soon be organized, and young people will be the teachers.—C. E. World.

World's Christian Citizenship Conference.

There will be another great convention held on the Pacific coast next summer. It is called the World's Christian Citizenship Conference and will convene at Portland, Oregon, from June 23 to July 6, closing just in time to allow the delegates to attend to go from there to Los Angeles where the International Christian Endeavor Convention will convene.

The program for the Portland gathering is one of the greatest that has ever been put together and plans are made for the delegates to attend.

Rev. Geo. W. Bern, state president of the Texas C. C. Union, is the Texas representative of the National Reform Association, under whose auspices the Portland convention will be held. He has perfected plans for taking a party of twenty or thirty from this state, going by way of Yellowstone Park, where a six days' trip through the Yellowstone will be made. After attending the Portland meeting, they will attend the Los Angeles convention and return home with the Texas Endeavorers on their special train.

WACO SHIPPERS INTERESTED.

Proposed Change in the Minimum for Strawberries.

Waco shippers are vitally interested in the hearing before the railroad commission March 11, at which time the commission will consider the advisability of lowering the minimum car load weight on strawberries and blackberries from 20,000 to 17,000 pounds.

Another proposed amendment the commission has been asked to consider is to not allow over five tons while such perishable fruit is in transit and to make a charge of $3 a car for every stop where a seal is broken.

If the law becomes effective it will mean a good deal to southern growers and will be accommodating to jobbers. The freight rate on a car of 17,000 pounds will be less and the smaller jobbers will have a better opportunity to purchase direct from the grower.

ABRAM AND LOT

Today's International Sunday School Lesson.

BY W. L. ROBERTSON, Beaumont, Texas.

Chapters 13 and 14 of the Book of Genesis.

Today's International Sunday School lesson, by W. L. Robertson. Chapters 13 and 14 of the Book of Genesis.

While Abram, with his flocks, followers and kindred were sojourning in Southern Palestine, there was a season of drouth resulting in sore famine. Abram was forced to go over into Egypt where he could find corn and feed for his domestic animals. It was probably the Egyptian custom to veil the beauty of the maids from the vulgar gaze. Abram's wife was a beautiful woman, "a fair woman to look upon." When an eastern potentate saw a beautiful woman whom he desired for wife he had but to have her husband slain and she was at his mercy. Abram made the mistake of devising a falsehood for the protection of himself and wife, by passing her as his sister, or near kinswoman, he thought to conceal the beauty from the amorous eyes of those in authority. A lie never continues to be successful. Beauty can not be permanently concealed. Sarah's beauty was reported to Pharaoh and she was taken to his harem. Abram's lie was inexcusable even in the eyes of the heathen Egyptians and he would have lost his wife but for Divine interposition. Pharaoh was plagued by Jehovah because of Sarah, and she was returned to her husband with a hefty rebuke to him for his false dealing. Pharaoh sent Abram and all that he had out of the land.

Being expelled from Egypt Abram returned to Southern Palestine, and with him went Lot. These two kinsmen, and to the place where Abram had erected an altar unto Jehovah. The two men were so great in riches and flocks that the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together.

As is usual in such cases, the trouble did not begin with the two really great men but with their servants. Lesser lights, in their partisanships, are ever prone to cavil over the spoils. Great souls are ever willing to arbitrate or compromise matters of profit and loss. There was strife between the herdsmen of Abram's cattle and those of Lot's cattle. The Canaanites and the Perizzites, who dwelt in that land, had a hand in the strife. Wicked outsiders are also usually prone to meddle in the lesser quarrels, but rarely attempt anything in the way of a compromise. The strife finally reached the main stockholders at headquarters.

Herein appears the real nobility of Abram's character. He seems to have been the first to suggest a compromise. The words with which he approached or answered Lot furnish a pattern for right thinking men of all ages. "Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdsmen and thy herdsmen, for we are brethren."

They were not brethren in the flesh, but brethren in that they had common interests, worshipped the same God, were governed by the same code of righteousness, were friends and kindred of the same race. Not only would quarrelling between them have been an unseemly thing, but they would have been responsible for the continuation of strife between their people. The strife between their men of real leadership shall prevent strife between their followers. President Taft is now more admired than ever before in his history because of his magnanimous words and efforts in behalf of public celebration when he pleaded dramatically for the life of his would-be assassin, Abraham Lincoln mounted to sublime heights when he appointed Salmon P. Chase as chief justice of the United States.

Go Thou and Do Likewise.

Hitherto Lot had followed along with Abram but rather than have part in the quarrels of their herdsmen Abram suggests that they go separate roads. He requested Lot to now take the lead and go whichever way suited him. Rather than have a disagreement the elder man submitted the choice of ways to the younger, and abided by his result.

Lot did a very natural thing. He looked upon the well water circuit, the plain of the Jordan valley, a land rich in soil, vegetation and grasses. So Lot journeyed east into the plain of Jordan which appeared as beautiful to the eye as the historic Garden of Eden. He did not throw the choice back on Abram leaves Lot appearing rather selfish, but we are too far removed from the scene of action to pass severe judgment without appearing to jump at presumptuous conclusions. The business of the average man is to care for his own interests, and he is unselfish enough to leave all that does not appear desirable for his own use for the other man. Abram unselfishly gave Lot the choice of locations and Lot simply accepted all that came his way. Abram remained in the highlands of Canaan.

The Jordan plain was a densely inhabited land and Lot dwelt in the cities with his family and even cast his tent in Sodom, the metropolis. We are told that the men of Sodom were exceedingly wicked, sinners, sinners against Jehovah God. Lot seems to have underestimated the influence that this wickedness would have on his family, else he would never have rested contentedly in Sodom. Environment has much to do with making or marring the life of every man, both the righteous and the wicked. The moving picture show is a great improvement over the vicious allurements of the unreal but well acted emotion plays of the theatre, yet if it is permitted to come in conflict with the church life of the people and violate the spirit of the Sabbath laws with impunity, this environment will as surely despoil its educational influence and deprive its entertainment features as Sodom demoralized the family of Lot.

For Abram the separation and the choice of territory was providential. His God, Jehovah, now spoke unto him saying, "Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art, northward and southward and eastward and westward; for all the land which thou seest, to thee will I give it, and to thy seed forever. And I will make thy seed as the dust of the earth; so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, then may thy seed also be numbered. Arise, walk through the land in the length of it and in the breadth of it; for unto thee will I give it." The land of Canaan was the land of promise and its being given to Abram for his descendants is a fitting type of the spiritual inheritance of the Seed of Abram through faith in the Christ.

Abram moved his tents under the oaks of his friend Mamre, near to the ancient city of Hebron, and there he built an altar and called on the name of his God. We pray to the Lord in times of adversity and should just as earnestly worship at His altar and praise Him in our times of prosperity. The Golden Text adds this happy conclusion, "The blessing of Jehovah, it maketh rich, and he addeth no sorrow therewith."—Proverbs X:22.

Methodist.

AUSTIN AVENUE METHODIST.

Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, Pastor.

"The Ministry" will be the subject of the Rev. Hubert D. Knickerbocker's sermon at the Austin Avenue Methodist church at 11 o'clock this morning.

Some of the sub-heads of the sermon will be "The name and record of the worst preacher in Waco." "The best preacher in Waco." "Why don't editors head moral reforms?" "Is a preacher a parasite?" and "Why poor people should stand by the preacher." This sermon will be preached regardless of the weather. In the evening, the pulpit will be filled by the Rev. W. B. Andrews, presiding elder of the district. There will be special music at both services.

MORROW STREET METHODIST.

Rev. A. D. Porter, Pastor.

At the Morrow Street Methodist church today, the pastor, Rev. A. D. Porter, at 11 o'clock will preach on "The Ministry of the Divine Physician," and at 7:30 o'clock on "The Crimes of the Tongue." Sunday school will meet at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and the Epworth league will meet at 6:30 o'clock in the evening.

ELM STREET METHODIST.

Rev. J. J. Crood, Pastor.

The great feature of the day at the Elm Street Methodist church will be the missionary rally to be held in the church this evening. A good program will be rendered, as follows:

"Church Work a Man's Job"—H. O. Whitley.

"Can the World Be Evangelized in One Generation?"—W. C. McCollum.

"Missionary Activities Among Our Women"—Mrs. T. M. Sanders.

"What is the Layman's Missionary Movement?"—W. J. Barcus.

The work of the Sunday school is being stressed at this church. The school convenes at 9:30 o'clock. The pastor will fill the pulpit at 11 o'clock.

EDGEFIELD METHODIST.

A service at 11 o'clock in the morning for children, a service for old folks at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and a revival service at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, when the Rev. M. C. Dickson will preach, are the features promised today at the Edgefield Methodist church. There have been seventeen additions to the church since the revival began. It will be continued until Wednesday evening, when the service will be held.

Baptist.

FIRST BAPTIST.

Rev. F. C. McConnell, Pastor.

In lieu of the regular sermons, the Rev. F. C. McConnell, pastor of the First Baptist church, has inaugurated a series of expositions of the scriptures. begins at 8:50 a. m.; devotional service begins at 9:45 a. m., with instrumental music; sentence prayers by juniors; song, "I Need Thee Every Hour"; golden text, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His Righteousness, and all these things will be added unto you." Show of Bibles and roll call of teachers; from memory, "The Beatitudes"; thirty-minute lesson study, a character study about those left upon the world, the tendencies of their lives and also present day Abrahams and Lots. Reassembling of the school; report of classes; birthday offerings and closing song.

FIFTH STREET CHRISTIAN.

Rev. E. Lynwood Crystal, Pastor.

The morning program at this church includes Bible school at 10 o'clock and the Lord's supper and sermon at 11 o'clock. The evening service will begin at 7:30 o'clock. The preaching at both services will be by the pastor of the church. This church is at the corner of Fifth and Columbus streets.

CHURCH OF CHRIST.

Lee P. Mansfield, Pastor.

"Christian Usefulness" will be the subject of the morning sermon to be delivered by Rev. Lee P. Mansfield at the Church of Christ today, and his subject in the evening will be "The Way to Heaven." It is announced that it will not be ten or two ways, but The Way. There were six additions to this church last Sunday, and the church has been growing steadily in strength during the past eighteen months. It is on North Tenth street between Columbus and Jefferson.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The regular meeting of the Waco Christian Endeavor Union, which was postponed from February 14, will be held at the Central Presbyterian church on Friday evening, February 23. A constitution is to be adopted, and all members are urged to be present.

NORTH WACO PUBLIC SCHOOL

Washington's Birthday is Observed By the Pupils.

In celebration of the sixth anniversary of the North Waco Mothers' club, a George Washington program was rendered at the public school by the children, the building being tastefully decorated in red, white and blue, a feature of the program being orchestral selections by children between the ages of 6 and 14 years, under the direction of Mrs. E. E. Patterson.

Refreshments were served and music was also given by the school violas. Misses Schater, Daniel and Bird, teachers in the school, had charge of the program.

The school children presented to the club a morocco-bound volume which contained the history of the North Waco Mothers' Club from 1907 up to the present year.

Hawaii last year exported one million cases of pineapples and 100,000 gallons of juice.

DOCTORS USE THIS FOR ECZEMA

Dr. Evans, Ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin diseases and the blood." The skin must be cured through the skin. The germs must be washed out, and so salves have long ago been found worthless. The most advanced physicians of this country are now agreed on this, and are prescribing a wash of wintergreen, thymol and other ingredients for eczema and all other skin diseases. This compound is known as D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema.

Dr. Holmes, the well known skin specialist, writes: "I am convinced that the D.D.D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as quinine for malaria. I have been prescribing the D.D.D. remedy for years." It will take away the itch the instant you apply it.

In fact, we are so sure of what D.D.D. will do for you that we will be glad to let you have a $1 bottle on our guarantee that it will cost you nothing unless you find that it does the work.

Ask us also about D.D.D. Soap. It helps.

WHAT A MAN SEES WITH HIS OWN EYES, THAT HE KNOWS

W. J. Crotwell, of Downsville, Texas, Authorizes Dr. W. B. Georgia & Co. to Publish the Following Communication—You Who Are Skeptical Should Read This.

A few months ago W. J. Crotwell, a resident of Downsville, Texas, accompanied by his daughter, Lena, called on Dr. W. B. Georgia, Waco, exclusive eye-sight specialist.

Miss Lena, aged thirteen, was at that time a victim of constant headache and nervousness.

Dr. W. B. Georgia examined this young lady's eyes and described her ailments without asking a single question and advised the father that the child's conditions were due to errors of the eye and that the only remedy would be constant use of glasses.

Mr. Crotwell, doubting very much that glasses in any form could relieve the girl's suffering, in fact he laughed at the suggestions and treated the state of mind by Dr. Georgia as a joke. "But I am willing to give them a trial," he said, "for we have tried nearly everything else, and I guess it won't break me to let her try the glasses, and if they prove to do what you claim for them, I shall never get through recommending your work to my neighbors and friends."

Last week Mr. Crotwell again called on Dr. W. B. Georgia to have a broken temple mended and this is what he had to say relative to the daughter and the glasses:

"Dr. Georgia, my daughter has not had the headache since the first time she put her glasses on, and I can see with my own eyes the wonderful improvement in her nervous conditions. Why, she is simply a different child. Before wearing the glasses she remained out of school several days at a time, owing to her severe nervous spells and headache. She returned to school the next day after getting her glasses and she has not missed a minute since. I am certainly glad that I read of your work in the Tribune as it was from this that attracted me to your office and that my daughter received such splendid results from the glasses you prescribed naturally makes me thank the Tribune for having carried your message to me.

"Would you give us authority to state these facts in the Waco papers, Mr. Crotwell?" "Yes, sir," was the immediate reply, "and I have some friends out my way who are coming to you for glasses, as the result of my daughter's relief."

It is just such endorsements which we receive every day that have enabled us to build up the most extensive eye-sight practice in the South. Our patients never cease telling their friends and acquaintances of our expert work.

DAYLOR SCHEDULE FOR FALL PLAY

ALL BUT TWO GAMES FOR FOOTBALL SEASON ARE NOW ARRANGED FOR.

THREE GAMES CARROLL FIELD

One Game to Be Played Out of the State—Good Team Men Due to Return.

Daylor's football schedule for the season of '13 has been completed with the exception of two games and these will probably be arranged in the course of the next few days.

The schedule as it stands calls for three games on the local gridiron with a possibility of two more. One out of state trip will be made on which two games will be played, one at Fayetteville, Ark., and the other at Baton Rouge, La.

The schedule: Polytechnic, Waco, October 11. Texas University, Austin, October 18.

Louisiana University, Baton Rouge, October 22. Arkansas University, Fayetteville, October 25.

T. C. U. Waco, November 8. Southwestern, Waco, November 27.

The contract with Austin College has not yet been fully agreed on, but it is extremely likely that the game with that school will be played in Waco, November 1.

The fact that Texas A. & M. will have the eight days which are allowed them by the faculty in playing games away from the home field, taken up on a trip to Kansas, and also that Daylor will also have their eight days taken, make it doubtful as to whether these two schools will play. However, if they do meet, it will be on November 15.

"We are going to have another nineteen-man team," was the answer of "Tubby" Yates, the captain of the '13 squad, when asked as to the prospects of the Daylor team in the coming season. "Most of the old men will be back and there's a good chance of getting some excellent new material. You can tell the world that we are going to play ball."

Most of last year's varsity men will be in line when the whistle blows for the first game, October 11, and this, coupled with some new arrivals expected, will no doubt assist Coach Glaze of Daylor in turning out a good team. Among last season's "B" men who intend returning are: Rieger, Yates, Cooper, Collier, Meagher, Ponder, Fouts, Williams and Ward.

Of the reserves, Wilson, Duncan, Franklow, Isaac, Mendenhall, Leach, Cox, Robertson and several others will be out to strengthen the team.

to Baylor and will make a good man on the gridiron.

Reynolds, a halfback, Kirk, Andrews and Dallas of Decatur Baptist College will possibly be in the Waco school and if they are as capable on the football field as they are on the basketball court, each will be the possessor of a big yellow "B" just after turkey time.

Considering everything Daylor's outlook for the coming football season is good, and the lovers of the pick-skin sport in Waco will see several hard-fought battles on Carroll field.

Sunday Baseball Allowed. Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 22.—The Tennessee supreme court today held the law prohibiting the playing of Sunday baseball invalid owing to irregularities in its passage.

Sunday baseball in Nashville has been a live issue for the past two seasons. In 1911 numerous arrests were made when games were attempted.

National League—New York. John McGraw, Pittsburgh, Fred Clarke, Chicago, Frank Selee, Frank Chance, Johnny Evers, Philadelphia, Charley Zimmer, Hugh Duffy, Billy Murray, Charley Doherty, St. Louis, Patsy Donovan, Charley Nichols, Jimmy Burke, John McGraw, Cincinnati, Joe Kelley, Ned Hanlon, John Gansel, Clark Griffith, Hank O'Day, Joe Tinker, Brooklyn, Ned Hanlon, Patsy Donovan, Harry Lummey, Bill Dahlen; Boston, Al Buckenberger, Fred Tenney, Joe Kelley, Frank Rowenman, Harry Smith, Fred Lake, Fred Tenney, John Kling, George Stallings.

Some Baseball Managers. During the past ten years no less than fifty-three men have managed clubs in the American and National leagues. Fred Clarke of the Pirates and Connie Mack of the Athletics, and John McGraw of the Giants, are the only managers who are now piloting the same teams which they were leading in 1903. Some of the fifty-three varieties have drifted from one club to another in the same circuit, and have occasionally transferred their operations to the other league.

Their successors and the order of their succession follow:

American League—Philadelphia, Connie Mack; Detroit, Ed Burrows; Bill Armour, George Stallings, Hugh Jennings; Cleveland, Bill Armour; Larry Lajoie, Jim McGraw; Joe Birmingham, George Davis, Joe Birmingham; St. Louis, Jim Collins, Chick Stahl, Bob Umlauf, George Huff, Jim McGraw, Fred Lake, Patsy Donovan, Jake Stahl; Chicago, Clark Griffith, Jimmy Callahan, Fleider Jones, Billy Sullivan, Hugh Duffy, Jimmy Callahan; Washington, Tom Loftus, Jake Stahl, Joe Cantillon, Jim McAlleer, Clark Griffith; St. Louis, Jim McAlleer, Jack O'Connor, Rhody Wallace, George Stovall; New York, Clark Griffith, Norman Elberfeld, George Stallings, Hal Chase, Harry Wolverton, Frank Chance.

Colquitt Pitches First Ball, but Has Little Success at It—Thorpe Plays First Base.

The New York Giants will be seen in action in Waco, either March 13 and 14 or 22 and 23. Manager John McGraw yesterday promised Tom Carson, manager of the Navigators, a couple of exhibition games here on one of these dates. Mr. McGraw has not arranged all of his exhibition games and will let Carson know definitely within a few days.

Seated in the lobby of the Arlington hotel when the Giants trailed in after the forenoon workout, Carson bumped into three of his old teammates who are trying to make a permanent berth with the National league champions. Demaree, the pitcher McGraw paid a handsome price for and who came near pitching Mobile to victory in the Southern league last year, was doing mound duty when Carson was playing around the South Atlantic circuit. Cooper, the outfielder with Fort Worth last year, and Bader, the Dallas pitcher, who was a sensation last season, are with the Giants.

"I had a long talk with McGraw and he agreed to arrange Saturday and Sunday exhibition games before the team leaves for the north March 25," Carson said.

"Marlin is alive with baseball fans and the Giants have no end of admirers there," continued Carson. "The Waco manager attended the afternoon practice and witnessed three innings of the exhibition game between the veterans and colts. He said Mathewson and Tesreau each received a great ovation when they walked to the center of the diamond. Muggay pitched three innings for the veterans and Tesreau did box duty three innings for the colts. The score was 1 to 5 with the colts trailing when Carson had to catch a train."

Governor Colquitt and a number of other honored guests witnessed the game as the guests of Manager McGraw.

Carson says that McGraw is putting his men through a hard workout every day. The veterans are not expected to play until the 25th, but Carson, who is allowed to work about as he pleases, McGraw knows that the veteran pitcher is always in the best of form when called on for duty at either the first or the last game of the season.

Carson expects to have a good team in shape to give the New Yorkers plenty of entertainment when they come to Waco. He has sent out transportation to all his players and expects them to report March 1.

COLQUITT PITCHES FIRST BALL. Not Much of a Success in Handling the Horsehide.

Marlin, Tex., Feb. 22.—Governor Colquitt played a double role today. While remaining chief executive of the state he became a member of the New York Giants' pitching staff and he is surely a better governor than a baseball player. He failed to show any symptoms of stellar qualities or even possibilities. His friends can rest with perfect ease that he will never be kidnapped by the manager of the National champions.

The governor visited Emerson park during the practice session this afternoon and in keeping with his promise made last night when he first met the governor, Manager McGraw organized two teams and a five-inning game was played solely for the entertainment of the chief executive of Texas. The governor twirled the first ball or managed to get what was intended for the initial toss from the pitcher's box almost to the home plate. He didn't make a second try and no one blamed him. The game was postponed by the governor from automobile and he was very much interested in the proceedings.

The opposing teams were chosen by Larry Doyle and Harry McCormick. Doyle's outfit were the locals, and Mathewson and Wilcox pitched for the touring side and Tesreau and Demaree for the winners. The pitchers showed good speed.

Jim Thorpe playing first base for the winners and Joe Evers second for the losers produced the feature of the game by showing two home runs. Cooper, who played centerfield for the defeated nine, made a great throw to the plate for a double play and covered lots of ground generally. He was McGraw's second baseman and he scored a run.

Exhibition games will begin next week and tomorrow will be the last Sunday of rest for the Giants during the training season.

Gotham Fans Figure McGraw Needs "The Rube" to Grab Pennant From Pittsburgh.

Will the Rube be seen at Marlin this season?

This question is not so interesting for the reason that many Waco fans will miss getting a squirt at one Rube Marquard, but because the Giants have a long following of admirers here.

Stage life has become so interesting that the awkward left-handed twirler that he threatens to stick with a contract until June. Many are of the opinion that the $11,000 beauty is using the stage as the hold out for a raise in salary. A New York paper has this to say:

Rube Marquard, one-time lesser, so to speak, in behalf of the young woman involved in the case has ceased himself of the divorce courts. Richard Kane doesn't seem to be much the better of probably sixteen or twenty-seven folks with leanings toward the national pastime, who sort of figure that the Giants, without their knickerbocker, wry-necked southpaw, will be rather quaint adventures Marquard's artistic temperament may next lead him down to a double role, providing he attends McGraw's school for training at Marlin. Unfortunately, it is not certain that the Rube's inclinations lead that way. Joe Kane, who ought to know, says Marquard really is determined to play his vaudeville string to the very end, however bitter that end may be.

Kane claims to know that Marquard's act is booked through until June, and that Reuben intends to draw down every cent it calls for, however, it may cut into his ball playing. Marquard is still booked in the north-west, and his "time" is far away from major league trials.

There is a suspicion that the great act would die a natural, though possibly a painful death, if it were dragged back into regular surroundings, and it seems that there is nothing in Marquard's contract that would compel an appearance in the east. Out in the sticks, where the Rube is rather popular, he could probably get away with it for quite a spell after the opening of the championship season.

The great trouble is that Marquard is firmly convinced that he was sent to earth for no other reason than to play the drama. His ability as a ball player was given him only that he might have a sort of Jimmy with which to pry into theatricals. He actually believes that Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries and the rest of the great tragedians of the past were rank amateurs compared with him.

Players Jealous Lot. The rest of the club, strangely enough, does seem to feel that way about it, but that is probably because ball players are a jealous lot. Few of them have seen him in his great production and their adverse criticisms have been likely to be inspired by envy. Impartial critics agree that Marquard, the actor, stands alone in a class of his own.

Whatever the cause, the Giants are rather miffed that the Rube seems to be fitting himself for the arduous labors that will be piled upon him if ever he is lured to the Marlin training camp.

It took a lot of strictly high-grade pitching to plant the Giants sixteen games to the good across the stretch of last spring's campaign, and the two-time champions nourish the hunch that the going will be even tougher this year. It is not likely that Marquard is needed and that no other Marquard than the Rube, who won nineteen straight last season, will do.

They do not imagine the "loss of Marquard" for possibly half the rest of the year. They feel that Marquard is needed and that no other Marquard than the Rube, who won nineteen straight last season, will do.

LUMBER OUTPUT HEAVY IN 1912

APPROXIMATELY TWO BILLION FEET PRODUCED IN TEXAS
LAST YEAR.

YELLOW PINE HAS ADVANCED

Stumpage Also Increases in Price.
Overflows Made the Figures and the Demand Better.

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 22.—Market conditions caused a stimulus in the output of lumber in Texas for 1912 and it is estimated that last year's production for the Lone Star State was approximately 2,000,000,000 feet, the largest in the history of the industry. The value of the year's production after passing through the process of manufacture was $53,395,577, according to data compiled by the Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association.

The production in 1911 was reported at 1,840,596,384 feet by the secretary of the Yellow Pine Manufacturers' Association while the federal census of 1910 shows Texas sixth in production by states with an output of 1,884,134,000 feet in that year.

In 1909 the federal census rated Texas fourth in the value of timber products among the states of the union with a production of 2,099,130,000 feet of rough lumber valued at $22,201,440, which was increased in value $21,197,137 by the process of manufacture, making a total valuation of $53,395,577 in 1909, or equal to the production of this year's manufactured product. A comparison with the output in 1909 shows 99,130,000 more feet produced that year than in 1912, which indicates that lumber is bringing a higher price this year than since 1907.

For the year preceding September 1, 1911, the highest price obtained for yellow pine stock was $13.20, and the lowest $11.30. Quotations have gradually advanced this year until the present selling price of the product averages $18.50 per thousand f. o. b. cars at the mills.

The center of yellow pine production has moved rapidly westward in recent years until the greatest cut is being taken annually from Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas, and the Lone Star State contributed considerably more than an eighth of the total production of yellow pine in 1912.

The federal census for 1909 shows that the value added by manufacture in that year in Texas, amounting to $21,197,137, was the largest sum total value added by manufacture of any of the other manufacturing industries in this state. The lumber industry ranked first in furnishing a means of livelihood to wage earners and employees in Texas, there being 25,518 persons making a living out of Texas lumber that year. This was 33.5 per cent of the total number of employees in all other manufacturing plants in the state. A total capital of $45,552,223 was invested in plants.

Overflows Help Prices.
The spring floods first in East Texas, then in Louisiana and then in the Mississippi valley last year overflowed portions of Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas, inundating large lumber producing territory and the plants located in them, has no doubt been of great benefit to the Texas lumber product. These disasters by floods and involuntary curtailments of the yellow pine supply resulted in the highest market prices for this lumber in April of last year since 1907.

During the year 1911 there were 58,398,348 superficial feet of lumber exported from Texas ports which was an increase of 4,949,597 superficial feet over the 1910 shipments from Texas ports.

The sawn timber shipments from Texas ports aggregated 42,808,325 superficial feet and the hewn timber aggregated 78,834 cubic feet in 1911, or a decrease of 8,665,542 superficial feet and 62,583 cubic feet respectively from the 1910 shipments.

466 Mills in Texas.
It is estimated that there are about 466 mills operating in Texas at present, of which 376 operate exclusively upon pine, 79 upon both pine and hardwood and 20 upon hard wood timber exclusively.

The consumption of lumber in Texas is about equal to the product of the Texas mills but all of the product of Texas mills does not find a market in this state. The mills of Arkansas and Louisiana reach Texas upon substantially the same freight rates as the mills located in Texas pay to the consuming territory and in consequence about 70 per cent of the lumber consumed in Texas is manufactured in Louisiana and Arkansas. Only about 30 per cent of the product of the Texas mills finds a market in the home state.

It is estimated that there is about 30,000,000,000 feet of yellow pine timber still standing in Texas. Taking this estimate as a basis it will be seen that at the present rate of consumption the volume of raw material will be exhausted in a period of fifteen years. The timber resources of Texas are not appreciated generally. People residing outside of the state have heard so much of the Long Horn steer and the great Texas prairie that they have an erroneous idea that Texas is a great wooded state. Statistics show that Texas has enormous forested areas. However, it is unfortunate that no practical plan for reforesting the lands of Texas are being considered. The present generation of home builders in Texas are enjoying a condition in cheap material which will be denied succeeding ones. These same benefits should be preserved to posterity and practical forestry plans in Texas are needed to accomplish this end.

Price of Stumpage Increases.
As the price of lumber increased during the past twelve months so has the price of stumpage increased from an average of $4 in 1910-11 to as high as $7 in some instances at present.

The greatest wooded area of Texas is found in the valley of the Sabine

Gabriel J. Winter

City Commissioner

Place No. 2

(To Succeed P. A. Gorman)

A vote for Gabriel J. Winter is a vote for Waco.

He wrote the Commission Government Charter now in effect in Waco.

He managed the campaign for Commission Government when it was adopted by the people.

While in charge of such campaign he was elected to serve one year in the City Council.

He understands the details of every department of the city.

Efficiency is the test for public office, and he is efficient.

The thinking man will keep in mind that this is the day and time for progressive, wide-awake men in public office.

To get back into the old rut of commercial, political and industrial depression will be fatal to Waco's future prosperity.

Gabriel J. Winter represents commercial, political and industrial progress.

His platform speaks for itself.

COMMISSION GOVERNMENT.

Commission government is in fact, and should be, a government "For the people, of the people and by the people." It does not contemplate that there should be "One man government" in any department of the city. It is my fixed idea and unalterable opinion that no one man should have absolute power in any department, but that the Commissioners should act as a body on all matters coming before them. To place absolute control of any department in the hands of any one man destroys representative government and sooner or later will make commission government a failure in Waco.

If elected I will urge that our Board of Commissioners follow the true Democratic principle of making the entire Board of Commissioners (not any one man in any department) responsible for the government.

FINANCE.

I am strictly in favor of investing the sinking funds of the city in the bonds of Waco. These bonds bear 5 per cent while the interest paid by the City Depository amounts to 3 1/2 per cent. The result of this procedure will save the people nearly ten thousand dollars a year, or more than enough to pay the salaries of the Mayor and the four Commissioners. Surely no better investment for Waco can be found than an investment in its own bonds. This plan has been followed by McLennan County with gratifying results.

If elected I will urge that the sinking funds of the city be invested in the present issue of $245,000 thirty-year bonds. It will result in saving over $200,000, or nearly enough to retire the entire bond issue at maturity.

After careful and deliberate study and investigation as to its practical application, I am confident that the taxes of the city can and should be paid on the installment plan, payment being made quarterly or semi-annually, with such regulations as may be necessary, and if elected I will urge that this be done. Not only will this lighten the burden of taxation, but will result in taxes being paid promptly when due and prevent the heavy expense of employing special attorneys to collect the delinquent taxes.

I am now and have always been opposed to employing special attorneys to collect delinquent taxes. I believe that this should be done by the city attorney and the city tax collector. Over ten thousand dollars has been paid by the city in fees for this purpose. The practice of employing special men in addition to those charged with the duty, to transact the business of the city is, in my opinion, an improper use of the city's money, and I will insist, if elected, that such practice be discontinued.

I am in favor of making public advertisement for all supplies and work to be done, asking for competitive bids. In this way alone can abuse which may grow out of private bidding be prevented, and the best prices be obtained.

I repeat my often declared opinion that the charter should be amended so as to provide that the books of the city be audited within sixty days after the close of each fiscal year. I succeeded in getting this amendment favorably voted on by the people two years ago, but it was "lost in the shuffle" in the legislature.

WATER.

I favor making the tax for water purposes a general tax instead of a special tax, as at present. The interest and sinking funds for water works bonds should be paid by the city at large and not by the consumer, as at present. To require the consumer to pay for permanent improvements, such as extensions, construction of power house, etc., is to make the consumer pay for the entire city plant, whereas the value of every place of property in Waco is directly and positively increased by a water works system. Such a plan will reduce the water nearly fifty per cent. This subject was fully discussed in my article on "Equalization of the Water Tax," published in the Times-Herald, and which was endorsed by a large number of our citizens. It is a practical working plan and should be adopted by the city. Fixed charges such as water, lights, etc., bear heavily upon the ultimate consumer and every effort should be made to reduce these charges to a minimum.

LIGHTS AND GAS.

I favor the appointment of official light and gas meter inspectors who shall inspect and report on all meters in operation in Waco.

LABOR.

I believe in fair wages and hours for all employees of the city. The high cost of living falls heavily upon the wage-earner and I favor just compensation for every man on the city's pay-roll. I am opposed to the city making any contract for work that does not provide for such fair wages and hours of labor.

I favor and have publicly advocated the following amendment to our charter:

"Any person in the employ of the city who has been discharged for any cause shall have the right of appeal to the Board of Commissioners, who shall give him a fair and impartial hearing, and if it shall be shown that he has been discharged without adequate cause, he shall be promptly reinstated and shall be compensated for time lost by reason of being unjustly discharged."

SANITARY.

I favor prompt and systematic development of our sanitary sewerage system. There are over one thousand homes in Waco that have no sanitary sewer connections. Not only is this a very serious inconvenience to the householders, but is a positive and dangerous menace to the health of our people. I consider this a paramount matter for early consideration.

I believe that public eating places should be required to be fully screened against the "typhoid" fly or close their doors, and that the kitchens and ice boxes of all places where perishable food products are sold, be carefully inspected and be required to be kept in a clean sanitary condition. I endorse "milk inspection," believing that babies are killed every day by reason of germ contaminated milk. Too much care cannot be taken to prevent the sale and distribution of impure food products, and I will, if elected, urge that this most important subject have the consideration it deserves.

If elected I will urge that our street sprinkling service be improved so as to enable the city to adequately sprinkle all of our streets by increasing our present sprinkling equipment. I consider that the "Dust Devil" is a dangerous enemy of public health and no efforts should be spared to effectively overcome it.

I believe our City Hall should be put in a clean, sanitary condition. There is no excuse for unsanitary conditions of our public buildings and I favor such renovation of the City Hall as will improve its present unsanitary arrangements. Public officers should be held strictly to account for the cleanliness of public buildings.

STREETS.

This important subject deserves more consideration than space will permit, but I believe that the slogan, "haul gravel, gravel, nothing but gravel," will apply and that by constantly and continuously hammering away at it every street in Waco can be paved in a comparatively short time.

I am opposed to any plan that requires the adjacent property owners to pay for any part of graveling streets. The streets are public highways belonging to the people at large, and the city should bear the expense in future as in the past. I favor permanent street paving when the property owners voluntarily agree to stand a part of the cost.

I favor putting in adequate crossings at the intersection of all streets. This is a pressing necessity at the present time.

I not only favor opening and constructing new streets, but am in favor of having all of our streets, both old and new, kept in good condition. I will use every effort to carry out this very essential improvement as it directly affects every man, woman and child in Waco. "Good streets are our best advertisement."

POLICE.

I am opposed to any person having complete control of the police department. As with other departments, it should be under the direct control of the Board of Commissioners as a whole.

I believe that special attention should be given to the subject of patrolling the residence section of the city with the view of preventing the numerous "hold ups" that have recently occurred in Waco.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

I favor replacing our present fire apparatus with the most modern up-to-date motor equipment obtainable, if our present equipment can be disposed of at its value. This not only reduces the insurance of every man in Waco, but what is more important, adds greatly to the ability of the city to protect the lives and property of the people. We have now the finest fire department in Texas and the motor service will increase its efficiency and greatly reduce the cost of maintenance. This policy was endorsed by Mr. John F. Wright, Fire Commissioner, a few months ago.

I specially favor giving to East Waco more adequate fire protection. The rapid development of this part of Waco justifies proper consideration of their necessities.

PUBLICITY.

I favor full publicity of all matters pertaining to city government, and am opposed to the "closed door" in city affairs.

I favor monthly public statements as to the financial condition of the city. Believing that publicity is the foundation of honest government, I favor and have publicly advocated that no bids for supplies or work should be finally accepted until such bids have been on the table subject to public inspection at least one week before final acceptance. This will prevent "padding" bidding and enable the people to know the character of the contract about to be entered into.

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY.

I favor now and have publicly advocated an amendment to our charter making the sale of any real property of the city subject to a referendum vote. I believe Waco needs all of its real estate and none of it should ever be sold except by authority of the people of Waco.

INITIATIVE, REFERENDUM AND RECALL.
As the man who wrote this provision in our present charter, I am particularly interested in its preservation as a safeguard against misgovernment, believing that it will always be used temperately and not without just cause, and no charter amendments should ever be adopted that will affect its present form or that will nullify it.

IN CONCLUSION.

There are many matters deserving consideration here, but which space forbids mentioning. I can only add that I will do my level best in all things if elected. I am a Democrat, have lived all of my life, practically, in Waco; was chairman of the charter committee that wrote the present commission charter, and managed the campaign for commission government when it was adopted by the people of Waco.

While in charge of the campaign for Commission Government I was elected from the Second Ward to serve the people one year in the City Council, and served on a number of important committees.

I understand fully the details of every department of the city and have studied the needs of Waco as closely as any man in the city.

I submit my candidacy for your favorable consideration and ask your support and influence in my behalf.

"Gabriel J. Winter, more than any man in Waco, is responsible for Commission Government. His work—unselfish and patriotic—deserves the highest commendation and appreciation of the people of Waco. He fought for a principle and won, and Commission Government will remain a lasting monument to his energy and ability."

river, which is the largest yellow pine producing locality of the state, and is located on the boundary between Louisiana and Texas and extends three hundred miles in a north and south direction and varies in width from 100 to 150 miles. This section is still a dense forest in many parts. Long leaf yellow pine of exceptional quality is found also in an area extending along the Neches river and also in the eastern part of the state.

Extensive areas of short leaf pine and hardwoods are located on the Red river and extends south along the eastern edge of the state from Bowie county until they finally merge into the Sabine area of long leaf pine. The pine areas, both short and long, are estimated at about 25,000,000 acres and an estimate of the stumpage now standing is placed at 30,000,000,000 feet. The hardwood stumpage is estimated at approximately 11,000,000,000 feet.

In addition to the above are great irregular belts of timber known as the upper and lower cross timbers, which enter the state from the Red river and extend in a southwesterly direction across the prairie section. The length of this belt is about 120 miles, while it varies in width from fifteen to twenty miles.

The upper cross timbers enter the state at a point further west and passing through Montague county diverge at the lower edge.

Bordering the streams of East and South Texas some cypress is found which is manufactured principally into shingles.

Will a Texan Be in the Cabinet?

(Austin Cunningham in San Antonio Express.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—What is President Wilson going to do for Texas? Speculation is very generally conceded that he is under obligation, if there is any such thing as political obligation, to give Texas a place in the cabinet. So wonderfully has Texas grown, in every way contributory to the wealth and greatness of the United States, that the republic is head over heels in debt to the Lone Star state. The Republic have been grossly to blame, and that New York Democratic president is precious little to discharge the national obligation. What President Wilson will do remains to be seen. There are to be about 10,000 offices within his gift. Of these about 8,000 are postmasterhips. This makes for the $600,000 and a little over who voted for Wilson about one office in every 600, counting the total he will have to give, and by the same calculation, outside of the postmasterhips, there would be one office for every 1,000. Were the fourth class postmasterhips not smothered by the civil service, there would be a total of about 70,000 postmasterhips to give. There is a good deal of guessing about whether Progressives of Republican antecedents will be invited to the pie counter. If it should so turn out, the division will be a much longer division. In the meantime, people reputed themselves to be sparing of talk and sentences of speech are praising Governor Wilson's record since his election as a good listener. The note and tone of his listening is music to their ears, as it were. They predict mighty well for him.

Comparison With Past.

Just twenty years ago the country was making ready for a change from a Republican to a Democratic administration. Grover Cleveland had been elected president for the second time. Then, as now, the hotel corridors and congressional circles at the capital were lively with speculation as to the personnel of the next Cleveland cabinet, and then, as now, there was no dearth of willing aspirants to serve the people in some public remunerative post. They had not been so long denied opportunity to serve as now. An interval of four years had kept them out since Cleveland's first administration, but some of them had got a taste of place and perquisites, and there was no evidence that they did not like it very well, indeed. There were hosts of Democrats who had been disappointed in the first instance and surviving hopes deferred, were willing to try again.

The return into power in 1893 was more complete than in 1885. In the first Cleveland administration, while the house was Democratic, the senate was Republican. In 1893 both houses were safely Democratic. So, with the legislative, as well as the executive branches of the government in control of the Democrats, and buoyed by assurances of the national convention which nominated Mr. Cleveland for the third time that, if elected, he would give a thoroughly Democratic administration, Jacksonian, in fact, as far as taking offices was concerned, members of the successful party were naturally sanguine. The members of the first cabinet—1885-89—were all Democrats without a record's flaw. The personnel of that cabinet was widely commended and especially pleased Democrats everywhere. Three of the members—Thomas B. Bayard of Delaware, secretary of state, Augustus H. Garland of Arkansas, attorney general, and Lucius Q. C. Lamar of Mississippi, secretary of the interior—had been senators up to March 4, 1885. The other cabinet members—Daniel Manning of New York, secretary of the treasury; William C. Endicott of Massachusetts, secretary of war; William C. Whitney of New York, secretary of the navy, and Norman J. Coleman of Missouri, secretary of agriculture—were all staunch Democrats. If there was anything like general disappointment in the first Cleveland administration it was with respect to the president's partiality to the civil service institution at the expense of the hopes of those who believed that only Democrats should hold offices, and that Democrats in abundance could be found competent to fill all the offices.

Cleveland's Second Cabinet.

But, when on March 6, 1893, President Cleveland sent his cabinet list to the senate, amazement sat on the brows of Democrats throughout the country when they saw heading the list, nominated for the highest office within the Democratic president's gift, the name of Walter Q. Gresham of Indiana, a Republican, who in the Republican national convention of 1892 was a candidate for that party's nomination for president, and in that convention received 126 votes for the honor. Democrats were sadly disappointed at the unflattering reflection upon the resources of the party. Mr. Cleveland's reasons for this appointment never were given to the public. It is true, Judge Gresham's administration of the state department showed no evidence of his former party affiliation; he always deferred in making appointments to the wishes of the president. But that did not satisfy Democrats who believed Mr. Cleveland had abused a great party trust in giving the best he had to a man who had always fought the Democratic party. There was no complaint of the other selections: John G. Carlisle of Kentucky, secretary of the treasury; Daniel S. Lamont of New York, secretary of war; Richard Olney of Massachusetts, attorney general; William S. Russell of New York, postmaster general; Hilary A. Herbert of Alabama, secretary of the navy; Hoke Smith of Georgia, secretary of the interior; Julius S. Morton of Nebraska, secretary of agriculture.

In this cabinet as in the first, Mr. Cleveland placed two New Yorkers and one Massachusetts man. At this time—the latter half of January, 1893,—the public had a pretty good line on who would compose the cabinet, except as to secretary of state, as transferred March 4. In this cabinet were but two members who had been in congress, Mr. Carlisle, who had represented Kentucky in the senate, and Mr. Herbert, who as a representative from Alabama had been chairman on the committee of naval affairs. Mr. Cleveland announced his choice of cabinet officers February 23.

Then, as now, with both houses Democratic, the date of the change of administrations approached with a general understanding that there was to be an extra session of congress. But the reasons for the call were quite different. The second Cleveland administration found the government's financial resources in a deplorable condition, and it soon became known that Mr. Cleveland would call an extraordinary session, manifestly to accomplish the repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman coinage act of 1890, the rock upon which the Democratic party began a splitting from which it did not recover until last year, when William J. Bryan failed to get his fourth nomination.

But in 1893 the extra session did not meet until August 7, whereas this year, meeting to consider revision of the tariff, it is understood, the extra session will begin before the end of March. In 1893 the senate met in special session, which lasted until April 15.

Cleveland's Appointees.

To the grief of hosts of aspirants for office, the Cleveland administration passed without much progress achieved in turning the Republicans out of office. The first nominations after the cabinet was named March 15, when the president nominated Josiah Quincy of Massachusetts, for assistant secretary of state; Isaac P. Gray of Indiana, who had been a candidate for vice president and had been discussed for the cabinet as minister to Mexico; Patrick A. Collins of Boston, for consul general to London, and Robert A. Maxwell of New York, for fourth assistant postmaster general. Other more important nominations came as below.

March 20—John E. Risely of New York, minister to Denmark; James B. Eustis of Louisiana, minister to France, an office soon thereafter made ambassador; Thomas Runyon of New Jersey, minister to Germany; W. D. Dabney of Virginia, solicitor for the state department; James G. Jenkins of Wisconsin, judge of the Seventh judicial circuit, to succeed Walter Q. Gresham, made secretary of state; Charles B. Stewart of Texas, judge of Indian Territory; D. T. Guyton of Mississippi, United States marshal for the northern district of Mississippi; Ernest P. Baldwin of Maryland, first auditor of the treasury department; Thomas Holcombe of Delaware, fifth auditor of the treasury department; Wade Hampton of South Carolina, railroad commissioner.

March 22—William H. Sims of Mississippi, first assistant secretary of the interior; Horace H. Lurton of Tennessee, United States judge for the Sixth circuit, vice Howell E. Jackson, resigned; John S. Seymour of Connecticut, commissioner of patents; Silas W. Lamoreaux of Wisconsin, commissioner of the general land office; assistant commissioner of the general land office, Ed A. Bowers of the District of Columbia; second deputy commissioner of pensions, Henry C. Bell of Illinois; John J. Carter of Louisiana, collector of internal revenue for Louisiana; Max Judd of Missouri, consul general at Vienna. On this date the first nominations of postmasters were made. One of them was that of Miss Lela Tyns at Groes-

April 13—Alexander W. Terrell of Texas, minister to Turkey; Seth

April 11—L. Q. C. Lamar, Jr., of Mississippi, recorder for the general land office.

April 15—John S. Miller of West Virginia, commissioner of internal revenue.

Recess Appointments.

That was the last day of the senate's special session. The extra session met August 7, but it was not until the 14th that more presidential nominations went to the senate. These consisted of recess appointments, but were not unusually numerous. The next Texas appointment was August 16, that of Richard C. Ware, a United States marshal for the western district. On the same date, John R. Mobley of Waco, was nominated collector of internal revenue for the fourth Texas district, and George P. Finley, collector of customs at Galveston, vice N. W. Cuney removed. F. P. Alexander was nominated September 1 to be register of the land office at Alva, Okla. September 6, John A. Michel was nominated collector of customs at Brazos de Santiago.

These were the last nominations of the session, and no more were made until the regular session in December. The Republican "rascals" were not turned out as fast in the second as in the first Cleveland administration. The Democratic progressive slogan in the days of 1885-89 and of 1893-97 was "Turn the Rascals Out!"

President-elect Wilson has manifested some desire to follow a general merit system and incidentally to pay political debts where possible.

Representative William B. Wilson, chairman of the house committee on labor, is to be tendered a farewell dinner, to mark his retirement from congress, and in appreciation of his services to organized labor, by the Central Labor Union of Washington.

Gen. Powell Clayton, who recently retired as the Arkansas member of the National Republican committee, is believed to be the only man living who has sat as a delegate in every Republican national convention since the party was first organized.

I. FRIEDLANDER MAKES PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

To the Voters of Waco:

The election on Tuesday is an important one to the Citizens of Waco. Upon its outcome depends the government of Waco for the next two or four years, and upon the government can truly be said depends the probable growth of the city.

Mr. John F. Wright, the commissioner of fire and light department, is not an aspirant for his present position. While on the commission he has been aggressive and progressive and his influence and counsel have been felt. An active, live, wide-awake and progressive man ought to be chosen to succeed him. Whether the writer has these qualifications is to be determined by the voters at the ballot box on next Tuesday.

A man's past record of achievement is a better argument for further honors than political promises, and it is solely upon this record that I base my claims to the office of commissioner.

It is not necessary for me to recount the time and attention which I have given to public affairs in Waco; and it is not necessary to remind the public that this has been free of all thought of remuneration. The sacrifices which I have freely made have been because of my love and patriotism for my home city, and though defeated last year for the office of commissioner there has been no let-up in my work for Waco. It is needless to say that the outcome of this race will have no effect whatsoever as regards my patriotism.

If it is desired that a progressive, aggressive city government continue, and if you feel that with Mr. Wright's retirement a young man should be chosen to fill his place; if the writer has earned your confidence, if he has been true to the trust and honor placed in his charge, and has initiated constructive ideas for the good and welfare of Waco; if he has been faithful to his duty and always loyal to his city, then why not reward his faithfulness and accept the proffer of his services as city commissioner?

Pledging my continued energy to a greater Waco and with serenity I confidently await your verdict.

I. FRIEDLANDER.

APPROVE ROAD LAW

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS AND Y. M. B. L. CONFER WITH SENATOR TERRELL.

Few Minor Changes Are Made in the Bill—Engineer Provision Is Endorsed.

Acting together and in the presence of Senator H. B. Terrell, who is fathering the measure, the board of county commissioners and a committee from the Young Men's Business league yesterday endorsed the good roads bill to be presented to the legislature, which abolishes road service, provides in lieu thereof a road tax and for the scientific building of good roads under the supervision of a competent engineer to replace the present hit-or-miss methods in use practically all over the state.

The measure underwent few changes at the hands of the joint committee, all being minor ones. The measure, complete, appeared in the Morning News Saturday.

Some discussion was occasioned by one of the first items of the bill, which provides that a civil engineer be employed on a salary of $200 in McLennan county for the next two years, to have supervision of the road work and the laying of permanent roads over the county.

It was suggested by Commissioner Smith that unless bond issues in the various justice precincts were forthcoming at once, the engineer would be out of a job and would be an unnecessary expense to the county.

Judge Denton pointed out the fact that the county is now getting out a block book, and that there will be considerable work on this for any engineer employed by the county. Other matters now urgently needing the attention of an engineer were pointed out, and it was finally decided not to touch this provision of the bill.

The section of the bill which provides that permanent roads are to be made, will be changed by Senator Terrell to provide a bit more strength as to the exact character of permanency to be had. It was pointed out that permanent roads made on forty-year bonds should last not only the forty years during which the sinking fund is being acquired, but longer by ten times.

HIGHEST BOWLING SCORE.

C. L. Link's Team Makes the Biggest Run Ever.

The highest bowling score made this season on the Huaco club bowling alleys was scored last night by the team captained by C. L. Link, opposing W. D. Lacy's team in the February tournament for the club championship. The team rolled 908 in the last game, which is considered a very high score for an amateur team.

Link's team won two of the three games played. The team piloted by Lacy won the first game and lost the last two by wide margins. The following scores were made:

Link's team, 750, 888 and 908 against Lacy's team, 846, 748, 830.

The losers were hosts to a Dutch lunch. The bowling game marked the wind-up feature of an all-day entertainment at the club.

WHAT'LL STOP SOUR STOMACH?

They Act Quick and Relief is Almost Immediate.

There are some things so exactly right that to mention them brings calm and repose. And to you Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets gives the stomach just that kind of lift that makes you check up one hundred per cent to the good. Particularly is this true with those who suffer with sour stomach. You feel just what it is. You actually hate yourself. And yet in a few minutes these tablets sweeten the stomach, arrest unnatural fermentation, start a powerful digestive action and prevent the formation of gas.

They are composed of only such digestants as are approved by the very best of physicians.

Real, live, progressive people want to be around where the activities of life embrace whatever circumstances dictate. If a house party serves a Welsh rabbit, go to it. It isn't the easiest thing in the world to digest. You feel just what it is. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will take care of you, you keep your stomach in control and your dreams won't see an army of hobgoblins playing hob with your nerves. Many physicians regularly prescribe Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for the stomach disorders of patients who are ill with some constitutional malady. They do so for the reason that these tablets are not a patent medicine and their composition is known and recognized as the most approved and most powerful of all digestants.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold and recommended by all druggists at 50c a box.

FOR DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR—25 CENT "DANDERINE"

SAVE YOUR HAIR! DANDERINE DESTROYS DANDRUFF AND STOPS FALLING HAIR AT ONCE—GROWS HAIR, WE PROVE IT.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, you must use Danderine, because nothing else accomplishes so much for the hair.

Just one application of Knowlton's Danderine will double the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you can not have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, don't hesitate, but get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff, no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now? A 25-cent bottle will truly amaze you.

John F. Wright Endorses
I. Friedlander

To the Citizens of Waco:
It is a pleasure for me to endorse one of our progressive young business men, Mr. I. Friedlander, for commissioner. I have been closely associated with him for the past four years in the work for a bigger and better Waco, and consider him in every way competent and capable of filling this position.
I think the voters of Waco will make no mistake in selecting him as one of their commissioners.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" REGULATES STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS

TRY THIS DELICIOUS FRUIT LAXATIVE TO CLEANSE YOUR STOMACH, LIVER AND 30 FEET OF BOWELS OF SOUR BILE, GASES, DECAYING FOOD AND CLOGGED-UP WASTE.

If headachy, bilious, dizzy, tongue coated, stomach sour and full of gas, you belch undigested food and feel sick and miserable, it means that your liver is choked with sour bile and your thirty feet of bowels are clogged with effete waste matter not properly carried off. Constipation is worse than most folks believe. It means that this waste matter in the thirty feet of bowels decays into poisons, gases and acids and that these poisons are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

Most people dread physic. They think of castor oil, salts and cathartic pills. They shrink from the after effects—so they postpone the dose until they get sick; then they do this liver and bowel cleansing in a heroic way—they have a bowel washday—

There will be a general meeting of members of the Waco fire department at the Central station Thursday night for the purpose of discussing important matters that need immediate consideration. An engine company at No. 7 station, which recently has been opened, will organize a new company and be represented at the meeting.

Myrtle Berry, charged with forfeiting her bond for her appearance in the county court to answer to a charge of theft, was lodged in the county jail yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriff J. M. Morgan, who brought the woman back from Austin, where she had been captured.

Judge Denton will order a school tax election in school district No. 57, known as the Evergreen district, the order to be entered Monday and the election to be set for April 5. W. H. Price will be the presiding officer of the election. A 10-cent raise is desired for school purposes by the petitioners. Thirty-six, or sixteen more than the required number, signed the petition. The election will be held at the school house, and will be from 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

At Groveton the Trinity County Progressive league has been organized and G. H. Motley, editor of the Groveton News, is its president.

That is all wrong. If you will take a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs tonight, you will never realize you have taken anything until morning, when all the poisonous matter, sour bile and clogged up waste will be moved on and out of your system, thoroughly but gently—no griping—no nausea—no weakness. Taking Syrup of Figs is a real pleasure. Don't think you are drugging yourself; it is composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics, and constant use cannot cause injury.

Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna" and look for the name, California Fig Syrup Company, on the label. This is the genuine—old reliable. Any other Fig Syrup offered as good should be refused with contempt. Don't be imposed upon.

COTTAGE PLAN IN JUVENILE SCHOOL

MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE BELIEVE WALLS SHOULD COME DOWN AT GATESVILLE.

SENATOR TERRELL'S IDEAS

Does Not Like the Divided Authority Between the Board and Superintendent—Other Features.

"Conditions at the State Juvenile Training school are probably 25 per cent better than they were in December. However, it is my personal opinion that the legislature will either have to abolish the institution or appropriate a lot of money to make the school what public sentiment all over Texas now demands that it shall be."

This was a statement made last evening by Senator H. B. Terrell, of West, member of the legislative committee charged with investigating conditions at the state school at Gatesville, just after his return to Waco last evening after having gone over the reformatory.

One thing the senator noted during his stay at Gatesville was the love and admiration expressed by every single boy in the institution for Superintendent Adams, all declaring freely that their condition had been greatly improved under his administration. Another unique feature of the visit was the expression of all the boys that, so far as punishment goes, they prefer the duress of the switch which has replaced the old bat.

"The troubles there, in a nutshell," said Senator Terrell, "are traceable to the indisputable fact that no institution of such magnitude and importance can be successfully operated under two heads. The provision of the law authorizing a board to manage that institution should be repealed and the complete control of the institution placed in the hands of the superintendent."

Board System Wrong.
"I shall not attempt to say whether Superintendent Adams or the board is responsible for the present trouble there, but I do assert without fear of successful contradiction that conditions at the institution are 25 per cent better now than six months ago."

The board is composed of five members who live in different sections of the state, and it is a matter of impossibility for it, when only in session for a few hours each month, to properly keep in touch with conditions. Yet the superintendent, under the present law, must take orders from the board.

"I understand that one member of the board draws more than half as much from the state as per diem and traveling expenses in attending these monthly meetings as the superintendent's salary, and yet he does nothing more than approve the monthly accounts at such meetings, and even then does not have time to investigate the accounts."

"There is one thing the committee is a unit on, and that is that the negroes should be removed from this institution at once. Thirty-four per cent of the inmates are negroes and it is the opinion of the committee that a separate school should be provided for them at some point in South Texas."

The members of the committee yesterday had the boys all to themselves in the large assembly room, and for two hours questioned them individually and collectively, and then cross-questioned them with a view to ascertaining the exact conditions which surround them.

The boys were outspoken in their love for Superintendent Adams, and declared that they were much better pleased with their treatment now than under the old regime.

Half the Boys Could Be Saved.
"It's a tough proposition for any man to handle that bunch of boys," said Mr. Terrell. "Some of them are about as bad as boys are made, though some, it seems to me, probably half, could be saved and made valuable citizens under the present system. The boys were asked how many were addicted to the use of cigarettes and chewing tobacco before they came to the institution, and all but six of them got up. About eighty-five per cent were found to have been sent to the reformatory for theft or burglary."

Asked as to what system he would suggest if the state is to make suitable expenditures to make the school a real training school and continue it for the training of white boys, he said he had thought of the cottage plan, by which the worst boys may be separated from the boys who may be reclaimed, and he believed this the proper plan to inaugurate for the housing of the boys.

Real Trade Training.
The installation of real trade training, he held to be the most vital importance, declaring that to develop the youngsters their interest must be captured, and that their interests cannot be captured unless they have a choice of trades. Ninety per cent of the boys at the school, he said, come from the cities, and they hate the sight of a farm or anything in the way of farm implements.

Proper departments in tailoring, mechanics and other branches of work, he said, might prove valuable to the state and certainly would prove a lasting benefit to hundreds of boys who, when freed, would be in possession of sufficient skilled knowledge to make honest livings for themselves—would be already equipped with a start in life, lack of which has proved disastrous to many.

Besides Senator Terrell, the joint committee which spent Saturday at Gatesville consists of Senator Julius Real of Kerrville and H. P. Breland of Eastland and Representatives H. P. Lane of Fort Worth, Patrick Henry, Jr., of Wichita Falls, and W. L. Hill of Huntsville.

Senator Terrell said he presumed that on their arrival at Austin that the committee could get together on a report as to the conditions found at the training school for submission to the legislature. The matter of the report, however, had not been discussed up to last night.

A stenographer attended the committee throughout the day yesterday and took such evidence as was deemed worthy of note.

John Maxwell for City Attorney

To the Voters of Waco:
I have just very hard to see every voter in the city during this campaign. I have worked night and day for practically thirty days. I have been to every shop, factory and place of business that I knew about, or could hear of, and also used my best efforts on the streets of the city, but notwithstanding all this there are hosts of people that I have missed and been unable to see. It is to these principally that I issue this address in the closing days of the campaign. I have tried to make a clean, honorable effort to secure the office of city attorney. I have not spent much money for that kind of a campaign, and if I did believe in such a campaign I have no sufficient means—if I did I would not need the office. I have not asked for votes on the demerits of any other person, nor have I offered myself as a candidate of any faction or set of people in the city. I desire to represent this city as its citizens and have simply stated my case to the voters and asked them to decide in my favor, if in good conscious they could do so.

The office of city attorney requires something more than a technical knowledge of the law. It requires some knowledge of public policy and of general business. My experience in public affairs has been extensive. I graduated from Baylor university. I served as first deputy in the district attorney's office where I had intimate touch with every branch of the practice. I read law at home and in vacation and at the University of Michigan. I served four years in the legislature of this state, being elected twice without opposition. In the legislature I became thoroughly familiar with the work of preparing laws, analyzing them and construing them. I served a year as assistant county attorney of this county, and in addition to this I have had a general

Two years ago, at the solicitation of my friends, I made this same race. At that time I failed of election by a margin of seventy votes, and it was generally conceded at that time that I would be elected in 1913. Based upon my showing in that election I have entered this race on my own initiative and am confident of the results in the election next Tuesday. I have lived in Waco fifteen years. I have taken part in, and in many cases a prominent part of, every movement of this city for its industrial and social development. I have never hesitated, when called upon by the business organizations of the city, to do all in my power in every enterprise fostered by them, and if elected city attorney I pledge myself to make the business of the city first; that should my private business become so large as to interfere with the business of the city I will retire. I believe that is no more than every public official owes to his constituents. I have tried to equip myself in my profession and to equip myself in my mind to the end that the services I shall render to the public will be efficient and prompt, bearing in my mind always that the humblest citizen has exactly the same rights with the greatest, and that all matters coming under my supervision in the office shall be handled exclusively upon their merits without bias or prejudice, for or against any man.

I want to thank my friends for the many flattering comments they have made on my record and the assurance they have given me for my election. I want to call upon them to be diligent and vigilant and the results of the election will be assured.

Very truly,
JOHN MAXWELL.
(Adv.)

error on his visit in December, and who will advise as to necessary furnishings, supplies and equipment for the school and dormitory buildings, der two heads. The provision of the law authorizing a board to manage that institution should be repealed and the complete control of the institution placed in the hands of the superintendent."

It was apparent that the committee is thoroughly disposed to deal generously with the institution in its report, and every member expressed some opinion as to reforms of the need of which there can be no question, regardless of what this investigation may develop. Mr. Henry is the author of a juvenile probation and correction bill, which follows rather closely the governor's recommendations, especially as regards county responsibility for the care and instruction of the younger wards and delinquents. All the members were agreed that competency is the prime factor to be considered in the management of the institution.

It was also agreed that the expenditure of money for salaries of those who can act merely as guards and said that men should be employed who could teach in workshop and on the farm, as well as looking after the conduct of the young delinquents and prisoners. The unanimous opinion, based on recent and current reports, was that the institution is in need of thorough attention and adequate provision to initiate improvements in operation and service, particularly with respect to equipping the place as a genuine training school.

Mr. Elliott said that since his visit with the governor he has corresponded with sixty-five juvenile training schools and reformatories throughout the country as to system and results, and that a majority of these still maintain the juvenile and reformatory features jointly. He said the cottage plan—no walls, no fences—has achieved the most success, and while it is more expensive than the dormitory plan the percentage of "cures" it has effected, in his opinion, fully justifies the cost. There is a feeling among the members that it would not be feasible to recommend to this legislature the construction of an entirely separate juvenile school, and the best that can be expected is provision for segregating the little boys from the young prisoners convicted of more serious offenses.

The house members said that there was no excuse for the insanitary conditions found by the executive and the correspondents, as the labor of the older boys easily could be directed toward keeping the place clean and it was neither expensive nor a hardship to provide sufficient towels, bedding and clothing to prevent this lack of personal care. Sanitary conditions will come in for close inspection.

The members expect to complete their investigation by tonight, and will return to Austin Sunday.

BOB PAYNE MAKES A STATEMENT TO VOTERS

Owing to the nearness of election and the usual rush incident to the close of a campaign, it will be impossible for me to personally see every voter in Waco and outline to each, individually, my policies. However, I earnestly and cordially solicit your careful consideration and if you deem me worthy for the place I am seeking, subject to the action of the democratic primaries, February 25, to succeed Pat Gorman, place No. 2, I will sincerely appreciate your vote.

I desire to state that if elected commissioner, I will use my influence and give my every effort to put into good shape and condition the suburbs of Waco. In my opinion the suburbs should be improved substantially in order to enable the working people to better get to and from their work, as well as to improve their home surroundings. This will be one of the improvements I would expect to make as city commissioner.

I feel that with eight years' experience as county commissioner, I am qualified to properly execute the duties incident to the office I am seeking. I am familiar with Waco, her present condition and many of her urgent needs. If elected, I promise to give to the people of Waco the best there is in me, to unswervingly do my duty and to impartially administer the affairs of the office of commissioner.

I solicit your support.
Cordially,
BOB PAYNE.

Dr. Knickerbocker for I. Friedlander

I think that he is one of the most learned and brilliant young men that I have ever known, and thoroughly progressive and patriotic in every way qualified to the office. What he has done already is an ample earnest of what he will do in the future. I take pleasure in pledging him my support upon the basis of his qualifications.

Last Sunday an Atchison man snoozed in bed until 11 a. m. Then he arose, dressed leisurely, had a nice breakfast, read the papers, smoked, loafed, ate a nice dinner, read some more papers, smoked, loafed, took a nap and in the evening ate a lunch, read a little, smoked, loafed and was as agreeable as only a thoroughly well-to-do man knows how to be. His wife arose early, scrubbed the children and got them off to Sunday school, cooked breakfast, cleaned up

STATE Y. M. C. A. IN CONVENTION

INTERESTING TALKS ARE MADE BY THE VISITORS FROM OUT THE STATE.

SPEECHES AT THE BANQUET

Every Phase of the Work is Discussed
 By Men Who Are Specialists.

Corpus Christi, Tex., Feb. 22.—The banquet tendered the state convention of the Y. M. C. A. here last night was a notable gathering and covers were laid for three hundred. After banqueting was over William A. Wilson, state chairman, of Houston, called the convention to order and prayer was offered by Mr. Johnson of San Antonio. After the reading of the more salient points of the state secretary's report by Mr. Conner, state secretary, the regular program of the evening was taken up. The speaker was Dr. J. E. Brown, of the Association Training School of Chicago, and Dr. W. M. Ball of the International Committee, New York, and Dr. Barbour, of the International Committee, New York.

One of the enjoyable and instructive features of the evening was a lantern slide lecture by Mr. Hunter, assistant state secretary, in which was shown the various kinds of work being conducted by the association here in Texas. The scenes were taken in factories, railroad shops, in the out of doors and in various places. Mr. Hunter laid special stress upon the boys' work of the association and made an appeal for a more liberal support of this work.

Veteran in the Work.
 Dr. Brown, who is a man of considerable years, is a man who is in close touch with his age and especially the young life of America. He has been in the work of the association since the seventies and is now a veteran in the work. For a number of years he has had supervision of the work of training Y. M. C. A. workers in the International Training School in Chicago. He is a maker of leaders. His subject for the evening was "Efficiency in Conserving a National Asset; the Need of Conservation." Mr. Brown assumed the position, which no thinking man will deny, that the principal asset of our nation is the young man. He then raised the question: Are we properly and effectively conserving this national asset? He asked if there were not many dangers threatening the young life of America? He then proceeded in his impressive but not too long lecture to point out the fact that the young man, the most important asset of any community, is in many places being shamefully neglected and this great asset is allowed to go to waste. He pointed to the rising interest being manifested by the government in the nation's youth in the conservation of our natural resources, and how that means are now being devised for reclaiming the devastated forests and unfruitful soil. Using these things as a basis he drove to the hearts of his hearers the more important matter of conserving the effectiveness of the young life of the nation.

W. M. Ball spoke to the subject, "The Plan of Conservation." Mr. Ball is a polished speaker and a man of broad learning and he did not lack for words to express the big thoughts which came rushing into his mind. He threw himself into the subject. He called attention to the fact of science which tells us there are but two forms of matter, animate and inanimate. Or, in other words, dead matter and live matter. Science also tells us there have been but two forms of life, vegetable and animal. Man belongs to the animal kingdom. He is an animal, and yet he is more, according to Christian belief. The speaker then proceeded to show that man is made up of three distinct natures, namely, mental, physical and spiritual. He is a spiritual being. Therefore to properly conserve the efficiency of man he must be developed along these lines. It takes each, fully developed, to make an effective man. There was once a tendency to treat man as a separate being in his training process. We would undertake to send his physical nature, as it were, down to the gymnasium, and his mental nature up to the library or educational department, while we sent his spiritual nature to lecture hall or to church. But we have discovered the fact that to properly develop man we must treat him as a whole and that all these natures dwell together in one harmonious unity and he cannot be separated into three parts. The speaker then proceeded to show the methods of the Y. M. C. A. in developing the physical man and making that a basis for further development of the man along these other lines. For instance there cannot be a healthy mind in an unhealthy body. There cannot be a strongly developed spiritual being when the mental and physical natures have been neglected. Hence the real basis of work is the physical man. With this trained and developed an avenue has been opened up which leads to the mental and spiritual man. The Y. M. C. A. was shown to have the most perfect system of physical training in the nation. Although the hour was growing late when Dr. Barbour was announced to speak, he succeeded in holding his crowd and also their attention. He was equal to the occasion and for nearly twenty minutes he gave facts which stirred the conscience and moved the soul. Dr. Barbour spoke to the same topic as Mr. Ball, but took up another line of thought. He dealt with the young man as he is found upon the streets and in the places of worldly amusement and asked the question, why does he hang around the pool room and the red light district? There is but one answer, said the speaker. "In many instances it is due to the fact that there is no motive within leading him elsewhere." Then picturing the young man as the "unhinged and unprotected open field," as it were, he made a strong and eloquent appeal for the safeguarding of the young man along all lines of development.

The speaker laid down certain elements of character which must predominate in any life which is to be counted efficient. The first is that of integrity. The second that of unselfish service, both to God and one's fellows. Around these points the speaker made his appeal which struck a most responsive chord in the hearts of all who heard. The general verdict of all present was that this had been a great occasion.

At the morning session today Dr. A. J. Barton, of Waco, addressed the convention on the great work the Y. M. C. A. was doing and the great future there was before the association.

Dr. Brown, of Chicago, spoke of an "Efficient Equipment," and urged thorough organization for work, with capable men at the head.

W. M. Ball, international committeeman from New York city, spoke of the Y. M. C. A. as "an efficient agency in the physical life of a community," as well as in its moral and religious uplift.

Dr. Barbour of New York, also an international committeeman, stated an "efficient program" and urged unity and industrious application in all things connected with the work.

Mr. Brown of Chicago addressed the convention for the second time, urging prayer, plans and gifts as the most efficient agencies in the extension and furtherance of the great work of the Y. M. C. A.

A. G. Kneble of St. Louis, railroad secretary for the international committee, St. Louis, urged good management as a help to success, and especially among railroad men.

Dr. J. J. Terrell of Galveston made a telling talk on how to reach non-Christian students, and Dr. Brown on personal work, religious meetings and special campaigns.

B. W. Goodman of Houston led in a general discussion on the work among the boys, and adult workers with boys.

The various churches of the town will give way to the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow and delegates to the convention will hold services in all the churches.

TIPS FOR TOURISTS IN ENGLAND.

Some Valuable Information for Those Who Go Abroad.

A fish knife is always served with fish and is not to be used for a butter knife, but as you will look in vain for the butter you are safe in using it for fish.

Bread is served as an article of food, and is not used as a pusher. The fork is always kept in the left hand, and is not to be used for anything else. Vegetables, including peas, are mashed on the back of it with the knife.

Small knives and forks are served with all fruits; under no circumstances is fruit decorated by a touch of the fingers. A fork and dessert spoon are served with all desserts. You push the confection on the spoon with the fork and proceed as usual.

Tea, coffee and cocoa are not sipped with a spoon. A teaspoon is to be used; after it has served that purpose its little mission is over and it reposes placidly on the saucer.

When you have finished with them the knife and fork are placed on the plate directly in front of you. While dining, under no circumstances allow them to rest half on the plate and half on the table. You may be called a "rower" if you do.

Bread is broken with one hand only, the left one usually.

All vegetables, excepting asparagus, are served on the dinner plate. You will look for the birds' bath tubs in vain.

You may break all the Ten Commandments, but by observing the above and taking a fishy tub bath you will pass for a gentleman. By failure in any one of these details you will find yourself utterly declassified. In England all social etiquette that is not English is vulgar.

A. R. McCollum Endorses I. Friedlander

To the Voters of Waco:

Exercising a privilege of citizenship and in line with what I believe to be the best interests of Waco, I desire to state briefly my reasons for supporting and recommending Mr. I. Friedlander as a candidate for a commissioner of the city of Waco.

I can vouch for him on my personal knowledge as a young man of good character, exemplary life and habits, exceptionally industrious, with physical strength and vigor to give effective attention to the duties he will assume. Few young men are so well equipped as he in point of intelligence, of sound judgment and the well-balanced disposition that makes a man valuable and useful in public life. For his personal integrity I vouch without reserve.

I believe him to possess thorough conception of the importance of the duties that he will assume and with capacity to administer public affairs in a conservative but progressive manner, thus promoting the sure and wholesome growth and development of our city. As a representative and commanding the confidence of the young business element of Waco, an element whose friendly interest and pride, whose active co-operation is so essential to healthy local progress and prosperity, I believe he can and will exert an influence that will be exceptionally valuable as an asset to maintain local prestige, to promote all material interests. I believe Waco is at a stage in its history when such influences should be utilized and turned to useful purpose. A native of Waco, reared here and all his interests centered here, I expect him to prove the value of young blood combined with more mature judgment and experience. Thus believing, I shall give him my support. I do not in any wise disparage the worth and probable value of any other aspirant. My sole desire is to do what I may in this election to help build up our home city, to give it sane but progressive government that will solve municipal problems wisely and give to our people the advantages of living and doing business in one of the most desirable cities of this state.

Interview With Bill Saunders, Candidate For City Attorney

With reference to his candidacy for the office of city attorney of Waco, Mr. Saunders had this to say:

"I submit my candidacy for city attorney solely upon my qualifications for this position. I am a lawyer by profession and actual practice. The records will show that in the courts I have successfully participated in the trial of much important litigation, and that as assistant city attorney I have acted for a long period of time and have had experience in every phase of the work devolving upon the city attorney. I have prosecuted in the city court and have prepared and assisted in the preparation of the many contracts, ordinances, bonds and other papers required to be drawn by the legal department of the city of Waco. I have investigated the many questions of municipal law that have arisen in the administration of the city government, as evidenced by opinions given to the board of commissioners and now on file in the city secretary's office. I revised, compiled and codified the book of ordinances now in force in this city."

"It is distasteful to me to thus speak of myself or of my own qualifications, but as the determining issue between myself and my opponent in this campaign should be qualifications for this office, I feel that I must get before the citizenship of Waco my experience and record as a lawyer and as assistant city attorney. If the voters of Waco believe me qualified and that I have made good as assistant city attorney I respectfully solicit their support and I assure them that I will appreciate to the fullest their favorable consideration, and will, if elected, give to the duties of the office my best talent and energy."

FOR SAFETY FIRST

KATY EMPLOYEES TO HAVE A RALLY HERE NEXT SUNDAY.

Will Be in the Nature of a School of Instruction to Prevent Hurts and Deaths.

The rally to be given here a week from today by the safety department of Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway company, will bring at least 600 employees and visitors to the city, and Commissioner of Safety A. A. Krause of St. Louis expects double this number.

The session will be held in the Auditorium and it will be open to the public. A number of prominent officials will be present to deliver addresses. The work as a whole will be carried out largely by the employees. Commissioner Krause will be present to discuss safety from his experience since taking charge of that department. Free transportation will be furnished every employee who can attend and he will be urged to lend his presence.

The Waco rally included all of the Fort Worth and Dallas division employees and all others who can be induced to attend. The idea the railroad is trying to carry out is to create a sentiment for safety of human lives while handling railroad trains. It is even more dangerous to the employees than the public. Statistics show that three employees are killed or injured to one passenger, and the ratio of the number of employees to the number of passengers shows over 1000 passengers to one employee. Another great evil that will receive due emphasis is trespassing. Hundreds of people lose their lives annually through trespassing on the railroads. Some states have a law prohibiting this practice, but it is not enforced. The safety movement is to establish a sentiment that will cause persons to think and act safely.

WILL RUN MEXICAN TRAINS.

I. & G. N. Agent is Advised Service is Resumed.

According to advices received here by C. P. Jones, local passenger agent of the International & Great Northern railway, the first passenger trains to be operated in Mexico for the past ten days will be placed in service today between Laredo and Saltillo, which is an important link in connecting interior Mexico with the outside world by rail.

The dispatch stated that two daily trains would be in service and estimated that an effort would be made to operate the trains to Mexico City in a short time. Saltillo is a short distance south of Monterrey. During the fall of the Mexican government and the overthrow of Madero as president the only trains operated from the capital city were east to Vera Cruz.

To the Voters of Waco

I have not attempted to make a personal canvass for Commissioner, as I feel that my many years as a resident of Waco, as a private and public citizen, has acquainted the many people of Waco with me. I believe in progressive city government tempered with justice, and equal benefits to all sections of Waco.

STEPHEN TURNER, Formerly City Engineer of Waco. (Adv.)

E. W. Blinn Supporting I. Friedlander

In selecting candidates for public office we should always be influenced by their integrity, adaptability and honor.

The young men of Waco are certainly entitled to a representative on our board of city commissioners, and personally I know of no one among our younger element who is better fitted in every way to succeed Mr. John F. Wright as commissioner than Mr. I. Friedlander. Surely his successful work for progressive Waco is too well known to need further comment, and it gives me great pleasure to endorse Mr. Friedlander as the successor of Mr. Wright. Nowhere will you hear a single instance of anyone questioning his capability. Not a dishonest act is quoted against him. I sincerely trust and hope that Mr. Friedlander will be nominated, because he deserves it from every point of view. Yours truly,

E. W. BLINN. (Adv.)

Develop Your Bust In 15 Days

New Way Instantly Successful

I don't care how thin you are, how old you are, how fallen and flaccid are the lines of your figure or how flat your chest is. I can give you a full, firm, youthful bust. The Charm of a Full Bust is Worth More than Beauty that will be the envy of your fellow women and will give you the allurements of a perfect womanhood that will be irresistible.

They say there is nothing new under the sun, but I have perfected a treatment that I want to share with my sisters. What it did for me it can and will do for you, and I now offer it to you.

Others offer to build up your figure with drugs, greasy skin foods, creams, dieting, massage and expensive instruments and devices. I have done away with all these injurious methods and have given a legion of women a luxuriant natural development by a treatment never before offered to the public. No massage, nothing to take, nothing to wear.

Why be skinny, scrawny, flat and unattractive? I claim to be the highest priced artist's model in the United States, and what I did for myself I can do for you.

I don't care what your age may be. I ask only that you be at least sixteen and not an invalid, and I will undertake to develop your bust in two weeks. All I ask is five or ten minutes of your time every day. Write to Me Today for My Treatment. It will only cost you a penny for a post card, and I will mail you this wonderful information in a plain cover so that no one will know your secret.

Don't let a false pride and a silly sense of shame keep you from enjoying to the full the charms you should have to be a perfect specimen of womanhood. Let me help you. Your communication shall be held in absolute confidence and secrecy. Write me today.

DANCER GIVES REASONS FOR INCREASED VALUES

Ben F. Dancer of Ben F. Dancer & Co., Land and Loans, suite 1510 American Bldg., Waco, Texas, who is a native of Texas and a careful student of Texas land conditions, said yesterday:

"I believe the rapid advance in Texas lands may be traced to four fundamental causes: First, the great variety and fertility of our soils; second, the completion of the Panama canal, which will place Texas on the great highway between the markets of the east and the west, thereby shifting the center of commercial activity from the north to the south; third, the small area of arable land left for the homeseeker, the United States government realizing that she has but little arable land left and therefore maintains at enormous expense experts who are endeavoring to educate our agricultural classes and enable them to utilize every available acre; fourth, the stream of immigration pouring into Texas from the north as is evidenced by whole trainloads of homeseekers."

"The time will come when the owner of even a few acres in Texas may well regard himself rich. Within the memory of some of our oldest Waco citizens blocks in the city of Waco were exchanged for a Texas pony or a saddle blanket, and thousands of acres of McLennan county lands were regarded as too worthless to pay taxes on."

"Present prices to people ten or twenty years away will sound equally like a fable."

RED HAIR IN STYLE.

This is the Year the Titan-Locked Miss Shines.

Have you red hair? Nineteen hundred and thirteen is the great year for red-haired girls. The hair need not be real carotene red, just a suggestion will do, but if you want to be a beauty and a mascot you must have the tawny gleam, and the redder the hair the more the luck and the greater the beauty, this year anyhow.

The last type of beauty was the small, young person who looked as if she had just come from Russia, by way of Paris, of course. She is still somewhat in the running, but the real thing is the red-haired girl. Miss Elaine Davies is the embodiment of the beauty of 1913. She has all the attributes which make the Titan-haired girl particularly lovely, a perfect pink and rose complexion and a neck that artists proclaim the most beautiful in New York.

"Why is it lucky to have red hair?" I asked Miss Davies.

"I never knew it was luck until this year, when the red-haired girl seems to be coming into her own at last," answered the lady of the Titan locks. "But I think I know why red-haired people are lucky, and I'll tell you. Reddish hair is a sign of vitality, and people with great vitality believe in themselves and in their own luck, and that is half of the game. No one ever was a mascot or could bring people good luck who absolutely didn't believe in his or her certain powers to get the better of misfortune and adverse circumstances.

"Red hair is very interesting; at least it is to me," Miss Davies went on. "Because it is so changeable. The color of the hair seems to change with the degree of vitality. Yes, probably the luck changes, too, so to keep luck one ought to keep one's hair as red as possible."

"I am told the 'henna spray' is the latest thing in shampoo," I interrupted.

"But that is the false red that can have nothing to do with luck, as it has very little to do with beauty. Artificially colored hair never looks right, no matter how cleverly it is done. There are other ways of bringing back the natural red gleam to the hair," insisted the beautiful young actress.

"Red hair grows dark because it lacks sunshine and ventilation. People with red hair should wear hats as little as possible, especially when they notice that the hair is beginning to darken."

"It's a pity that we can't go around with our hair braided down our backs, in the house at all events, for hair needs all the ventilation and airing it can get, especially since we have been used to wear those tight-fitting hats and keep them on all day. This is what ruins the color of the hair and the only thing that will bring back the color is sunshine and air, and last, but not least, a careful diet."

"I don't know what doctors say on this subject," continued Miss Davies, "but I am perfectly certain that the condition of the hair is affected by the condition of the stomach, and that people lose their hair or see it grow dark and ugly because they eat not wisely nor well."

"I go about as much as I can in the open air without any hat at all. Of course, an open-air life makes one feel healthy and vigorous, and whenever I can enjoy country life I find that my hair grows a brighter and prettier red and that I have no trouble in handling it. You know," explained the 1913 beauty, "hair that won't stay 'put' is sickly hair; that means that the person herself is in bad physical condition." — Margaret Hubbard Ayer, in New York Journal.

Something New for Men

Restore Your Own Strength—No Drugs

The free illustrated pocket compendium of private advice for all men, whether young or elderly, single or married, whether well or ailing (explained below), not only contains a great fund of necessary information upon certain avoided private subjects, telling you what to avoid, what to do and what not to do, but also fully describes a new small mechanical appliance called a VITALIZER which generates a natural force and which is now being worn by men all over the world who seek new manly vigor. You, yourself, no matter where you live, may easily have one of these little VITALIZERS to try out in your own case. Therefore, please use the coupon below and get this free pocket compendium by return mail. SANDEN, AUTHOR.

How would YOU, reader, like to be strong, vigorous, vital and manly once more, without an ache, pain or weakness? If you really seek and want this new vigor, this rugged, manly strength, then please call at my office or write today and get my free book that you may know the whole wonderful story of this great, drugless, self-treatment, this marvelous little VITALIZER of my invention, which you wear comfortably on your body, and which sends its steady, gentle, silent supply of FORCE into your nerves, blood and organism while you sleep.

Real manhood with a perfect manly strength is not only nature's own gift, but, according to my belief, may easily be within the reach of practically any man. Of course, we all know that it is the husky, vigorous, vital fellow who attracts both women and men to him, and it is he, also, who is ever sought out and who achieves the really big things of life. Sturdy, vital manhood is, without doubt, the one great, silent universal power which fascinates us all, no matter how we may argue to the contrary. Therefore, reader, I care not what may be your age, nationality or creed, whether you are married or single, whether you are a bank president or work on the farm or in the shop, nor do I care how unattractive or nervous you may feel, or what past acts may have left you debilitated and overcast. I say to you in all seriousness, if I can show you an easy, drugless way by which you may treat yourself with the object of bringing back full vigor to your organism, then I will show you the road to new hope and new manhood. A man may be small in stature, yet as strong and attractive as a giant, or he may be big in stature yet unattractive, nervous and unmanly. It is all a question of your own vigorous strength. Therefore, let me suggest that you call or write at once, then after reading my book, if you decide you want to try out my little Vitalizer in your own case, and will write to me saying so, I will reply to your letter and guarantee to make an easy proposition which should enable you to have one of the Vitalizers at once. At all events, you need the knowledge that my little book contains, whether you ever get a Vitalizer or not, so please call or fill in and send the coupon.

NOTE—With special attachments my VITALIZER is used by women as well as men for rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders, nervousness and general ill health.

Free Self-Help Book for Men

I publish a little illustrated pocket compendium in booklet form, as mentioned above, which is meant to guide both single and married men along the road of Vigorous Health and Moral Rectitude, so they may be as vigorous and strong as the best, and may live to a ripe, healthy old age. There is a lot in this little compendium which every young or elderly man should know and can refer to from time to time with great profit to his own physical health. Try booklet in one part fully describes my new VITALIZER, the great drugless self-treatment. If it is not convenient or if you are too far away to call, please write for this booklet today. It will come to you in plain, sealed envelope by return mail. Please use coupon. Office hours, 9 to 6; Sundays, 10 to 1.

WOLGAST FIGHTS DRAW

"HARLEM" TOM MURPHY DIVIDES TWENTY-ROUND CONTEST AT FRISCO.

Harlemite Beats Former Champion During First Half—Wolverine Comes Back.

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—"Harlem" Tommy Murphy of New York and former lightweight champion Ad Wolgast fought twenty terrific rounds to a draw here this afternoon. For the first ten rounds Murphy had the better of the battle but he tired and Wolgast evened affairs by inflicting severe body punishment as the fight neared the final round.

Both men suffered considerable punishment and were weakening fast at the end. Experts expressed the opinion that Wolgast has completely recovered from the operation of last year. The fight was popular.

Wolgast literally laid himself to the point of collapse in the gruelling twenty-round battle.

Murphy, too, was tottering when the fight ended, but it was apparent that his reserve was greater than that of his adversary.

Wolgast fought his best battle since his illness of two years ago but the old-time dash and stamina were lacking. A systematic application of tremendous right and left drives to the body in the final rounds enabled Wolgast to earn a division of honors.

Throughout the twenty rounds there was little if any idle time. Murphy took the bit in his teeth at the outset and it was not long before he had battered his opponent's face almost to a pulp.

Rapid fire right and left punches delivered at close range seldom went unanswered, and when the contest was half over the Harlemite seemed in a fair way to win.

Wolgast meanwhile was content to husband his strength, although what punches he landed on Murphy's body carried greater force than those of the other fighter.

Wolgast's strategy finally realized that his only hope lay in his direction and from the tenth round on he devoted his attacks almost exclusively to Murphy's midsection. Time and again in being worried in heartbreak, rallies which all but carried the contest outside the ring he would reach his opponent's stomach.

Right and left smashes, the impact of which was heard in the remotest corner of the arena. Murphy could not escape these onslaughts although they served only to accelerate his fighting spirit.

In the nineteenth round Wolgast, fighting with the ferocity of an animal at bay, landed so frequently that Murphy welcomed the count of the bell, while Wolgast smiled to his friends about the ring as though he could with his puffed face and split lips.

The last round resolved itself into a question of the survival of the fittest. Science was forgotten. The fighters battled all around the ring, slugging away as though the fight had just commenced, with Referee Griffin frantically trying to pull them apart.

Three minutes of this work found them on the verge of collapse, with only the rope strands saving Wolgast from dropping to the mat from sheer exhaustion, while Murphy was eagerly watching for the timer to clang his gong.

Without hesitation Griffin raised the hands of both of them aloft and the crowd cheered. Both presented battered appearances as they were hustled to their dressing rooms.

Los Angeles, Feb. 22.—A deadly right swing four times repeated ended the scheduled twenty round bout at Vernon today between Knockout Brown, the New York lightweight, and Joe Rivers of Los Angeles, with victory for the Mexican before the end of the tenth round. It was the first defeat for the blonde German, whose sobriquet has been earned by the manner in which he had won scores of fights and a decade.

Five times Rivers sent Brown to the mat with his vicious right swing in the concluding round, three times for the count of nine. The fifth time the referee ended the fight without counting. It was a sensational finish to a furious encounter in which the Mexican and Teuton battled viciously from the opening gong.

Brown's awkward style of milling, due to the fact that he fights left-handed, was soon solved by Rivers, who blocked cleverly with elbow and open glove. Brown's best blow was a left jab to the body, which he used effectively.

Brown forced the fighting in nearly every round but his open manner gave the Mexican many opportunities to punish him about the head. Punishment which would have stopped many only seemed to act as a spur to the easterner's aggressiveness.

Long Distance Telephone.

The first attempt to carry on a telephone conversation between persons in New York and Chicago was made 28 years ago. A few words were heard when the line ceased and could not be re-established. On the same day satisfactory messages passed between New York and Meadville, Pa., a distance of 509 miles. The first long distance telephone line in England was put in operation 33 years ago, between Liverpool and Manchester, the masters of those cities talking with each other. Twenty years ago, February 7, 1893, a commercial long distance telephone line was opened between New York and Boston. Engineers of the telephone company now predict that before the end of the year it will be possible to carry on a telephone conversation between New York and San Francisco. London is now connected by telephone with Paris and other continental cities. New York now has more telephones than any other city in the world, 441,128; Chicago comes second with 275,401; London third, with 218,264; Boston fourth with 140,153; Berlin fifth, with 133,867; and Philadelphia sixth, with 123,398. Paris, St. Louis, Hamburg, Vienna and Buenos Ayres follow in the order given.

Up to the present date an Albany pecan grower has shipped 367,214 pounds of pecans, and he is still shipping. The prices ranged from 12 to 17 1-2 cents a pound.

Popular Government.

If you are a Chamber of Commerce or a Taxpayers' association, your motive in working toward charter reform is likely to be a desire for "good government."

Frankly you will have to abandon that attitude!

For you cannot make a charter which will automatically bring about good government, and you ought not to try. Forget the "good government" idea, and go after popular government as distinguished from politician's government.

It is easily possible to contrive a representative mechanism which will automatically produce whatever kind of government the people want. As the mechanism of government can be made so that it will baffle and block the will of the electorate, so also it can be made extremely sensitive to public control, and your elective officials can be put in an environment that will make them very nervous about public opinion.

Now, it may be that the people of your city are not as all-knowing as you are, and are liable to make mistakes if given a really workable form of democracy. But you, as business men, can better afford to take your chances with the people than with the politicians. There may be difficulties in explaining some complicated need to the thousands of voters, but the certainty that you will get an honest verdict overshadows that difficulty.

Your plan, therefore, should be to get a government that will be tremendously afraid of not pleasing the people and serenely indifferent to the wants of that little ruling class known as the politicians.

From an article on "How to Work for Charter Reform," by Richard S. Childs, in The American City for February, 1913.

Oldest Bell in America.

Anne, Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, who was born 245 years ago, was the giver of the first bell in America. This bell was recently unearthed underneath a stage in the Guild hall of Trinity church at Newport, R. I. It is three feet high and an arrow and inscription shows it to have been the present of Queen Anne.

It bears the date of 1702, which was the year in which Anne succeeded to the throne, following the death of William. Experts declare that it is undoubtedly the oldest bell in America, or, at least, in the Northern Continent. It is half a century older than Philadelphia's famed "Liberty Bell," which was cast in 1753. This was not the only bell given to the Newport church by Queen Anne, but the other was melted years ago and with other material cast into the large bell which is now in the tower of the church.

The two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Anne's birth will be celebrated a year hence, while the bi-centenary of her death will fall on August 1 of next year. She was the second daughter of James II. While her father and mother joined the Church of Rome, Anne was reared as a Protestant. In her twentieth year she married Prince George, brother of the king of Denmark. Anne was 35 when she became Queen. Her reign of a dozen years was crowded with events of vast importance for the British Empire and all Europe, and her name is associated with one of the greatest epochs in the history of English literature.

BETTER FARMING METHODS

INCREASED CORN YIELD RESULTS FROM PRIZE CONTEST OF TEXAS INDUSTRIAL CONGRESS.

ALFORD BRANCH "Champion Corn Grower of Texas."

167 1/2 Bushels on One Acre. Alford Branch is a wide-awake farmer boy living at Overton, Rusk County, Texas, who, by careful preparation of his land in the fall of 1911, so that it was in condition for the winter rains to sink in and to be stored for the use of the plant during the following season, carefully selected the best seed-corn that was grown in his section and by shallow and constant cultivation from the time the corn was a few inches high until it was actually mature, not only kept it free from weeds, but kept the surface for an inch and a half or two inches so finely pulverized that it acted as a mulch and prevented the loss of moisture by capillary attraction, has raised on one acre of second bottom land 167 1/2 bushels of corn at a cost of 13 cents per bushel. Rating the corn at the low price of 70 cents per bushel, there was a net profit of $95.35 from this acre. Adding to this the $250 prize money awarded him by the Texas Industrial Congress, makes a total of $345.35, which is the interest at 6 per cent upon $5,755.83, and represents the value of an intelligent combination of brains and work.

This young man broke his land in the early winter with a two-horse plow, cutting about six inches deep; followed in the same furrow with a team pulling what is known as a "bull-tongue" that cut ten inches further into the earth, but turned up no new soil, and formed a reservoir to hold the moisture as well as to aerate the land and make more plant-food available. He used five hundred pounds of commercial fertilizer that had been recom-pany in existence. One day a bright thought struck Harnden. "Do you know," he said to his friend, James W. Hale, "I think that I could make a living running errands for people between New York and Boston."

Hale chimed in with the idea. He himself was employed in the Hudson News room, at 1 Wall street. One of his duties was to fetch papers tri-weekly to the Boston boat on its tri-weekly trips. Besides the papers he carried consignments of money or parcels from persons who could not get down to the boats themselves. All these he would turn over to any reliable passenger who was willing to deliver them.

On the stage lines the drivers or the passengers were the parcel deliverers. No one ever thought of asking money for his services.

"Go ahead," advised Hale. "You ought to make money. I'll get you a lot of customers here in New York."

Harnden bought a couple of extra large carpet bags and announced that he was in the business of carrying parcels between New York and Boston or intermediate points, at low prices. His first announcement appeared in a Boston paper dated February 23, 1893. His offices were at 1 Wall street, New York, with his friend Hale, and at 9 Court street, Boston.

The "express" was for some time easily carried by Harnden in two valises, but he soon succeeded in obtaining the confidence of the business public. In a few months he was employing two messengers, one of them being Hale and the other a brother, Adolphus Harnden.

In 1840 the business was extended by a branch line to Philadelphia, and in the same year an international express was founded by Harnden in partnership with D. Brigham, Jr. In the same year Alvin Adams established another express line, also between Boston and New York. Other lines followed. In 1854 many of these companies amalgamated. Thus under its extant name of Adams Express company the services started by Harnden and Adams were consolidated.

Geo. S. McGhee Endorses I. Friedlander

It will be my pleasure to vote for I. Friedlander for commissioner, because he is progressive, capable and honest, and by his actions in the past has demonstrated his unselfish love for our beloved city and has neglected his personal affairs to push and boost Waco.

The young business element is entitled to a representative on the board of commissioners, and no more acceptable or worthy gentleman could be found than Mr. Friedlander in my opinion. GEO. S. MCGHEE. (Adv.)

The plans and preparations for the big celebration and veterans' reunion at Gettysburg, which will be held from July 1 to 4, are being rapidly pushed, and from all accounts the reunion of the blue and the gray will come up to the measure of success that was anticipated by the originators of the idea. It is stated that thus far thirty-eight Mississippi veterans who took part in the battle of Gettysburg have written to Adjutant General Bridge stating that they will attend the big celebration.

Health and Beauty Answers

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Cora S.: As your hair is short and thin and you have so much trouble to make it stay up and look neat, try shampooing it with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water. This shampoo is the one generally used by the best hair-dressers to make the hair look thicker and lustrous. It produces an abundant lather, dries quickly and not only cleans the hair and scalp well, but stops all irritation and gives the scalp a feeling of pleasing freshness. Canthrox makes a delightful shampoo and will make your hair soft and fluffy. You will have little trouble in making your hair look nice. Never use soap for shampooing, as it makes the hair brittle, harsh and takes away the glossy look. (A) To get rid of dandruff and stop falling hair, see reply to Gertrude J.

Meta D.: A delatone paste will remove the fuzz from your lip without danger or inconvenience. Just mix enough powdered delatone and water to cover the hairy surface, apply and after two or three minutes rub off, then wash the skin carefully. One application of delatone usually suffices excepting where the growth is quite thick or stubborn.

Grace: Long, curly lashes and thick, glossy eyebrows add greatly to personal beauty. Get a small original package of pyroxin from your druggist and with forefinger and thumb apply a little at eyebrows; also rub this a few times and you will have beautiful eyelashes and brows. Use care and don't get any pyroxin where no hair is wanted.

MADAM X.: Nature intended that all women should have voluptuous figures; and even though your bust is undeveloped, with the famous vaucaire treatment you can soon have a figure that is well rounded and pleasing to look upon. You can prepare the vaucaire treatment right in your own home by dissolving 1 lb. of sugar in 1 pint water. To this add 1 ounce yaloli and take of it 2 teaspoonfuls before meals. Keep up treatment until figure is properly developed.

It had a singular beginning. In January, 1812, William Frederick Harnden (1812-45) came down to New York for a short rest. As ticket master in the office of the Boston and Worcester railroad he had been worn out by sixteen hours of daily toil. Though at that time there were only 2,818 miles of railroad in the United States (all built within the previous ten years), the officials were cruelly overworked. There was no express company in existence. One day a bright thought struck Harnden. "Do you know," he said to his friend, James W. Hale, "I think that I could make a living running errands for people between New York and Boston."

Hale chimed in with the idea. He himself was employed in the Hudson News room, at 1 Wall street. One of his duties was to fetch papers tri-weekly to the Boston boat on its tri-weekly trips. Besides the papers he carried consignments of money or parcels from persons who could not get down to the boats themselves. All these he would turn over to any reliable passenger who was willing to deliver them.

On the stage lines the drivers or the passengers were the parcel deliverers. No one ever thought of asking money for his services.

"Go ahead," advised Hale. "You ought to make money. I'll get you a lot of customers here in New York."

Harnden bought a couple of extra large carpet bags and announced that he was in the business of carrying parcels between New York and Boston or intermediate points, at low prices. His first announcement appeared in a Boston paper dated February 23, 1893. His offices were at 1 Wall street, New York, with his friend Hale, and at 9 Court street, Boston.

The "express" was for some time easily carried by Harnden in two valises, but he soon succeeded in obtaining the confidence of the business public. In a few months he was employing two messengers, one of them being Hale and the other a brother, Adolphus Harnden.

In 1840 the business was extended by a branch line to Philadelphia, and in the same year an international express was founded by Harnden in partnership with D. Brigham, Jr. In the same year Alvin Adams established another express line, also between Boston and New York. Other lines followed. In 1854 many of these companies amalgamated. Thus under its extant name of Adams Express company the services started by Harnden and Adams were consolidated.

Geo. S. McGhee Endorses I. Friedlander

It will be my pleasure to vote for I. Friedlander for commissioner, because he is progressive, capable and honest, and by his actions in the past has demonstrated his unselfish love for our beloved city and has neglected his personal affairs to push and boost Waco.

The young business element is entitled to a representative on the board of commissioners, and no more acceptable or worthy gentleman could be found than Mr. Friedlander in my opinion. GEO. S. MCGHEE. (Adv.)

The plans and preparations for the big celebration and veterans' reunion at Gettysburg, which will be held from July 1 to 4, are being rapidly pushed, and from all accounts the reunion of the blue and the gray will come up to the measure of success that was anticipated by the originators of the idea. It is stated that thus far thirty-eight Mississippi veterans who took part in the battle of Gettysburg have written to Adjutant General Bridge stating that they will attend the big celebration.

Health and Beauty Answers

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Cora S.: As your hair is short and thin and you have so much trouble to make it stay up and look neat, try shampooing it with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water. This shampoo is the one generally used by the best hair-dressers to make the hair look thicker and lustrous. It produces an abundant lather, dries quickly and not only cleans the hair and scalp well, but stops all irritation and gives the scalp a feeling of pleasing freshness. Canthrox makes a delightful shampoo and will make your hair soft and fluffy. You will have little trouble in making your hair look nice. Never use soap for shampooing, as it makes the hair brittle, harsh and takes away the glossy look. (A) To get rid of dandruff and stop falling hair, see reply to Gertrude J.

Meta D.: A delatone paste will remove the fuzz from your lip without danger or inconvenience. Just mix enough powdered delatone and water to cover the hairy surface, apply and after two or three minutes rub off, then wash the skin carefully. One application of delatone usually suffices excepting where the growth is quite thick or stubborn.

Grace: Long, curly lashes and thick, glossy eyebrows add greatly to personal beauty. Get a small original package of pyroxin from your druggist and with forefinger and thumb apply a little at eyebrows; also rub this a few times and you will have beautiful eyelashes and brows. Use care and don't get any pyroxin where no hair is wanted.

MADAM X.: Nature intended that all women should have voluptuous figures; and even though your bust is undeveloped, with the famous vaucaire treatment you can soon have a figure that is well rounded and pleasing to look upon. You can prepare the vaucaire treatment right in your own home by dissolving 1 lb. of sugar in 1 pint water. To this add 1 ounce yaloli and take of it 2 teaspoonfuls before meals. Keep up treatment until figure is properly developed.

It had a singular beginning. In January, 1812, William Frederick Harnden (1812-45) came down to New York for a short rest. As ticket master in the office of the Boston and Worcester railroad he had been worn out by sixteen hours of daily toil. Though at that time there were only 2,818 miles of railroad in the United States (all built within the previous ten years), the officials were cruelly overworked. There was no express

Mrs. L.: What a shame to have wasted so much money in vainly trying to get rid of your fat. I have a formula that some of my close friends have tried with marvelous success. Here it is: Dissolve four ounces of parnotin in 1 1/2 pints hot water; when cold strain and take a tablespoonful of the liquid before each meal. This remedy will not injure your health or force you to starve yourself in order to get back your comely figure. It

TO EXCHANGE
$6,000 Manufacturing Plant. Will net you $9 per cent besides paying a good salary for managing. Will sell you this plant for $6,000. Will take in exchange a good farm, good residence in Waco, or vendor lien paper. Any property offered must be placed on actual cash basis, no inflated values will be received or submitted.

J. B. WOODY,
Royal Hotel.

YOU will never again have the opportunity to buy property in Waco at its present value. Of course, some exception will help to prove this. But there was a powerful example of this advance in values shown this past week, and that, too, at the expense of one of Waco's shrewdest buyers.

We are offering a few snags and will be glad of the opportunity to show you.

A five-room house in good repair on car line in north part. Will located in a desirable neighborhood. Rent for $25 per month; only $2250. A snag and will go at once.

Three south-front lots on Franklin street for $2400. Lots joining these on Austin avenue side, are selling at $1250 each.

Four south-front Ginnocchio Heights lots on auto speedway for $500 each. A new 5-room house on Herring avenue for $3500. Just the place for a home.

Call us up if you are in the market for a home or if you desire to speculate in vacant lots. We can show you the best buys.

Real Estate Broker, 404 Amicable.
Have you heard of anyone losing money on Real Estate in Waco purchased during the past three years? Has not every one you know of come out with a nice profit? Perhaps you thought a year ago that they had gotten prices too high, and yet they have gone higher, and are continuing to advance every day. Would it not be a good idea to invest your money in the advantage of some of this increase? To be sure there is no prospect of it getting cheaper.

I have a few choice pieces of improved business property at prices that are bound to make you a good profit in twelve months. Also good residential lots; also some choice bargains in improved residence property. Be glad to tell you about them.

THE NEW EASTER ATTIRE

Can Be Selected from Our Displays With Absolute Assurance of Correct Style and Highest Quality

Look where you will, it is not possible to find a more complete and comprehensive display of Women's and Misses' new Spring garments—Suits, Dresses, Waists and Skirts—than you will find on our second floor tomorrow. During the past week hundreds of new garments have come in by express—garments that are exclusive in style and designing. Dresses that are exact duplicates of the models originated by the noted American and European designers. New Suits in all the new weaves and colorings and a wonderful assortment of separate Waists and Skirts. Come tomorrow, if only to keep in touch with the latest that Fashion has decreed. We'll take pleasure in showing you the many new things whether you select at this time or not.

Never Such Variety of Models in Tailored Suits as There Is for Spring 1913

The New Tailored Suits are shown this spring in more different models than in any previous season. You can consult your individual tastes in the matter of color, fabric and style. The beauty and cleverness of the Suits at popular prices will surprise you. We never before secured quite such good values in point of style, fabric and workmanship as we have for the Spring season.

We feature for this week many new arrivals in the new Cutaway models and Gathered Skirts. These are of the finest imported materials as well as the new Bedford Cords, Mannish Worsteds, Eponges, Two-tone Stripes, Diagonals and Serges.

Prices Range from $22.50, $25, $29.75 and up

The Charm and Beauty of the New Spring Dresses Is Irresistible

Printed description or pictures cannot do justice to the beauty and elegance of the New Spring Dress Fashions, as in Suits there are more models, more variety of materials and shadings than ever before and the exclusiveness of our Dresses can only be appreciated by comparison. The materials used in the making of these handsome garments include Charmeuse in plain and Brocade, Eoleans, Crepe De Chines, Eponges in plain and striped effects, etc., but the more names of the materials do not convey their brilliance and exquisite beauty—you must see them. The Balkan and Turkish effects are carried out in many exclusive models; then there are the more simple, yet extremely pretty designs. Among the shades are Nell Rose, Taupe, New and Old Blue, Coffee Color, etc.

Prices range from 25.00 up

IMPORTANT DECISIONS

ARE EXPECTED TO BE HANDED DOWN BY FEDERAL SUPREME COURT.

Minnesota Rate Litigation and the Intermountain Cases Have Been Hanging Fire Long Time.

Washington, Feb. 22.—One or more decisions of unusual importance are expected to be handed down by the supreme court of the United States when the court reconvenes next Monday after a three weeks' recess. Again the prediction is being made that the decisions in the Minnesota rate cases and the Intermountain rate cases are at last forthcoming. Of the two cases most public interest is naturally attached to the so-called Minnesota case. The "Intermountain" or "Spokane" rate cases involve the constitutionality of the long and short haul amendment of 1910 to the act to regulate commerce, while the Minnesota case hinges upon the broad question of the power of a state to control the affairs of a company doing an interstate business. The supreme court's decision in this case promises to define more clearly the questionable dividing line between state and federal rights. It was a recognition of the importance of the case from the latter standpoint that caused it to be seriously discussed at the memorable conference of governors, held at Spring Lake, N. J., several years ago.

The Minnesota rate cases have been under advisement for a long time. They originated nearly seven years ago in the action of the Minnesota railway commission in ordering the railways in that state to make a number of rate reductions, including many of the commodity rates, and reductions amounting to a little more than 20 per cent on the average in the class rates.

An agreement was afterwards reached by the commission and the railways, by which agreement, in consideration of the commission withdrawing the commodity rates it had ordered, the railways agreed to the class rate ordered, accepting them as equitable. Notwithstanding this agreement, action was later taken against the agreed rates in the United States circuit court at St. Paul, the plaintiffs being, not the railway companies, but individual stockholders, the railway companies, however, financing the litigation and the railway lawyers conducting it. The result was a decision by Judge Sanborn that the class rates in Minnesota should revert to what they were before the 20 per cent reductions were made. The Minnesota railway commission appealed from the Sanborn decision to the supreme court of the United States. The decision of the highest tribunal in the Minnesota case will be of the greatest importance, both in its immediate bearing on the fortunes of the railways operating in that state and in its effect on the wider question of the right of a state legislature or commission to control the affairs of a company doing an interstate business. The decision will apply not only to the Minnesota case but also to a number of similar cases that have arisen in Kansas, Kentucky, West Virginia, Missouri and other states.

The railways predict with every appearance of genuine confidence that the principle of non-interference by the states with rates, or other matters in connection with the operation of railroads doing an interstate business, will be finally laid down by the highest tribunal. In other words, they expect that the decisive victory won by the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Minneapolis and St. Louis, when the legality of the rate reductions ordered by the state railroad and warehouse commission of Minnesota was passed upon by the judges of the circuit court, will be upheld by the supreme court of the United States.

Two Unusual Wills.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 22.—Two wills out of the ordinary have just been filed for probate in Harris county. That of Reinhold Ruffer, who succeeded recently, and who was long known as the "model janitor" of the Houston schools, left everything to Editor Warren of the Appeal to Reason. His estate is worth about $2,000. By will F. M. Poland, a retired member of the Houston bar, left his estate valued at $25,000, to Dr. F. M. Broyles, his family physician.

The organized working girls of Chicago have pledged themselves for one week to forego pie, picture shows, candy, carfare, ice cream sodas, dances. The money saved as the result of this seven-days' abstinence is to go to an organization fund to be expended in organizing the 125,000 working women of Chicago.

ICE—ICE

The season for ice will soon be upon us and we take this means of letting our friends and customers in Waco and the surrounding territory know that we are going to be better prepared than ever during the coming year for the ice business. We have been installing a lot of new and improved machinery during the winter months and have also increased the capacity of our plant so that we will be able to turn out 250 tons every 24 hours during the coming season. We expected to look after the wants of our customers to the very best of our ability by supplying them promptly and with the very best quality of ice.

Everything that it takes to manufacture ice has very materially increased in price in the last few years. Fuel oil has doubled in price in the past two or three years. Labor has increased from 25 to 50 per cent (our plant is all UNION LABOR); feed for our horses and everything pertaining to the business has very materially increased in price, yet we have not made any increase in the price of ice nor do we intend to do so; but we intend to adopt some new measures for the benefit of our business and patrons. In the first place we propose to see that our drivers give you full weight. We intend to have an inspector visit our customers and weigh the ice. Especially if a complaint has been made by a customer that they have not received full weight, and we further expect to see that they receive courteous treatment from our drivers. Our drivers have been with us for several years and have the reputation of being fair and courteous to their customers and we propose to see that they give full weights and courteous treatment to all of our patrons and we would appreciate the reporting of any short weights or inattention on their part.

We have found by experience that the credit business is a losing proposition in the ice business. As the old saying is, "It is almost an impossibility to collect ice bills in the winter time and coal bills in the summer time." For that reason from March 1, 1913, we propose to put our ice business on a Cash Basis. Our Solicitors will visit you from time to time, solicit your business and explain the matter more fully to you. By putting our business on a Cash Basis we will be able to save quite an expense that is now charged up to Loss and Gain account every year and this is about the only way we have of protecting ourselves against the increase in price of everything that goes to make ice, as stated above. We feel confident that when this matter is explained to you by our Solicitors you will agree with us that our point is well taken, and we hope to merit your patronage in the future as we have in the past.

Any favors extended us will be highly appreciated by Yours very truly,
GEYSER ICE COMPANY.

Buggy and Street Car Collide.
In a collision with a street car at Eighth and Austin streets yesterday morning at 10 o'clock Gabriel Winters was thrown from his buggy and slightly bruised. Roy Morse Cooley, his nephew, jumped in time to save himself from injury. Mr. Winters' fine driving horse was knocked down and dragged several feet. His buggy was slightly damaged.

The accident occurred when Mr. Winters was driving behind a west-bound car. His horse was struck by an east-bound car which he could not see for the other car.

St. Louis is soon to open its second open air school for tubercular children.
